

Contents

VIII. AT THE PARTING OF WAYS OF POSTMETAPHYSICAL THINKING: HUME AND KANT	1
1. Hume's Deconstruction of the Theological Heritage of Practical Philosophy	13
(1) Basic concepts of empiricist theory of knowledge	16
(2) Anthropology of religion and religious scepticism	20
(3) The psychological analysis of natural causality	30
(4) The deconstruction of the basic concepts of practical philosophy	34
2. The Anthropological Explanation of Law and Morality	43
(1) An emotivist explanation of the virtues	46
(2) The utility of social virtues	50
(3) The problematic transition from attractive values to obligatory norms	53
(4) The deflation of the normative and the denial of the problem of rational law	58
3. Kant's Answer to Hume: The Practical Meaning of the Transcendental Turn and its Background in the Philosophy of Religion	62
(1) The transcendental ego and the reconstruction of its operations	72
(2) Critique and appropriating translation of the Lutheran heritage	78

4. The Postmetaphysical Justification of an Inherent Interest of Reason	88
(1) From theoretical to practical philosophy: concept of autonomy and mode of validity of moral obligation	90
(2) Rational faith and the motivational weakness of rational morality	100
(3) Critique of the doctrine of postulates and the idea of the ethical commonwealth	104
(4) The interest of reason in the cosmopolitan condition	109
(5) Preview of motifs of Kant criticism	114
IX. LINGUISTIC EMBODIMENT OF REASON: FROM SUBJECTIVE TO 'OBJECTIVE' MIND	119
1. Political, Economic, Cultural and Scientific Impulses for a Paradigm Shift	126
(1) The two constitutional revolutions and the theory of human rights	131
(2) Industrial capitalism and political economy	138
(3) Historical consciousness, history and hermeneutics	146
(4) Herder's appreciation of the individuality of historical phenomena	151
2. Motives for the Linguistic Turn in Herder, Schleiermacher and Humboldt	158
(1) Herder	159
(2) Schleiermacher	166
(3) Humboldt	175
3. Hegel's Assimilation of Faith to Knowledge: The Renewal of Metaphysical Thinking after Kant	188
(1) Hegel's critique of Schleiermacher's noncognitivist understanding of religion	198
(2) Beyond metaphysics and Kant to the 'third position of thought'	203
(3) God's incarnation as a model for the self-mediation of the absolute	209

4. Reason in History: Autonomy versus Self-Movement of the Concept	217
(1) Historical progress in the collective consciousness of freedom	225
(2) Process of formation of free will in law, morality and ethical life	233
(3) Critical theory of society, conservative theory of the state	239
(4) The controversy over the relationship between morality and ethical life	245
(5) Preview of motifs of Hegel criticism	252
THIRD INTERMEDIATE REFLECTION: FROM OBJECTIVE MIND TO COMMUNICATIVE SOCIALIZATION OF KNOWING AND ACTING SUBJECTS	257
(1) A formal pragmatic analysis of Hegel's concept of totality	261
(2) The paradigm shift from the philosophy of consciousness to the philosophy of language	267
(3) Problems generated by the disintegration of the Hegelian System	271
X. THE CONTEMPORANEITY OF THE YOUNG HEGELIANS AND THE PROBLEMS OF POSTMETAPHYSICAL THINKING	283
1. Ludwig Feuerbach's Anthropological Turn: On the Form of Life of Organically Embodied and Communicatively Socialized Subjects	292
(1) Letter to Hegel and The Essence of Christianity	292
(2) Dependence on nature and communicative socialization of 'passionate' subjects	295
2. Karl Marx on the Historical Freedom of Productive and Politically Acting Subjects	308
(1) Sublation of the state in society?	310
(2) The historical-materialist concept of society	313
(3) The ambivalent meaning of the 'naturalness' of what exists	318
(4) Development of productive forces and political emancipation	324
(5) The capitalist system as the realm of necessity and the 'realm of freedom' as a false abstraction	328

3. Søren Kierkegaard: A Religious Author on the Ethical-Existential Freedom of the Biographically Individuated Subject	338
(1) The paradox of the content of faith and the authenticity of the lived faith	342
(2) The historicity of existence and the stages of life leading to 'self-selection'	347
(3) The Kantian Socrates and the ethical way of life as an alternative to ethical-religious conversion?	354
(4) History of the reception of the religious author and the open question of ritual	360
4. Interpretive Processes between Truth-Reference and Action-Reference: Peirce as Initiator of Pragmatism	364
(1) Critique of the philosophy of the subject and the consequences of the semiotic turn	369
(2) Rationality and freedom: the pragmatist conception of the problem-solving action of communicatively socialized subjects	384
5. On the Mode of Embodiment of Reason in Research and Political Practices	396
(1) The pragmatic enabling conditions of cooperative research	397
(2) The practices of rational morality and of the democratic constitutional state	403
Postscript	409
Acknowledgements	439
Afterword	441
Notes on the Translation	459
Notes	466
Bibliography	502
Overview: Volumes 1–3	514
Index	524