

Table of Contents

List of Illustrations	11
Acknowledgments	19
1. Introduction	21
2. Geography and the Society of Jesus: An Overview	41
Mission and the Production of Cartographic Knowledge	41
The Functions of Maps in Mission Contexts	46
Observing Nature for the Greater Glory of God	53
Mathematics, Astronomy, and Maps in Jesuit Education	60
Geographical Knowledge in the Jesuit Information System	64
3. Maps and Mission in the Amazon	69
The Kingdom of the Amazons: Depictions of the Amazon in European Maps of the Sixteenth to Early Eighteenth Centuries	69
Political Competition over the Amazon: Reports on Teixeira's Expedition and its Cartographic Reception	73
The Amazon Region between Measurable Unit and terra incognita	80
The Amazon as a Missionary Space	81
The Maynas Mission of the Society of Jesus, 1638–1768	84
Communication in the Contact Zone	95
4. Appropriation and Politics	107
Mapping the Province of Omagua (1689)	107
The Island Kingdom of the Omagua as a Topos in European Depictions of the Amazon	111
Collecting Information	113
Organizing Information	118
Practices of Appropriation: The Omagua Province Becomes a Mission Space	120
Maps as Political Argument: The Mapa Geographica del río Marañón ó Amazonas (1691)	126
Samuel Fritz's Journeys to Belém and Lima and the Genesis of his Map of the Amazon	129
From Island Kingdom to Frontier Zone: Political Conflicts Around the Omagua Province and its Neighboring Territories	139

Power and Powerlessness: Cartographic Knowledge as Political Argument	144
From Manuscript to Publication: Samuel Fritz's El gran Rio Marañon, o Amazonas (1707)	155
Cartographic Decoration and Political Rhetoric	158
Christian Iconography and Political Borders	162
Mapping God's Action in the World: Jesuit Martyrs and their Cartographic Representation	167
The British Reception of Samuel Fritz's Map of the Amazon	174
5. Experience and Geometry	179
Maps and Routes	179
The Mission as Infrastructure Space: Magnin's Map of the Province of Quito (1740)	180
The Perspective of the Itinerant Missionary	184
The Knowledge of Indigenous Actors	191
The Cartographic View "from Above"	200
6. Territoriality and the Space of Jesuit Identity	209
The New World as a Jesuit Administrative Space: Brentano's Provincia Quitensis Societatis IESU (1751)	209
The Genesis and Printing of Carlos Brentano's Map	213
The Province of Quito Visits Rome: Brentano and his Map as Representatives of the Provincia Quitensis	217
Visualizing Centralized Rule and the Jesuit Global Presence	220
From Europe to the Marañón: Travel Routes as Symbols of Jesuit Identity	225
The Formation of a Territorial and Regional Self-Image of the Provincia Quitensis	229
7. Ethnography and Apologetics	243
The Representation of the Indigenous Population in Franz Xaver Veigl's Map and Gründliche Nachrichten (1785)	243
Many Places, Many Actors: The Production of Veigl's Map between Maynas and Nuremberg	246
The Marañón and its Population in Maps, Texts, and Images: The Interaction of Various Media in Veigl's Gründliche Nachrichten	256
The Geographical Interest of the Linguists: The Reception of Veigl's Gründliche Nachrichten in Comparative Philology	266

Apologetics Between the Lines: The Maps of Franz Xaver Veigl and Juan de Velasco as Reflected in the Suppression of the Jesuit Order	271
8. Summary and Conclusions	293
Bibliography and Sources	299
Index	333