

Contents

1	Overview of Polyimide Dielectrics	1
	Mengyu Xiao and Jun-Wei Zha
1.1	Introduction	1
1.2	Structure Design of Polyimide	1
1.3	Fabrication of Polyimide	4
1.4	Applications of Polyimide	4
1.4.1	Capacitive Energy Storage	4
1.4.2	Electronic Devices	5
1.4.3	Electrical Engineering	6
1.4.4	Medical Materials	6
1.4.5	Environmental Protection	6
1.5	Summary and Outlook	6
	References	7
2	Structures and Properties of Polyimide Dielectric Materials	9
	Lei Zhai, Yi-Kai Wang, and Lin Fan
2.1	Introducing Polar Groups	10
2.1.1	Nitrile Group	10
2.1.2	Sulfonyl Group	15
2.1.3	Carboxylic Group	18
2.1.4	Pyridine and Urea Group	21
2.2	Introducing Non-Conjugated Structures	21
2.2.1	Aliphatic Structure	22
2.2.2	Cycloaliphatic Structure	25
2.3	Introducing Non-Coplanar Structures	28
2.3.1	Bulky Substituents	28
2.3.2	Spiro Structures	31
2.4	Introducing Crosslinking Structures	34
2.5	Summary and Outlook	38
	References	42

3	Processing Technology of Polyimide Dielectrics: From Experimental to Industrial Scale	47
	Xi Ren, Zhibin He, Shunqi Yuan, Zhenzhong Wang, Shujun Han, Yuexin Qi, and Jingang Liu
3.1	Introduction	47
3.2	PID Synthetic Chemistry	49
3.3	Processing Technologies for PIDs	53
3.3.1	PI Precursor Varnishes	53
3.3.2	PI Film Dielectrics	55
3.3.2.1	PI Films	55
3.3.2.2	PI Nanodielectric Films	58
3.3.3	Thermoplastic PI Dielectrics	61
3.3.4	PI Aerogel Dielectrics	65
3.4	Summary	67
	Acknowledgments	68
	Declarations	68
	References	69
4	Polyimide Dielectrics for High-Temperature Energy Storage	77
	Wenjie Huang, Wenshuai Zhao, and Jun-Wei Zha
4.1	Introduction	77
4.2	Key Characteristics and Mechanisms of Polyimide Dielectrics for Energy Storage	79
4.2.1	Dielectric Energy Storage Mechanism	79
4.2.2	Electrical Polarization and Dielectric Permittivity	80
4.2.3	Dielectric Breakdown Strength	81
4.2.4	Dielectric Loss	83
4.2.5	Breakdown Self-Healing Mechanism	85
4.3	Intrinsic Polyimide Dielectrics	86
4.3.1	Dipolar Glass Polyimide Dielectrics	86
4.3.2	Wide Bandgap Polyimide Dielectrics	87
4.4	All-Organic Polyimide Composite Dielectrics	89
4.4.1	Blended Polyimide-Based Composite Dielectrics	90
4.4.2	Polyimide-Based Composite Dielectrics Doped with Organic Semiconductors	90
4.4.3	All-Organic Multilayer Polyimide-Based Composite Dielectrics	90
4.5	Polyimide-Based Nanocomposite Dielectrics	92
4.5.1	Polyimide-Based Composite Dielectrics Doped with Nanofillers	92
4.5.2	Multilayer Polyimide-Based Nanocomposite Dielectrics	94
4.6	Self-Healing Polyimide Dielectrics	95
4.7	Conclusion and Perspective	96
	References	98

5	Polyimide Dielectrics with Low Dielectric Permittivity	105
	Xiaodi Dong and Jun-Wei Zha
5.1	Fundamental Principles for Low Dielectric Permittivity (Low- k)	105
5.2	Intrinsic Low- k PI	106
5.2.1	Introduction of Fluorinated Structures	107
5.2.2	Introduction of Alicyclic Rings or Steric Rigid Structures	107
5.2.3	Introduction of Other Special Structures	109
5.3	Low- k PI Composites	111
5.3.1	Introduction of Inorganic Functional Filler	111
5.3.2	Introduction of Organic Functional Fillers	113
5.4	Porous Low- k PIs	113
5.4.1	Phase-separation-induced Pores	114
5.4.2	Physically or Chemically Induced Pores	114
5.4.3	Introduction of Porous Fillers	115
5.4.3.1	Porous Inorganic Fillers	115
5.4.3.2	Porous Organic Fillers	117
5.4.3.3	PI Aerogel	118
5.5	Multifunctional Low- k PIs	120
5.6	Conclusion and Prospects	122
	References	123
6	High Thermally Conductive Polyimide Dielectrics	133
	Fan Wang, Gengbo Liu, and Jun-Wei Zha
6.1	Introduction	133
6.2	Intrinsic Thermally Conductive Polyimide	134
6.2.1	Molecular Chain Structure	135
6.2.2	Molecular Chain Orientation	137
6.2.3	Intermolecular Interaction	139
6.3	Filled Thermally Conductive Polyimide	140
6.3.1	Thermal Conductivity Mechanism of Polymer Composites	140
6.3.2	Effective Strategies for Improving Thermal Conductivity of Polyimide	141
6.3.2.1	Directional Structure Design	141
6.3.2.2	Non-directional Structural Design	144
6.3.2.3	Multi-Layer Structure Design	148
6.4	Multifunctionalization of Thermally Conductive Polyimides	151
6.4.1	Thermal Conductivity and EMI Shielding	151
6.4.2	Thermal Conductivity and Electrical Insulation	153
6.4.3	Thermal Conductivity and Low Permittivity	154
6.5	Conclusions and Outlook	155
	References	156

