

Table of Contents (short)

Table of Contents (extensive)	11
Recommendations	17
Preface	19
Acknowledgements	23
CHAPTER ONE
John Durie and My Task	27
CHAPTER TWO
Durie's Life and Labours.....	47
CHAPTER THREE
Early Contributions to Durie Scholarship.....	105
CHAPTER FOUR
The 20th Century's reception of John Durie	131
CHAPTER FIVE
The Place of the Jews in Durie's Quest for Universal Learning.....	169
CHAPTER SIX
Discovering the Advantages of Universal Learning.....	209
CHAPTER SEVEN
The Foedus Fraternum of Durie, Hartlib and Comenius	247
CHAPTER EIGHT
Purpose, Method and Procedure in Academic Studies	287
CHAPTER NINE
A Parliamentary Agency for the Advancement of Universal Learning...	331
CHAPTER TEN
Universal Reform through Practical Divinity.....	365

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Summing Up	407
Appendix	427
Bibliography	431
Biography of John Durie	489
Biography of George M. Ella	490

Table of Contents (extensive)

Recommendations	17
Preface	19
Acknowledgements	23

CHAPTER ONE

John Durie and My Task	27
Rediscovering John Durie's importance	27
Durie's sixty years' involvement in Continental Europe	28
A prophet not honoured in his own country	32
The refragmentation of a defragmenter's work	38
Living in an ideal time for Durie scholarship	40

CHAPTER TWO

Durie's Life and Labours	47
Born into a family of campaigners, ministers, diplomats, lairds and rebels	47
Durie's youth and early adulthood in the Netherlands and France	51
Durie at Elbing: First writings on universal learning and church union	53
Durie the educationalist and irenist and the start of his international work	59
Uniting the Protestants in war-torn Europe	62
Work under Archbishop William Laud	64
Further travels in Sweden, Germany, Denmark, the Netherlands and England	69
Politician, educationalist and ambassador under Cromwell	72
Representing the Republic in Sweden, Switzerland, Germany and Holland	80
Triumphs turned to acute disappointments on returning to England..	92
Durie spends the rest of his life on the Continent	94

CHAPTER THREE

Early Contributions to Durie Scholarship.....	105
The seventeenth to eighteenth centuries	105
Mosheim and Benzeliuss	107
The Nineteenth Century	110
Essays by educationalists	125

CHAPTER FOUR

The 20th Century's reception of John Durie	131
--	-----

CHAPTER FIVE

The Place of the Jews in Durie's Quest for Universal Learning.....	169
The Jewish situation in England in the first half of the seventeenth century	169
New trends in Jewish studies	175
Popkin's three-point appraisal of Durie	179
Durie and the 'lost tribes'	182
Thoughts concerning founding a London University with a college for Jewish studies	189
John Durie and Millenarianism	196

CHAPTER SIX

Discovering the Advantages of Universal Learning.....	209
Filling the earth with true knowledge	209
Durie's success in ecumenical activities	210
Durie's early contact with universal learning	215
Henry Oldenburg, Daniel Ernst Jablonski, Gottfried Wilhelm von Leibniz and John Durie's legacy.....	219
Durie forms a solid basis for his future work.....	227
Durie's first major efforts towards Protestant peace and Pansophy	233
Procuring the Public Good in Learning and Religion	241
Teaching the organising and synergising of things presented to the senses	243

CHAPTER SEVEN

The Foedus Fraternum of Durie, Hartlib and Comenius	247
Comenius' alleged influence on Durie re-examined	247
Durie's acquaintance with Comenius through Peter Figulus	251
Comenius was not the major 17 th century educational trail-blazer ..	255
The Pact between Durie, Hartlib and Comenius	263
Durie's Pansophy more synergistic and comprehensive than that of Comenius	267
Comenius' work for Sweden	271
Comenius opts out of the Foedus Fraternum	273
Cyprian Kinner's association with Comenius	276
Durie's and Hartlib's disappointment with Comenius	281

CHAPTER EIGHT

Purpose, Method and Procedure in Academic Studies	287
Right literary analysis as the handmaid of right learning	287
Retracing the footsteps of a writer's understanding	289
The first principles used in meditating on a given text	291
Organising the acts of the mind in meditation	295
The aim of right meditation	296
Acts of ratiocination and the regulating principle	298
Durie compared to his predecessor and mentor Bacon	301
Durie's view of Scriptural textual interpretation compared with Grosseteste's	304
The diversity of analytical methods and their inter-dependence	307
Advising students how to study	310
Understanding the Scriptures aright	315
The place of the library and librarian in universal learning	319
Durie's teaching recommended by today's information processors and librarians	325

CHAPTER NINE

A Parliamentary Agency for the Advancement of Universal Learning...	331
Early attempts at finding private sponsors for an agency for advancing learning	331
Petitioning Parliament again concerning reforms in Church and State	338
Setting up a School Council to organise educational reform	344
The grounds and method of reformation and its advancement	346
Concerning the pedagogical or scholastical function of learning	350
The need for a national curriculum for the advancement of universal learning.....	354
Universities have their rightful place but no monopoly on learning	356
The practical duties of an Office of Address.....	359
Petitioning the Protector.....	361

CHAPTER TEN

Universal Reform through Practical Divinity.....	365
Proposing a platform for Practical Divinity	365
A Practical Divinity should be the whole doctrine of a life of Godliness in covenant with God	366
The place of schools in confirming the Covenant in the life of the nation	369
The Reformed School of Practical Divinity	370
Concerning an Association or Society for the Education of Children	371
Concerning proficiencies and the means and parts of learning	374
Rules of teaching according to the ordinary degree of children's natural capacities.....	376
A Supplement to the Reformed School.....	381
How to find out the effectual way of advancing learning	382
Reflections on how defects in learning may be rectified	387
The need for a fundamentally different training for teachers.....	389

Education for public offices and leadership	391
Education for all children, youths and adults according to their abilities and calling	392
How Reform must start at once	395
The intellectual and practical truths to be taught in a Body of Practical Divinity	397
Appropriating data in theory alone is not knowledge, but doers of Practical Divinity learn how to activate data knowingly and usefully	398
Precognitions, Principles and Parts: Practical Divinity versus Case Divinity	400
Hartlib's thoughts break the filum Ariadnes	402
Durie's last stand in England	403
CHAPTER ELEVEN
Summing Up	407
Durie's Plans Seen as Realisable, Practical and Necessary in Twenty-First Century Thinking	407
Appendix
Copies of the two different title pages to Benzelius' dissertation and the title-page concerning Benzelius' inaugural Disputation	427
Bibliography	431
The major dated works of John Durie, including his reports and minutes used for this thesis in chronological order:	431
Published Collections of Durie's correspondence used in this thesis:	451
Undated works by John Durie either printed or published on the HP CDs	452
Schloß Ysenburg und Büdingen Records Repositor VI, p. 589, Section 26, 201, 1654-1670, in numbered order as per folder.	454
Original hand written mss, printed works, conference minutes and contemporary copies found in HStA, Marburg.	455
Sixteenth to Eighteenth Century Documents and Works consulted (originals, copies, reprints and microfilms)	458

Dissertations.....	463
General and specific works related to Durie's life and times.....	466
Published magazine, journal and review essays dealing with John Durie's life and times.....	479
Biography of John Durie	489
Biography of George M. Ella	490