

Table of Contents

|                                                                           |     |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Preface .....                                                             | VII |
| Introduction .....                                                        | 1   |
| 1. Cultural Memory .....                                                  | 2   |
| 2. Method and Structure .....                                             | 5   |
| Chapter One                                                        |     |
| A Theory of Cultural Memory: Memory, Intertextuality,and Agency ..... | 11  |
| 1. Theorists .....                                                        | 12  |
| 1.1. Maurice Halbwachs: Collective Memory .....                           | 12  |
| 1.2. Jan Assmann and Aleida Assmann: Cultural Memory .....                | 14  |
| 1.2.1. Communicative and Cultural Memory .....                            | 15  |
| 1.2.2. Characteristics of Cultural Memory .....                           | 16  |
| 1.3. Ann Swidler: Culture as Use .....                                    | 19  |
| 1.4. Jeffrey Olick: The Path-Dependence of Cultural Memory .....          | 21  |
| 2. Literature as a Site of Memory .....                                   | 24  |
| 3. Intertextuality and Agency .....                                       | 27  |
| 4. Remembering and Forgetting .....                                       | 30  |
| 5. Cultural Memory in Biblical Studies .....                              | 35  |
| 5.1. Memory, Not History .....                                            | 37  |
| 5.2. Identity .....                                                       | 40  |
| 5.3. Diachronic Approach .....                                            | 44  |
| 6. The Scribal Turn .....                                                 | 46  |
| Chapter Two                                                        |     |
| Canon: Intertextuality in Exodus 34:11–17 .....                           | 49  |
| 1. Allusion as an Act of Remembering .....                                | 50  |
| 2. Relative Date of Exodus 34:11–26 .....                                 | 52  |
| 3. Exodus 34:11–14, 15–16, 17 .....                                       | 54  |
| 3.1. Prologue to Deuteronomy and the Decalogue: Exodus 34:11–14 ..        | 54  |
| 3.2. Canaanite Ritual Objects and Images of Gods .....                    | 56  |

|                                                                 |    |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 3.3. Whoring and Prophetic Influence: Exodus 34:15–16 . . . . . | 63 |
| 3.4. The Golden Calf: Exodus 34:17 . . . . .                    | 65 |
| 4. Canon as a Site of Memory . . . . .                          | 66 |

Chapter Three

|                                                                             |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Isaiah the Seer: Metaphor and Temporality in Isaiah 2 . . . . .             | 71  |
| 1. Composition and Structure . . . . .                                      | 73  |
| 2. Old Poem: Isaiah 2:10.12–17* . . . . .                                   | 81  |
| 3. “Revision through Introduction” (and Conclusion) . . . . .               | 86  |
| 3.1. Expansion Scribe: Isaiah 2:6–9.11.12b.13a $\beta$ .18–21 . . . . .     | 88  |
| 3.2. Deuteronomistic Shadow Text . . . . .                                  | 94  |
| 4. Isaiah the Seer: Temporality between Utterance and Fulfillment . . . . . | 97  |
| 5. Conclusion . . . . .                                                     | 104 |

Chapter Four

|                                                                                                                |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Divine History: Ambiguity and Resolution in 1 Samuel 13–15 . . . . .                                           | 109 |
| 1. Composition History . . . . .                                                                               | 112 |
| 1.1. 1 Samuel 13–14 . . . . .                                                                                  | 113 |
| 1.2. Two Texts Commonly Seen As Secondary . . . . .                                                            | 117 |
| 1.2.1. 1 Samuel 14:32–35 . . . . .                                                                             | 117 |
| 1.2.2. 1 Samuel 14:47–51 . . . . .                                                                             | 122 |
| 1.3. 1 Samuel 15 . . . . .                                                                                     | 125 |
| 1.4. Conclusion to the Composition History . . . . .                                                           | 127 |
| 2. Saul as a Yahwist: 1 Samuel 13:2–14:52 Prior to the Insertions . . . . .                                    | 127 |
| 2.1. 1 Samuel 11:1–13 . . . . .                                                                                | 127 |
| 2.2. Michmash Part I: 1 Samuel 13:2–14:23a* . . . . .                                                          | 128 |
| 2.3. Michmash Part II: 1 Samuel 14:23b–51 . . . . .                                                            | 132 |
| 3. Saul Rejected . . . . .                                                                                     | 135 |
| 3.1. Saul’s Dynastic Rejection: 1 Samuel 13:4b $\beta$ .7–15a $\alpha$ *. מן הגלגלin 15a $\beta$ . . . . . | 135 |
| 3.2. Saul’s Personal Rejection: 1 Samuel 15 . . . . .                                                          | 137 |
| 4. Reading the Composite: Gaps and Ambiguities . . . . .                                                       | 140 |
| 5. Conclusion: Divine History as a Site of Memory . . . . .                                                    | 145 |

|                      |     |
|----------------------|-----|
| Conclusion . . . . . | 149 |
|----------------------|-----|

|                        |     |
|------------------------|-----|
| Bibliography . . . . . | 159 |
|------------------------|-----|

|                                   |     |
|-----------------------------------|-----|
| Index of References . . . . .     | 175 |
| Index of Modern Authors . . . . . | 181 |
| Index of Subjects . . . . .       | 183 |