7	Polyimide Nanocomposites for Electromagnetic Interference Shielding	163
	Yuchao Li
7.1	Introduction	163
7.2	Theoretical	164
7.3	Nanofillers Used for PI Electromagnetic Shielding	168
7.3.1	Magnetic Fillers	168
7.3.2	Metals	169
7.3.3	MXene	170
7.3.4	Graphene	171
7.3.5	Carbon Nanotube	172
7.3.6	Other Fillers	173
7.4	Ternary Composites	174
7.4.1	PI/Conductive Components/Magnetic NPs	174
7.4.2	PI/Conductive Components with Diverse Dimensions	177
7.5	Structural Design	183
7.5.1	Metallized PI Fibric	183
7.5.2	Aerogel	183
7.5.3	Foam	184
7.5.4	Sandwich and Multilayer Film Structure	185
7.5.5	Anisotropic Structure	187
7.5.6	Gradient Conductive Structure	188
7.5.7	Other Structure	189
7.6	Future Development and Prospects	190
7.6.1	Ultralight, Ultrathin, and Ultraflexible	190
7.6.2	High Durability	191
7.6.3	Multifunctional EMI PI	191
7.6.4	Extreme Conditions	192
7.6.5	Recoverable or Shape Memory EMI PI	192
7.6.6	The Next 6G Technology	193
7.7	Summary	193
	References	194
8	Colorless Transparent Polyimides with Balanced Dielectric and Optical Properties	203
	Xiaojie He and Qinghua Lu
8.1	Introduction	203
8.2	Synthesis and Molecular Structure Design of PIs	204
8.3	Characterization and Evaluation of Properties	205
8.4	Advanced Design Strategies for Fabricating High-Transparency Low-Dielectric PIs	206
8.4.1	Introduction of Fluorine Functional Groups	207
8.4.2	Monomers Containing Cycloaliphatic Structures	211
8.4.3	Monomers with Bulky and Pendant Substituents	214
8.4.4	Monomers with Non-coplanar Structures	216

8.4.5	The Influence of Silicon-Based Particles	218
8.4.6	Porous and Composite Structures in PIs	222
8.4.7	Polyimide Research Driven by Molecular Simulation and Data Science	223
8.5	Summary and Outlook	226
	References	227
9	Polyimide Dielectrics in Extreme Environment	237
	Yuhuai Wang and Jin Li
9.1	Atomic Oxygen Erosion Mechanism of Polyimide	238
9.1.1	Atomic Oxygen Formation and Characteristics	238
9.1.2	Atomic Oxygen Erosion Mechanism of Polyimide	238
9.2	Atomic Oxygen Protection Technology for Polyimide	240
9.2.1	Material Modification Protection	241
9.2.2	Surface Protection	242
9.3	Example of Atomic Oxygen Erosion Protection	243
9.3.1	Example of Protection Against Atomic Oxygen Erosion on the International Space Station (ISS)	243
9.3.2	Example of Protection Against Atomic Oxygen Erosion in the Core Module of the Chinese Space Station Tianhe	243
9.4	Summary	244
	References	245
10	Smart Polyimide Dielectrics	247
	Deyan Kong, Yu Kang, Shuting Jiang, Hongxia Xie, Pengjie Wu, Ying Jiang, Yueheng Qiao, and Xinli Xiao
10.1	Introduction	247
10.2	Shape Memory Polymer	248
10.2.1	Introduction of Shape Memory Polymer	248
10.2.2	The Shape Memory Molecular Mechanism	249
10.2.3	Shape Memory Performance Test	250
10.3	Heat-driven SMPI	251
10.4	Remote-driven SMPI	253
10.4.1	Electrical-driven SMPI	253
10.4.2	Optically-driven SMPI	254
10.5	Self-healing Polyimide	256
10.5.1	Introduction of Self-healing	256
10.5.2	Development Status of Self-healing Polyimide	259
10.5.2.1	External Self-healing Polyimide	259
10.5.2.2	Intrinsic Self-healing Polyimide	261
10.6	SMPI-based Flexible Optical/Electronic Devices	263
10.7	Smart Polyimide Foam	265
10.7.1	Electromagnetic Interference Shielding Performance of Polyimide-Based Foams	267
10.7.2	Sensing Performance of Polyimide-Based Foams	268

10.8	Atomic-Oxygen-Resistant Polyimide Films with Shape Memory Function	269
10.8.1	Mechanism of Atomic Oxygen Formation and Its Role in Polymers	270
10.8.2	Atomic Oxygen Resistance Modification of Polyimide	271
10.8.2.1	Surface Modification Techniques	272
10.8.2.2	Bulk Phase Modification Techniques	272
	References	275
	Index	279