

Contents

Preface xiii

1	Life = Body Plus X	1
2	Medicine, or Novelty Appeal	6
3	Why Laws of Nature?	9
4	Longing for Order	12
5	Ethics and Legality	15
6	Why Here? Why Now?	20
7	Thales' Trite Observation	22
8	Polis, Law, and Self-determination	27
9	The Individual and the Whole	32
10	Nonmedical Healing	34
11	Mawangdui: Early Healing in China	36
12	Humans Are Biologically Identical across Cultures. So Why Not Medicine?	40
13	The Yellow Thearch's Body Image	42
14	The Birth of Chinese Medicine	44
15	The Division of the Elite	47
16	A View to the Visible, and Opinions on the Invisible	48
17	State Concept and Body Image	50
18	Farewell to Demons and Spirits	52
19	New Pathogens, and Morality	55
20	Medicine without Pharmaceuticals	58
21	Pharmaceuticals without Medicine	63
22	Puzzling Parallels	64
23	The Beginning of Medicine in Greece	68

24	The End of Monarchy	69
25	Troublemakers and Ostracism	73
26	I See Something You Don't See	75
27	Powers of Self-healing: Self-evident?	81
28	Confucians' Fear of Chaos	82
29	Medicine: Expression of the General State of Mind	86
30	Dynamic Ideas and Faded Model Images	89
31	The Hour of the Dissectors	91
32	Manifold Experiences of the World	93
33	Greek Medicine and Roman Incomprehension	94
34	Illness as Stasis	96
35	Head and Limbs	97
36	The Rediscovery of Wholeness	98
37	To Move the Body to a Statement	100
38	Galen of Pergamon: Collector in All Worlds	102
39	Europe's Ancient Pharmacology	103
40	The Wheel of Progress Turns No More	104
41	Constancy and Discontinuity of Structures	106
42	Arabian Interlude	108
43	The Tang Era: Cultural Diversity, Conceptual Vacuum	109
44	Changes in the Song Era	112
45	The Authority of Distant Antiquity	113
46	Zhang Ji's Belated Honors	115
47	Chinese Pharmacology	116
48	The Diagnosis Game	117
49	The Physician as the Pharmacist's Employee	118
50	Relighting the Torch of European Antiquity	120
51	The Primacy of the Practical	123
52	The Variety of Therapeutics	126
53	Which Model Image for a New Medicine?	128
54	The Real Heritage of Antiquity	130
55	Galenism as Trade in Antiques	132

56	Integration and Reductionism in the Song Dynasty	134
57	The New Freedom to Expand Knowledge	137
58	Healing the State, Healing the Organism	138
59	Trapped in the Cage of Tradition	139
60	Xu Dachun, Giovanni Morgagni, and Intra-abdominal Abscesses	142
61	Acupuncturists, Barbers, and Masseurs	144
62	No Scientific Revolution in Medicine	148
63	The Discovery of New Worlds	149
64	Paracelsus: A Tumultuous Mind with an Overview	151
65	Durable and Fragile Cage Bars	154
66	The Most Beautiful Antiques and the Most Modern Images in One Room	156
67	Harvey and the Magna Carta	157
68	A Cartesian Case for Circulation	161
69	Long Live the Periphery!	163
70	Out of the Waiting Shelter, into the Jail Cell	164
71	Sensations That Pull into the Lower Parts of the Body	166
72	Homeopathy Is Not Medicine	168
73	"God with Us" on the Belt Buckle	172
74	Medicine Independent of Theology	173
75	Virchow: The Man of Death as the Interpreter of Life	174
76	Robert Koch: Pure Science?	182
77	Wash Your Hands, Keep the Germs Away	184
78	AIDS: The Disease That Fits	186
79	China in the Nineteenth Century: A New Cage Opens Up	188
80	Two Basic Ideas of Medicine	189
81	Value-free Biology and Cultural Interpretation	190
82	A Transit Visa and a Promise	192
83	Scorn, Mockery, and Invectives for Chinese Medicine	193
84	Traditional Medicine in the PRC: Faith in Science	195
85	The Arabs of the Twentieth Century, or Crowding in the Playpen	196
86	When the Light Comes from Behind	198

87	In the Beginning Was the Word	199
88	Out of Touch with Nature	200
89	Theology without Theos	202
90	Everything Will Be Fine	203
91	Left Alone in the Computer Tomograph	204
92	Healing and the Energy Crisis	205
93	TCM: Western Fears, Chinese Set Pieces	206
94	Harmony, Not War	210
95	The Loss of the Center	211
96	Contented Customers in a Supermarket of Possibilities	212
97	The More Things Change	213
98	One World, or Tinkering with Building Blocks	214
99	A Vision of Unity over All Diversity	216
	Afterword	221
	Notes	223
	Index	229