
Contents

1	Introduction	1
2	Background Situation in European Host Countries	9
2.1	Italy, Germany, Sweden	12
3	Theoretical Framework	23
3.1	Nussbaum's Conceptualisation of Human and Social Sciences	23
3.2	Education in Arab-Islamic Studies	27
3.3	A Post-metaphysic Approach to Religion: Habermas and the Islamic Tradition	31
3.4	The Habitus Transmitted by Education Systems	33
3.5	Identity Obsession and Imagined Communities	35
4	Methodology	41
4.1	The Empirical Research Design	45
4.1.1	Interview Sampling Procedure	47
4.1.2	Interviews' Guideline and Procedure	54
4.1.3	Data Collection within the PARENTable Project	57
4.2	Data Analysis	60
5	Historical and Cultural Background of Arab Educational Systems	63
5.1	Traditional Education: The Classification of Sciences and the Role of the Humanities	63

5.1.1	Structures and Models of the Traditional Education System	67
5.1.2	Sufi Education and the Relationship with Otherness Inside Islam	73
5.1.3	Education between Arab and Ottoman Empires. Focus on Syria and Morocco	76
5.2	The Emergence of Modern Independent National Education Systems	80
5.2.1	The Modernisation of Education inside the Ottoman Empire	81
5.2.2	Arab Theories of and Attempts at Independent Education Systems	84
5.2.3	Education under Colonialism. The Selectiveness of the Foreign Powers	95
5.2.3.1	French Colonies (Including Morocco and Syria)	102
5.3	Independent National Arab Education Systems	111
5.3.1	Socialist Education. Building Citizenship Through Humanities	112
5.3.2	Globalisation, Scientist Breakthrough, and Radicalisation	119
5.3.3	Case Study: Syria	132
5.3.3.1	Radicalisation, Globalisation and the Arabisation of Minorities	135
5.3.3.2	The New Millennium: Scientist Breakthrough, Liberalisation, and 2011 Revolution	142
5.3.4	Case Study: Morocco	149
5.3.4.1	Globalisation, Scientific Breakthrough, Religious Issues and Minorities' Rights	153
5.3.4.2	Education Today: Public/Private Dichotomy and Selectiveness	162
5.4	The Interviewees' Experiences of the Influence of Arab Educational History	164

6	Economy and Social Structures of Education Systems: Public/Private Dichotomy, Channelling, Selectiveness and the Classification of Sciences	175
6.1	Arab Countries	176
6.2	Europe	190
6.3	Teaching Methods, Attitudes and Relationship with Families	197
7	Religion	211
7.1	Arab Schools	211
	7.1.1 Religious Differences and Tolerance	220
	7.1.2 Religion and Sciences	230
7.2	Europe	233
8	Humanities	245
8.1	Arab Countries	245
	8.1.1 Geography	250
	8.1.2 History	254
	8.1.3 Civic, National or Nationalistic Education	265
	8.1.4 Philosophy	275
8.2	Europe	282
8.3	Focus on Colonialism	288
9	Gender Issues	299
10	Minorities and Languages Issues	309
10.1	Language	321
10.2	Relationship between Pupils	329
10.3	Racism, Discrimination and Tolerance in and towards Teachers	339
11	Identities and Belongings	351
12	Conclusions and Further Research	361
12.1	Reflections and Recommendations about Education in Europe.	373
	References	379