

Contents

Acknowledgments — VII

A Note On Translation — XV

Glossary: Spellings and Usage — XVII

Introduction — 1

Making Sense of Colonial Intermediaries — 6

Colonial Urbanism from the Middle — 12

Archival and Published Sources — 17

Chapter Overview — 23

Chapter 1

German Variations of Colonial City Building in Africa, 1884–1919 — 27

German Colonial Cities in Sub-Saharan Africa — 27

Douala as Colonial Dual City — 30

Colonial Violence and Forced Urbanization — 34

Lomé as Model Colonial Planning? — 37

Daressalam: Contradictions of Difference and Distance — 40

Conclusion — 42

Chapter 2

Nineteenth-Century East African Urbanism: Between Narrative and Reality — 44

Imperial Narratives of Mzizima — 46

East Africa and Coastal Networks, 1800–1850 — 53

East Africa and Urban Expansion, 1850–1870 — 60

Conclusion — 65

Chapter 3

Late Nineteenth-Century Daressalam: Narratives of Ruin and Imperial Destruction — 67

Imperial Narratives of Daressalam — 67

Conflicts around Construction in Mzizima-Daressalam, 1870–1884 — 73

Conflicts of Interest and the Destruction of the Dual Settlement, 1885–1889 — 76

Conclusion — 84

Chapter 4

Building the Colonial State: Military Practice and Colonial Intermediaries in Constructing the Military-Bureaucratic City, 1890–1895 — 87

Building the Colonial State — 87

Land Ownership and Forced Resettlement — 90

The Military-State Complex — 93

Authoritarian Planning and Road Construction — 96

From Mzizima to Government Garden Town — 101

Conclusion — 105

Chapter 5

Public Health and Sanitation as Supporting Structures of Segregation, 1891–1900 — 107

Infrastructures of Colonial Health — 107

Sewa Hadji Hospital for “Coloureds” — 110

A Hospital for Europeans — 113

Sanitizing African Spaces — 117

Containing African Mobility — 120

Medical Assistants and Boundary Crossing — 122

Conclusion — 124

Chapter 6

South Asian Agitation and African Resistance: Colonial Planning Discord, 1900–1906 — 127

Collaboration, Agitation, Resistance — 127

The “Indian Question”: Between Collaboration and Resistance in Urban Space — 130

Struggle for the Business District — 133

Planning for Kurasini and a new Daressalam — 134

African Resistance and Colonial Discord in Daressalam — 140

Conclusion — 143

Chapter 7

Askari Building Police: Surveillance, Boundaries, and African Quarters, 1905–1911 — 145

Post-1905 Strategies of Surveillance and Control — 145

Maji Maji War and Impact on the City — 147

The Maji Maji War and Political Culture — 153

African Police and the “Native Quarter” — 157

Askari Police and Colonial Contradictions — 165

Conclusion — 171

Chapter 8

The Death Zone and Violence of Order, 1911-1914 — 173

Origins of the Death Zone — 173

The Death Zone and Sanitation Syndrome — 176

The Death Zone and State Power — 181

White Supremacy, Colonial Consensus, and Urban Planning — 192

End of the Planning Process and the July 1914 Building Ordinance — 200

Conclusion — 205

Colonial World in the East African City — 209

Bibliography — 213

List of Figures — 237

Abbreviations — 239

Index — 241