

Contents

A Note on Spelling, Transliteration, and References	ix
List of Illustrations	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
Introduction	I
PART I Articles	21
SERGEI KOZLOV
Lydia Ginzburg's Victory and Defeat	23
ALEXANDER ZHOLKOVSKY
The Red and the Gray (Appendix: "Between Genres")	27
CARYL EMERSON
Lydia Ginzburg on Tolstoy and Lermontov (with Dostoevsky as the Distant Ground)	39
ANDREI ZORIN
Ginzburg as Psychologist	83

EMILY VAN BUSKIRK

- Varieties of Failure: Lydia Ginzburg's Character Analyses from the 1930s and 1940s 125

ANDREW KAHN

- Lydia Ginzburg's "Lives of the Poets": Mandelstam in Profile 163

IRINA SANDOMIRSKAIA

- The Leviathan, or Language in Besiegement:
Lydia Ginzburg's Prolegomena to Critical Discourse Analysis 193

KIRILL KOBRIN

- To Create a Circle and to Break It
("Blockade Person's" World of Rituals) 235

STANISLAV SAVITSKY

- Reflection as an Ethical Value
(Lydia Ginzburg's "The Thought that Drew a Circle") 263

LAURENT THÉVENOT

- At Home and in a Common World, in a Literary and a Scientific Prose: Ginzburg's Notes of a Blockade Person 283

- PART 2 Narratives and Essays by Lydia Ginzburg
(translated by Alyson Tapp and Emily Van Buskirk) 305

ALYSON TAPP

- Ginzburg's "Rational Impressionism": A Translator's Note
on "The Return Home" 307

The Return Home	313
Conversations about Love	343
The Jewish Question	353
The State of Literature near the End of the War	359
Generation at a Turning Point	369
At One with the Legal Order	383
Works Cited	401
Notes on Contributors	431
Index	435