

Table of Contents

1. Introduction: Regeneration as a Solution to Global Problems	17
2. Theoretical Background: Business Model Innovation for Regeneration	20
2.1 Regeneration as a New Paradigm in Business	20
2.1.1 Current State of Literature on Regeneration	20
2.1.2 Characteristics and Key Qualities of Regenerative Systems	22
2.1.3 Regenerative Business Models and Approaches	27
2.2 Business Model Innovation	31
2.2.1 Current State of Literature on Business Model Innovation	31
2.2.2 Defining Business Model Innovation from a Process Perspective	32
2.3 Business Model Innovation in the Context of Sustainability and Regeneration	36
3. Methodology: Qualitative Semi-Structured Interviews	39
3.1 Selection of the Appropriate Research Design	39
3.2 Selection and Presentation of Interview Partners	41
3.3 Data Collection Through Semi-Structured Expert Interviews	44
3.4 Structured Data Analysis	45
4. Results and Discussion: How Companies Manage the Move Towards Regenerative Business Approaches	48
4.1 Initial and Current Company Position Regarding Regeneration	48
4.2 Changes Within the Companies Throughout the Process	51
4.3 Process Model for BMI Towards Regenerative Business Strategies	53
4.4 Challenges and Enablers of BMI Towards Regenerative Business Approaches	69
4.5 Stakeholder Collaboration for Creating a Regenerative Company Environment	73
4.6 Differences Between Change Towards Regeneration and Other Changes	75
5. Concluding Remarks and Implications for Business Practice	77
List of References	81
Appendix	87