

Contents

Dirk Wiemann and Lars Eckstein

Introduction: Towards a Cultural Politics of Passion 7

Instrumental Passions: Affective Politics from Above

Anke Bartels

“The East is Red”: The Politics of Mobilising Passion
in the Chinese Cultural Revolution 35

Rüdiger Kunow

“Watching one another out of fear”: Affective Communities and Medical Emergencies in the United States 51

Shaswati Mazumdar

Representing the Indian Rebellion of 1857: The Politics of Passion in German Popular Fiction 69

Flaminia Nicora

Libyan Landscape: The Passion and the Politics of its Representations 86

Feeling Beyond Governmentality: Affective Politics from Below

Satish Poduval

Governmentality and the Enthusiasm for Democracy 105

Madhumeeta Sinha
Rereading "Draupadi": Text, Intertext, Context	124

Dirk Wiemann
Undead or Immortal? Red Army Faction Afterlives	135

Affective Orthodoxies and Their Limits

Tania Meyer
En/Countering Enlightenment: Staging Counter-Voices in Theatre Against Cultural Racism	157

Rajni Palriwala
Loving and Leaving: Single Parents in the Netherlands	174

Jörg Meyer
Making Peace with Passions? The Removal of Emotion and Affect from International Relations, and Some Perils of Bringing Them In	196

Lars Eckstein
Politics of Passion and the Production of Human Illegality	218