NOTES OF THE ESOTERIC LESSONS 1910–1912

Written from Memory by the Participants

Meditation Verses Used Repeatedly in the Esoteric Lessons from 1910 to 1912 .....	2
--	---

1910

FEBRUARY 6, 1910, KASSEL.....	11
“Sun, Earth—Meditation, Study.” Esoteric training in ancient times (success or death) and today (becoming a different person); the necessity of truthfulness and patience. Use of meditation contents, with the example of the Lord’s Prayer. The physical world as a parable for the spiritual (autumn/falling asleep; spring/awakening). Study as a preparation for meditation; meditation as sacrifice.
FEBRUARY 27, 1910, COLOGNE.....	16
Doubt, superstition, and the illusion of personality as three threatening forces.
MARCH 13, 1910, MUNICH.....	18
Concerning the daily verses (Sunday). “Everything around us is maya.” Lucifer’s influence; what is moon-like in the effects of Lucifer’s work; the intervention of the good gods in like measure through what is moon-like; for example, weather catastrophes. Taking maya into meditation as the influence of Lucifer in the esoteric life; bad character traits as hindrances introduced by the good gods.
MARCH 15, 1910, MUNICH.....	21
Concerning the daily verses (Tuesday). The development of the human being’s constituent parts (members) and the reception of theosophical teachings. The Saturn condition of the “I”; the earthly condition of the physical body.

MAY 16, 1910, HAMBURG.....23

“Everything around us is maya.” Example of a red object. The meditative path as a path to the true being of things (Example of the feelings called forth by colors). The feeling of shame in the dying of the plant world; the Rose Cross. The awakening of feelings not bound to external things.

MAY 19, 1910, HAMBURG.....27

Concerning the daily verses (Thursday). Christ before the event of Golgotha as the spirit of the sun; thereafter as the spirit of the earth. The union with him through the imagination of the Rose Cross; the formation of complementary colors. An esotericist's faith in the good.

MAY 25, 1910, HAMBURG.....30

Verse to the spirit of the day (Wednesday). An esotericist's search for balance; possible aberrations. Discordant moods: improper effects of the spirits of heaviness (leads to hypochondria and diseases of the digestive organs). Vanity, arrogance: irregular working of the spirits of light (leads to destruction of the brain, confusion, and mental illness). In the spirit lay ... (spirit of heaviness) In my body ... (spirit of light). The nine traits of the master. The five demands upon the student. Mantras. The fivefold spirit; proper and improper working. The Rose Cross.

JUNE 16, 1910, KRISTIANIA (OSLO).....37

Falling asleep and awakening; the proper preparation for sleep. The need for helpers on the external path of Druidic initiation and the inner path of Egyptian initiation. The Rosicrucian path is based upon powers acquired by the self. The task of esotericists for humanity. The return of suppressed physical pain as soul pain, as psychological pain in later incarnations.

JUNE 18, 1910, KRISTIANIA (OSLO).....40

Egyptian and Druidic initiation. The Rosicrucian path. Elucidation of the verse In pure rays... in view of the Spirit of Christ. The Rosicrucian verse. Dangers of illusion in meditation.

JUNE 20, 1910, KRISTIANIA (OSLO).....43

Verse to the Spirit of the day (Monday). The thoughts of the spirits of the earth as sleeping powers (sleeping in the mineral kingdom, dreaming in the plant kingdom, and waking and thinking in the animal kingdom). Changes in the interests of an esotericist during esoteric development. Dangers of esoteric development through loosening of the etheric body; deceitfulness, dishonesty, and illness.

AUGUST 24, 1910, MUNICH.....48

General instructions. Consequences of entry into an esoteric training; the loosening of the bodies; waking-up experiences. The New Testament as a support in difficult times. Occult statement against illusions: "All paths into the spiritual world go through the heart." The relationship of the heart to Leo, sun, and the spirits of fire.

AUGUST 26, 1910, MUNICH.....51

Duties of an esotericist upon awakening (gratitude); during meditation (pure mood); upon falling asleep (awe and reverence). Esotericists allow God to live in them consciously. Setting aside arrogance, pride, and vanity. Preparation for the appearance of Christ in the etheric. The Rosicrucian verse as a fundamental mood for meditation. In the spirit lay... Present incarnation: favorable for entering into an esoteric life. The future Christ event in the etheric body.

NOVEMBER 4, 1910, BERLIN.....57

Learning to walk, to speak, and to understand in the esoteric sense; the meditative experiences connected to them. Inner experiences when meditating the verse In pure rays... The guidance of the path of training through Christ. What a human being must develop in life: walking, speaking, and thinking, in relation to Christ's words: "I am the way, the truth, and the life," and the esoteric path. Inner experiences when meditating, using the example of the verse In pure rays ... (stream of warmth from the East, streaming light, sounding tones; the unspeakable name of God; cold and loneliness; deceiving images). Christ as the guru for all human beings. Concerning the concept "love."

NOVEMBER 5, 1910, BERLIN.....73

The need to distrust one's own esoteric experiences; sound and color experiences and their significance. The picture of the ark on the mountaintop. The squawking ravens of the lower self. Transformation of the forms of colors. The symbol of the dove. The Rose Cross as a help. Allowing the lower self to die into Christ. The lower self as the archetype of the divine that is permeated by egotism.

DECEMBER 3-4, 1910, KASSEL.....87

Maya—maha-aya—the great non-being. The battle of Lucifer and Ahriman against the direct working of the divine, and its influence on the human being; egotism. The etheric brain of the human being. Atma, Buddhi, Manas and the symbol of the eye.

