

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1. Introduction	1
2. Theorizing the Post-Apocalypse	9
2.1. Post-Apocalyptic Fiction: An Overview	9
2.1.1. Apocalypse through the Ages	10
2.1.1.1. Biblical Beginnings	10
2.1.1.2. Secularization	14
2.1.1.3. Contemporary Apocalypses	18
2.1.2. Framing Post-Apocalypse	22
2.1.3. Approaching Genre	24
2.2. Trauma and Narrative in Post-Apocalyptic Fiction	27
2.2.1. Trauma Models	28
2.2.2. Trauma and Narrative	34
2.2.3. Trauma in the Three-Phase Model of the Post-Apocalypse	36
3. Worlds Falling Apart: The Apocalyptic Moment	39
3.1. Types of Catastrophes	40
3.1.1. Pandemic	42
3.1.2. Zombies	45
3.1.3. Systemic Collapse	48
3.1.4. Nuclear Destruction	50
3.1.5. Elusive Catastrophe	52
3.2. Facing the End	54
3.2.1. Pre-Apocalyptic Worlds	55
3.2.2. Reacting to the Apocalypse	59
3.2.3. Media Perspectives	62
3.3. Narrating the Apocalypse	66
3.3.1. Structure and Literary Style	66
3.3.2. Narrative Perspectives	70
3.3.3. Intertextuality and Metafiction	72

4. Negotiating the Shattered Present: Surviving in the Post-Apocalyptic World	77
4.1. Ruins and Remains	78
4.1.1. Collapsed Pre-Apocalyptic Modernity	79
4.1.2. Disrupted Space and Time	84
4.1.3. Flourishing Nature	89
4.2. Survival and Survivors	93
4.2.1. Survivor Figures	94
4.2.2. Roaming through Trauma	100
4.2.3. Language and Identity	104
4.3. Traces of the Past	109
4.3.1. Dimensions of Memory	110
4.3.2. Treasuring Objects	115
4.3.3. Documenting History	120
5. Rearranging Fragments: Post-Apocalyptic Beginnings	127
5.1. Rebuilding Society	127
5.1.1. Foundations of Post-Apocalyptic Communities	128
5.1.2. Opposing an Other	134
5.1.3. Political Institutions	139
5.2. Shaping New Beginnings	143
5.2.1. Next Generations	143
5.2.2. Preserving and Creating Art	148
5.2.3. Finding Coping Mechanisms	154
5.3. (Re)Building Frameworks	157
5.3.1. Making Sense through Religion	158
5.3.2. Surpassing Anthropocentrism	163
5.3.3. Visions of the Future	166
6. Summary and Conclusion	173
Works Cited	179