

Table of Contents

Claudia Maria Hofmann / Tania Bazzani

Introduction: resilience and the welfare state in a polycrisis era 9

I. Conceptualization of resilience

Henrik Thorén

Resilience and the welfare state 21

Teppo Eskelinen

Risk society, social transformation and ideas of the welfare state 43

II. New risks and welfare state

Edoardo Ales

The welfare state between retrenchment & resilience:
an integrated approach to social protection 69

Katharina Bohnenberger

Social protection of eco-social risks:
A proposal for a European Environmental Risk Insurance Scheme 89

III. Planetary boundaries and the welfare state

Frank Nullmeier

The Sufficient, the Reasonable and the Too Much.
Three guidelines for a resilient welfare state 115

Andrea E. Schmidt, Katharina Brugger, Ernest Aigner

Climate resilience of the health system:
the case of the Austrian conservative welfare state 135

IV. Inclusive resilience

Felix Würkert
Bouncing back? Resilience and models of disability	161
Donya Gilan and Thomas Rigotti
Strategies for strengthening resilience in the societal integration of migrants: challenges and perspectives	185

V. Application of resilience concepts

Michele Bertani
Resilient citizens, resilient communities. Insights from explorative research on older people living with frailty	215
Yutaka Sato
Vocational training as a neoliberal means of inclusive resilience: capitalist discipline and masculinity among low-income youths in urban India	239

VI. Participation to society and resilience

Claudia Maria Hofmann
Developing proactive social protection policies: implications of the salutogenic model of health	269
Tania Bazzani
Resilient social insurance in case of unemployment: vulnerable self-employed workers within the EU. Three national cases	293
List of Authors (alphabetical order)	323