Table of contents

Part I – Introduction 1

1 Motivation of the research 3

2 Framing..... 7

2.1 Fundamentals of co-creation..... 8

2.2 Co-creation in the high-tech B2B domain 12

2.3 Theoretical lens: The problem-solving perspective 18

2.4 Research gaps and needs..... 21

3 Context of the research 25

4 Structure of the dissertation 31

Part II – Unmasking promising practices for co-creation in the high-tech domain 37

1 Needs and objectives..... 39

2 Theoretical underpinning 43

2.1 Underlying challenges: Co-creating high-tech products..... 43

2.2 A provider’s view on sticky information and promising practices 44

2.3 Practices-related research on co-creating high-tech products..... 46

3 Method and data48

3.1 Research approach 48

3.2 Sample and data 49

3.3 Data analysis 53

4 Findings..... 56

4.1 Building an open and trustful relationship 58

4.2 Avoiding incorrect specification..... 59

4.3 Adapting to different customer types..... 63

4.4 Creating physical spaces 65

5 Conclusions..... 68

5.1 Theoretical contributions	68
5.2 Managerial implications.....	70
5.3 Limitations	71
Part III – Exploring business customers’ value in co-creation.....	73
1 Needs and objectives.....	75
2 Theoretical underpinning	80
2.1 Perceived customer value.....	80
2.2 Sticky information and customer value in co-creation	80
2.3 Extant research on customer value in B2B co-creation	81
3 Method and data	85
3.1 Research approach	85
3.2 Sample and data	86
3.3 Data analysis	89
4 Findings.....	91
4.1 Openness	92
4.2 Playfulness	96
4.3 Self-fulfillment.....	100
5 Conclusions.....	103
5.1 Contribution to research.....	103
5.2 Managerial implications.....	105
5.3 Limitations and further research	106
Part IV – Designing a toolkit for the co-creation of high-tech products ...	107
1 Needs and objectives.....	109
2 Theoretical underpinning	114
2.1 Media richness and the co-creation of high-tech products.....	114
2.2 Toolkits for co-creating high-tech products.....	116
2.3 Problem definition.....	118

3	Method and data	119
3.1	Research approach	119
3.2	Sample and data	120
3.3	Data analysis	123
4	Design & artefact development	125
4.1	F1: Specifying the final use of the product	127
4.2	F2: Narrowing down customers' requirements.....	129
4.3	F3: Eliminating unfeasible combinations of properties	130
4.4	F4: Anticipating purchase intention.....	131
5	Demonstrating the toolkit	133
6	Evaluating the artefact.....	136
6.1	F1: Specifying the final use of the product	136
6.2	F2: Narrowing down customers' requirements.....	137
6.3	F3: Eliminating unfeasible combinations of properties	139
6.4	F4: Anticipating purchase intention.....	140
7	Conclusions.....	142
7.1	Contribution to research.....	142
7.2	Managerial implications.....	143
7.3	Limitations & further research	143
Part V – Summary and implications		145
1	Summary of studies	147
1.1	Summary of Part II: Promising practices	150
1.2	Summary of Part III: Customers' value	152
1.3	Summary of Part IV: Opportunities for toolkits	154
2	Contribution to research	156
2.1	Contribution to co-creation in the B2B high-tech domain.....	156
2.2	Contribution to problem-solving and sticky information	159
3	Avenues for further research.....	161
3.1	Toward a DART model for B2B co-creation.....	161

3.2 Designing a B2B toolkit for design-oriented customers	163
4 Managerial implications: six questions answered	164
5 Concluding remarks	167
5.1 Limitations	167
5.2 Final notes	169
