

Contents

Łukasz Kumięga / Małgorzata Godlewska / Silvia Bonacchi
From COVID-19 Discourses to Anti-Vax Discourse: Contexts, Social and Socio-Scientific Positioning, and the Reversal of Epistemic (B)orders . . . 7

Metadiscursive Considerations

Ingo H. Warnke
Vaccinated with Essayistic Words Against Flag-Waving Discourses –
Traces of a Refusal 23

Marek Czyżewski
Communicative Aspects of Conspiracy Theories 37

Thomas Niehr
What Linguistics Has to Say about Conspiracy Theories 73

Discourse and Epistemic (B)orders

Giampietro Gobo
The Decline of Trust towards Scientists after COVID-19. A Pilot Study in the Italian Context 89

Enrico Campo / Luca Serafini
COVID-19, Mass Media, and Science Communication: The Case of Conflicts between Scientists in Italy 109

Niccolò Bertuzzi / Elisa Lello
Back to Functionalism? Capturing Language and Pathologising Dissent:
from Environmental Movements to Protests against Pandemic
Policies 123

Local Perspectives

Łukasz Kumięga
Right-Wing Extremism and Vaccine Opponents / Corona Deniers in Germany: An Outline of Postlinguistics 151

Małgorzata Godlewska
Discursive Strategies in Anti-COVID-19 Vaccine Online Publications:
A Case Study 169

Silvia Bonacchi
Haters in the Vaccination Conflict in Italy: A Study of Selected Posts on Telegram, YouTube, Twitter and Facebook 191

Bionotes 209