
Contents

1	Brands in the Platform Economy	1
1.1	In the Shadow of Giants: Manufacturer Brands' Struggle in Platform-Dominated E-Commerce	1
1.2	Platform Ambitions of Established Brands	9
1.2.1	Transformation of Retailer Brands into Marketplaces	9
1.2.2	Brand Flagship Platforms by Manufacturer Brands	11
1.3	State of Research and Research Gap on Brand Flagship Platforms	15
1.4	Objective, Classification in Terms of Scientific Theory and Course of the Research Work	20
2	Theoretical Foundations and Conceptual Basis	23
2.1	Identity-Based Brand Management as a Theoretical Foundation	23
2.1.1	Brand Identity as the Self-Image of a Brand	27
2.1.2	Brand Image as the Consumer's Subjective Perception of a Brand	30
2.2	Digital Platforms: Perspectives For Retailer and Manufacturer Brands	32
3	Scale Development Process	41
3.1	Objective and Conception of the Scale Development Process	41
3.2	Methodological Foundations of Scale Development	42
3.3	Scale Development in the Context of Brand Flagship Platforms	45

3.3.1	Step 1: Conceptualization of Brand Flagship Platforms as a Construct	46
3.3.1.1	Commercial Exchange	46
3.3.1.2	Social Exchange	49
3.3.1.3	Self-Improvement	49
3.3.1.4	Epistemic Empowerment	52
3.3.1.5	Creative Empowerment	53
3.3.2	Step 2: Operationalization of Constructs and Item Generation	56
3.3.2.1	Item Generation	56
3.3.2.2	Content Validity Assessment	57
3.3.3	Step 3: Confirmation of Construct Validity	58
3.3.3.1	Pre-Study	58
3.3.3.2	Administration to Development Sample	61
3.3.3.2.1	Data Collection and Questionnaire Design	61
3.3.3.2.2	Return Rate Statistics and Data Cleaning	63
3.3.3.2.3	Descriptive Analysis of the Obtained Data Set	66
3.3.3.3	Results of Exploratory Factor Analysis	68
3.3.3.3.1	Evaluating the Suitability of the Data	68
3.3.3.3.2	Determining the Number of Factors	69
3.3.3.3.3	Factor Extraction and Interpretation	70
3.3.3.4	Results of Confirmatory Factor Analysis	73
3.3.3.4.1	Item Level Analyses	74
3.3.3.4.2	Construct Level Analyses	76
3.3.3.4.3	Model Fit Indices	77
3.3.4	Results of the Scale Development	79
4	Analysis of Behavioral Relevance of BFPs	83
4.1	Objective and Conception of the Relevance Analysis	83
4.2	Development of a Hypotheses Model	83

4.2.1	Selection of Depended Variables to Assess the Impact of Brand Flagship Platforms	83
4.2.1.1	Purchase Intention as a Manifestation of Behavioral Intentions	85
4.2.1.2	Brand Attachment as a Driver of Behavioral Intentions	86
4.2.2	Relationship Between BFP Benefits and Brand Attachment	93
4.2.3	Incorporation of Control Variables into Model	101
4.2.3.1	Self-Congruence as a Determinant of Brand Attachment	102
4.2.3.2	Perceived Brand Quality as a Determinant of Purchase Intention	104
4.2.4	Summary and Visualization of Final Research Model ...	106
4.3	Methodological Foundations of Structural Equation Modeling	107
4.4	PLS-SEM in the Context of Brand Flagship Platforms	111
4.4.1	Operationalization of the Latent Variables	111
4.4.1.1	Operationalization of the Independent Variables	111
4.4.1.2	Operationalization of the Dependent Variables	115
4.4.1.3	Operationalization of the Control Variables	117
4.4.2	Results of the PLS-SEM on Brand Flagship Platforms	118
4.4.2.1	Step 1: Assessment for Collinearity	119
4.4.2.2	Step 2: Assessment of Significances and Relevance of Structural Relationships	119
4.4.2.3	Step 3: Assessment of the Model's Explanatory Power	121
4.4.2.4	Step 4: Assessment of the Model's Predictive Power	123
4.4.3	Interpretation of the PLS-SEM Results	124
5	Conclusion, Reflection and Outlook	133
5.1	Summary of the Work	133
5.2	Managerial Implications	135

5.2.1	Implications for Strategic Brand Management	136
5.2.2	Implications for Operational Brand Management	143
5.3	Limitations of the Work and Implications for Further Research	155
References	161