

Table of Contents

Introduction

Objects in Frames	9
Frames and Framings: Transcultural Approaches and Case Studies	9
Studying Objects (and Texts): The Frameworks of Research	14
Likening the Foreign to the Familiar: The Frames of Comparison and Display	19
 1
Porcelain in Frames: The Europeanization of Chinese Ceramics through Sixteenth-Century Metal Mounts	25
Social Frames: Economic and Personal Implications	26
Framing the Centerpiece: Metal Mounts as parerga	31
Staging Artifacts through Chinese Mounts and Object Supports	42
Conclusion: Frames of Appropriation: The Europeanization of Chinaware	50
 2
Staging the Foreign: Global Arts at Emperor Kangxi's Observatory	53
Objects in Frames: An Iconographical Analysis of the Stand	56
Attribute, parergon , tai and zuo : Conceptualizing the Chinese Stand	66
The Frames of Translation: Sino-European Visual and Material Culture	77
Conclusion: The Frame in Context: Emperor Kangxi Staging the Foreign	84

3	Framing Foreign Nature: Coral Fragments between Form and Figure, Potential Images and Potential Spaces	87
	Fragment in Frames: Coral in Cabinets, Cases and Covers	93
	Framing Potential Images: Coral in Mounts	98
	The Frames of Modification: Coral between Form and Figure	107
	Visions of “Ethiopia”: Framing Coral’s Origin as a Potential Space	116
	Conclusion: Framing Foreign Nature: Coral between Form and Figure, Potential Images and Potential Spaces	123
4	Curating Foreign Nature: Coral Specimens on Display in Late Ming Visual and Material Culture	127
	Mapping the Empire	129
	In Between Spaces	137
	In Between Art and Nature: The Aesthetics of Coral	144
	Coral as qi	152
	Conclusion: The Golden Valley Garden or Coral Fences in Scholar’s Paradise	153
	Epilogue: A Rarity in Between: Coral on Display in Two Different Cultures	157
	Conclusion: Displaying Collectibles in Early Modern China and Europe	163
	Objects in Frames	163
	Images of Collecting: Motifs and Surfaces	165
	Frames of Performance: Open-Air Platforms and Curtain-Veiled Stages	175
	Endnotes	179
	Sources and References	209
	Photo Credits	237
	Index	243