

Contents

Preface to Handbooks of Communication Science series — V

Introduction

Anabela Carvalho and Tarla Rai Peterson

1 Rethinking environmental communication scholarship — 3

Part I: Research field

A: Development and challenges of environmental communication

Gregg B. Walker, Miriah M. Russo Kelly, and Yanni Ma

2 Environmental communication as a field for investigation and action — 23

Alison Anderson

3 Advancing the environmental communication field: A research agenda — 47

B: Epistemologies and research paradigms

Danielle Endres, Jessie Chaplain, and Nicolas Hernandez

4 Rhetorical approaches to environmental communication — 71

Dara M. Wald

5 Exploring the potential for quantitative environmental communication to support social change — 89

José Castro-Sotomayor and Melissa M. Parks

6 Ethnographic iterations and seeds of possibilities in environmental communication research — 109

Cristián Alarcón-Ferrari

- 7 Environmental communication as epistemological struggle: Knowledge, ideology, and political ecology — 129

Pieter Maesele

- 8 Post-foundationalism and post-politics in critical environmental communication scholarship — 147

Part II: Perspectives

A: Arenas

Jill E. Hopke

- 9 Tweeting on a rapidly warming planet: Environmental communication social media research — 171

Ines Lörcher, Stefanie Walter, and Michael Brüggemann

- 10 Negotiating the norms of science communication: Blogs by climate scientists and journalists — 191

Dominic Ayegba Okoliko and Martin Petrus de Wit

- 11 Analysing climate change communication in African countries: Scales, frames, and claims-makers in media from South Africa, Nigeria, and Kenya — 215

Eloisa Beling Loose

- 12 Climate change coverage under the lens of alternativeness — 241

B: Voice

Shane Gunster, Robert Neubauer, and Ryland Shaw

- 13 Sourcing matters: Voices in progressive alternative media — 259

Stacey K. Sowards

- 14 Voice and environmental communication: Indonesian women's conservation advocacy — 283

Carla Malafaia and Maria Fernandes-Jesus

- 15 Communication in youth climate activism: Addressing research pitfalls and centring young people’s voices — 303

Tema Milstein, Joanne Marras Tate, Gretchen Miller, Mariko Oyama Thomas, and Deniz Yildiz

- 16 The more-than-human world in environmental communication: Attunement for transformation — 323

C: Place

Damon M. Hall

- 17 The authority of place — 345

Paulami Banerjee

- 18 Re(integrating) the public in “public” participation processes in East Sikkim, India — 361

Bárbara Cosenza and Anabela Carvalho

- 19 Representing Amazonia: Perspectives from the Global North and the Global South — 383

Part III: Futures

A: Social change: Constraints and possibilities

Victoria Wibeck

- 20 A communication perspective on societal transformations towards sustainability — 409

Andrea Feldpausch-Parker, Kayla Smith, Anke van Kempen, and Karin Limburg

- 21 When resiliencies collide: How Luhmann’s theory of social systems can be utilized to think through climate resiliency planning — 429

Cathrine Schrøder Dethlefsen and Hans Peter Hansen

- 22 On wolves and commons: Steps towards local deliberation and social learning in wildlife management — 449

Mónica Truninger

23 Environmental communication, social practices, and food system transformation — 463

Matthew Burke

24 Low-tech energy for essential, accessible, ecological transitions — 483

B: Open questions

Hanna Bergeå and Lars Hallgren

25 Investigating the untapped potential of disagreements — 501

Ashleigh M. Day and Madrone Kalil Schutten

26 Embracing grief in a climate-changed world: Learning to cope with loss and companioning with Earth — 521

Ulrika Olausson

27 Deep sustainability and the tyranny of duality — 539

Conclusion

Anabela Carvalho and Tarla Rai Peterson

28 Reclaiming openness in ways of knowing — 553

Author biographies — 559

Index — 567