

Table of Contents

Preface	V
Acknowledgements	VII
Abbreviations	XIII

Chapter 1: Introduction	1
1. Rationale.....	1
2. Overview of Contemporary Scholarship with Specific Reference to the ‘Infusion-Transformation Approach’ to Spirit and Ethics in Paul	2
2.1. Diverging Explanations.....	2
2.2. The ‘Infusion-Transformation Approach’ to Spirit and Ethics in Paul	4
2.2.1. Ernst Käsemann	5
2.2.2. Peter Stuhlmacher	10
2.2.3. Friedrich Wilhelm Horn	12
2.3. Conclusion	14
3. Definition of Terms.....	15
4. The Thesis	20

Part I

Religious-Ethical Empowerment through Infusion-Transformation An Examination of an Established Approach

Chapter 2: Infusion-Transformation through a Material Spirit? An Investigation of Paul’s Context	25
1. Graeco-Roman Literature.....	25
1.1. The Physical Spirit.....	26
1.2. Infusion-Transformation	30
2. Judaism	35
2.1. The Hebrew Bible	35
2.2. Qumran	40
2.2.1. Strategies for Interpreting Metaphors (Demonstrated in the Example of 1QH ^a 15.6–7)	43
2.3. Joseph and Aseneth	54

2.3.1. The Physical Spirit.....	55
2.3.2. Infusion-Transformation	63
2.4. Philo.....	67
2.4.1. The Physical Spirit.....	69
2.4.2. Infusion-Transformation	74
3. Conclusion	78

Chapter 3: Infusion-Transformation through a Material Spirit?

An Investigation of Paul.....	80
Excursus 1: The Alleged Concept of the Spirit as Immaterial Substance (Rom. 8:9; 1 Cor. 3:16; 6:19; etc.).....	82
1. The Alleged Material Nature of the Spirit (1 Cor. 15:44).....	86
2. The Alleged Infusion by the Material Spirit through the Sacraments (1 Cor. 12:13; 6:11; 10:3–4).....	96
2.1. Infusion by the Material Spirit at Baptism? (1 Cor. 12:13a; 6:11).....	98
2.2. Infusion by the Material Spirit at the Lord's Supper? (1 Cor. 12:13c; 10:3–4).....	109
3. Conclusion	119

Part II

Religious-Ethical Empowerment by the Relational Work of the Spirit A New Approach

Chapter 4: Prolegomena to a Relational Approach to the Ethical Work of the Spirit in Paul.....

1. Definition of Terms.....	123
2. The Relational Model.....	126
3. The Centrality and the Empowering Character of Relationships in Paul and His Context	133
4. The Framework of the Relational Model.....	138
4.1. Philosophical, Theological and Anthropological Presuppositions	138
4.2. Pneumatological Presuppositions	144

Chapter 5: Religious-Ethical Empowerment by the Relational Work of the Spirit: A Selective Discussion of Paul's Context.....

1. Early Jewish Literature	147
1.1. Philo	149
1.2. Qumran	156

1.3. Traditions Based on Ezekiel 36:25–28	163
2. Graeco-Roman Literature	167
3. Conclusion	169

Chapter 6: Religious-Ethical Empowerment by the Relational Work of the Spirit in Paul

1. Introduction: The Fundamentals of Spirit and Ethics in Paul.....	171
2. Ethical Transformation through Spirit-Enabled Contemplation of the Divine (2 Cor. 3:18).....	174
2.1. How is the Transformation Achieved?	175
2.1.1. The Unveiled Face	176
2.1.2. Beholding as in a Mirror	178
2.1.2.1. Beholding as Receiving (Cognitive) Revelation	178
2.1.2.2. Beholding as Encounter.....	183
2.1.2.3. Beholding as Contemplation.....	184
2.1.3. The Role of the Spirit.....	190
2.2. What is the Result of the Transformation?	192
2.2.1. The Meaning of ‘Being Transformed from Glory to Glory’	192
2.2.2. The Ethical Dimension of the Transformation (‘Being Transformed into the Same Image’)	195
2.3. Conclusion.....	202
3. Ethical Empowering through a Spirit-Shaped Filial Relationship with God (Rom. 8:12–17; et al.).....	203
3.1. Relationships Individual and Corporate: Romans 8:12–17 and Its Cotext	204
3.2. Establishing Religious-Ethical Life (Rom. 8:12–14).....	209
3.3. Empowered by the Spirit of Adoption as Sons (Rom. 8:15–16)	216
3.3.1. Characteristics of Adoption and Sonship in Paul (esp. Rom. 8) and His Context	219
3.3.2. Empowered by a Filial Relationship with God	228
3.4. View Ahead (Rom. 8:17) and Conclusion	236
4. Ethical Empowering through the Communal Work of the Spirit.....	237
4.1. Being Built Up by the Gifts of the Spirit.....	237
4.2. Participation in the Spirit.....	240
5. Conclusion	241

Part III

Conclusions

Chapter 7: Conclusion	245
1. The Results of this Study	245
2. The Implications of this Study	246
2.1. Further Implications for the Study of Early Judaism	247
2.2. Further Implications for Pauline Theology	248
2.2.1. Implications for Pauline Theology in General	248
2.2.2. Implications for Pauline Pneumatology	249
2.2.3. Implications for Pauline Ethics	250
 Appendix: 140 Years of Research on Spirit and Ethics in Paul:
A Critical Overview	253
1. The Interplay of Spirit and Ethics in Paul's Religion: 1868–1930	254
1.1. The Interpenetration of Human and Divine Activity (H. Ernesti)	254
1.2. Two Opposite Principles in Christian Life (O. Pfleiderer)	256
1.3. The Spirit as Overwhelming Ethical Power (H. Gunkel)	263
1.4. 'Dying and Rising with Christ' (A. Schweitzer)	269
2. The Interplay of Spirit and Ethics in Paul's Theology: 1930–1990	273
2.1. 'Being in the Spirit' and 'Walking by the Spirit' (R. Bultmann)	273
Excursus 1: The Relation of Indicative and Imperative in Paul	279
2.2. The Sanctifying Work of the Spirit (K. Stalder)	282
2.3. The Eschatological Spirit (J.D.G. Dunn)	288
3. The Interplay of Pauline Pneumatology and Ethics in Recent Scholarship Since 1990	294
3.1. Developmental Approaches	294
Excursus 2: The Limited Scope of the Connection of Spirit and Ethics in Paul	295
3.2. By the Spirit Christians are Able to Resist Temptation (G.D. Fee)	299
4. Summary of Results and Questions	304
 Bibliography of Works Cited	307
Index of References	343
Index of Authors	362
Index of Subjects	370