

Contents

|                                                                                                                   |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| List of Figures                                                                                                   | vii |
| DEBORAH ASCHER BARNSTONE AND THOMAS O. HAAKENSEN                                                                  |     |
| Introduction: Why Visual Culture Matters                                                                          | i   |
| GABRIELLA SZALAY                                                                                                  |     |
| A Painting Fit for a Nation:The Dombild and its Legacy in Nineteenth-Century Germany                   | 9   |
| SAMUEL ADAMS                                                                                                      |     |
| Blasting Wagner out of the Continuum of History:Deutschtum Transposed in the Los Angeles Ring   | 33  |
| ROBERT C. KUNATH                                                                                                  |     |
| German Art and the Spirit of 1914:Identity, Modernism, and the Case of Ludwig Dettmann                        | 57  |
| THOMAS O. HAAKENSEN                                                                                               |     |
| The Architectonics of Public Science:German Identity and the Berlin Museum of Pathology                       | 79  |
| KEVIN S. AMIDON                                                                                                   |     |
| Intersexes and Mixed Races:Visuality, Narrative, and “Bastard” Identity inEarly Twentieth-Century Germany | 103 |

DEBORAH ASCHER BARNSTONE

- The 1929 Breslau Werkbund Exhibition:
Constructing German Identity in Architecture and Urban Design 129

ELIZABETH CRONIN

- The Problem of German Identity in 1930s Austria and the Influence of Austrian Heimat Photography 153

WENDY WESTPHAL

- Good Bye, DDR!:*
Where East German Material Culture Meets Film 177

MAREIKE HERRMANN

- Imagined Homes:
Negotiating German Identity in the Eastern Provinces in
Thomas Arslan's Ferien and Dominik Graf's
Komm mir nicht nach 199

ERIN HANAS

- Raus mit der Sprache. Rein ins Leben:* The Exposed Tongue 225

CHRISTINA SCHMID

- Pathetic Parodies:
German National Identity in Bjørn Melhus' Weit Weit Weg 251

- Notes on Contributors 275

- Index 279