

6 Foreword

8 I. A new morphology of the urban environment

- 12 Late 1950 to early 1960s. Returning to the experience of interwar Modernism
- 14 The first half of the 1960s. Identification of areas for integrated development
- 16 Comparison of the new urban micro-district structure with a cellular structure
- 18 Basic scheme of service and production networks for the new urban space
- 20 1960s. Enlargement of the scale of urban-planning form
- 28 NSE: the officially approved urban-planning alternative
- 32 1970s. The triumph of micro-district planning
- 42 1980s to early 1990s. The final stage of intensive urbanisation
- 46 Running towards the future

48 II. Progress of organisational culture and construction techniques

- 52 Late 1950s. The transition to prefabricated housing technologies
- 54 Late 1950s to mid-1960s. Large-panel construction in inner-city areas
- 60 Late 1960s to 1970s. Development of new areas with houses from Series 480A
- 64 Late 1970s to 1980s. Mass construction of houses from Series 96
- 68 1980s. Land reclamation
- 74 1980s. Experiments with tower blocks
- 76 1960s to 1990s. General dynamics of residential construction

80 III. Iconic objects of Zaporizhzhia Modernism

- 84 Palace of Pioneers and Schoolchildren, 1986
- 88 Zhovtnevyi / Dniprospetsstal Palace of Culture, 1977
- 94 Zonal Komsomol school, 1973
- 98 House of Soviets, 1977
- 104 Restaurant Lakhti, 1973
- 108 The complex of Zaporizhtsyvilproject Design Institute, 1978
- 112 Single-lock control tower, 1980
- 116 Youth Cultural Centre / House of Political Education, 1988
- 120 Restaurant Bezimennyi, 1974
- 124 Construction Bank, 1978

128 IV. The apartment as a focus of social transformation

- 130 Late 1950s to 1980s. Progressive impact of spatial transformation on social processes
- 136 1960s. Attempts by the state to direct processes in the individual apartment
- 140 Late 1960s to mid-1980s. Growth of prosperity and doubling of estimated living space

144	V. Transformation of consumer practices
146	Khrushchev's turbo-programme to improve citizens' welfare
152	1960s to 1970s. Formation of a basic network of service and trade enterprises
156	1960s to 1980s. Household innovations as a godsend
162	VI. Architecture of urban-planning ensembles
164	Central Boulevard: revision of the classical principles of the urban-planning ensemble
190	Pushkin Square: a composition intended to be seen in dynamic movement
208	VII. Creators of modern Zaporizhzhia
210	Yurii Biriukov
216	Tetiana Shchehlova
224	Svitlana Fomina
232	Serhii Prudkyi
238	Vadim Petrenko
246	Serhii Didenko
252	Yevhen Holoshchapov
256	Chronotopes
258	Kosmichnyi residential area
259	Khortytskyi residential area
262	Shevchenkivskyi residential area
265	Borodinskyi residential area
266	Pivdennyi residential area
269	Osypenkivskyi residential area
270	Visual sources