DECEMBER 11, 1910, MUNICH..... 89

The old path of initiation: overcoming egotism and fear. The esoteric path of modern human beings who have been weakened by materialism: maintaining the ability to understand; sense for truth and logic in the spiritual worlds. The picture of the shattered mirror. The danger of vices, illnesses, and loss of memory when starting on the esoteric path. Mission of art. The concept of blasphemy; overcoming our mistakes as a test of strength. Exoteric and the esoteric Rosicrucian verses.

DECEMBER 17and18, 1910, HANOVER..... 94

The vowels i, ei, a, o, ö, u, ü; microcosm and macrocosm.

DECEMBER 20, 1910, BERLIN..... 95

Consequences of loosening the connection between the physical and etheric bodies. Development of a “frontbone” (opposed to the existing human “backbone”) through the development of the lotus flowers; faster healing of wounds; possible appearance of minor physical weaknesses. Supporting the loosening process through an appropriate diet. Concerning the speaking of the Rosicrucian formula.

CHRISTMAS – NEW YEAR’S EVE, 1910, STUTTGART..... 97

Intensifying the esoteric sense of responsibility. The loosening of the etheric body using exoteric and esoteric means. The formation of the “front cord” (as opposed to the spinal cord).

DECEMBER 31, 1910, STUTTGART..... 99

The loosening of the etheric body by exoteric means (diet, breathing exercises) and esoteric means (meditations); the destructive effects of a loosening brought about by exoteric means alone. The development of a “frontal cord” (as opposed to a spinal cord). Concerning the use of alcohol. The firm connection of the etheric body with the physical body brought about by many modern professions and present-day foods. A more conscious permeation of thinking, feeling, and willing, using the example of the verse, “I am a Christian.” The Rosicrucian verse.

1911

JANUARY 1, 1911, STUTTGART..... 103

Maha Aya—the great non-being. The sounds ch and im. The battle against ambition, envy, curiosity, and so forth.

JANUARY 2, 1911, STUTTGART..... 106

The effects of certain traits in an esotericist: egotism (connection with the warmth ether, influence of Samael); untruthfulness (connection with the light ether, consequences for the nervous system, influence of Azazel); indifference and insensitivity (connection to the chemical ether, effect on the glands).

JANUARY 17, 1911, BERLIN..... 109

Two kinds of thoughts: through external perception and awakened through theosophy. The physical world as result of the thoughts of the divine. The constructive effects of non-sensory thoughts: formation of the lotus flowers. Practice fields for sense-free thinking: mathematics; observation of relationships, thinking processes flowing backwards. "Thought thinks the thought." "Achieve for yourself the light-permeated power of water." The Rosicrucian verse.

JANUARY 31, 1911, COLOGNE..... 117

The two parts of meditation. Two meditation statements: "I am an egotist." "I am not a Christian." Astral and etheric maya.

FEBRUARY 12, 1911, MUNICH..... 118

The esotericist today. Description of both paths into the spiritual world: the external path (imagination, study of theosophical teaching) and the inner path (meditation, inspiration). The effects of theosophy on the etheric bodies of sensitive, receptive people and on unreceptive people. The inner path of mysticism. The five steps of meditation for Molino. The Apocalypse as going forth from September 30, 395 A.D. The dangers of the external path: doubt and instability; of the inner path: egotism and illusion.

FEBRUARY 19, 1911, STRASSBURG..... 122

The earth as a battleground between the good spiritual powers and Lucifer and Ahriman. Lucifer gives wisdom without love; Ahriman gives power. The human stage of the archangels was on old Sun. Black magic; concerning the previous incarnation of a black magician. Victory over Lucifer and Ahriman. The redemption of Lucifer through Christ.

MARCH 5, 1911, HANOVER..... 124

"In your esoteric striving be careful that you do not drown." "Take care that you are not burned by the fire of your own ego." Two verses for the external and the internal paths into the spiritual world. The seals of the Apocalypse and September 30, 395 A.D. The danger of "drowning" in the external world; the danger of being "burned up" on the inner path; "occult imprisonment." Overcoming egotism through Paul's words, "Not I, but Christ in me." Esoteric and exoteric Rosicrucian verse.

MARCH 10, 1911, MANNHEIM..... 132

The transformation of the esotericist, using the example of egotism. The proper feeling for an esotericist is that it is one's duty to develop. The esotericist as a fighter. Concerning disturbing thoughts during meditation.

MARCH 15, 1911, BERLIN..... 134

The effectiveness of frequent repetition of the same (book, exercise). The difference between subsensory (elemental) worlds and suprasensory worlds: taking hold and being taken hold of. Taking hold of the elemental world through imaginations of its symbols (earthly: three-cornered, four-cornered, five-cornered); (watery: point and circle); (air element: cancer form); (fiery: lemniscates). The danger of becoming egotistical. Working into the spiritual world through inspiration; the danger of losing oneself. The union of both directions in the Rosicrucian center; the need for an ability to distinguish between the two worlds. The Rosicrucian verse. The symbols of the forces at work in the elements in relation to minerals, plants, animals, and human beings. The work of the angels, archangels, archai, exusiai. The hierarchies and the formation of the constituent parts of the human beings (members). The connection between the higher and lower hierarchies (macrocosmic and microcosmic formation).

MARCH 29, 1911, PRAGUE..... 142

The proper way to immerse oneself in meditation (example: In the pure rays of light ...). The need for humility and devotion in order to develop discernment and to distinguish what is seen in the spiritual world; the avoidance of arrogance ("God is in me."). The acquisition of a subtle feeling for truth; review of one's own actions from time to time. Overcoming egotism through Paul's words, "Not I, but Christ in me." The esoteric Rosicrucian verse.

JUNE 12, 1911, BERLIN..... 149

Exoteric and esoteric knowledge. The transformation of the astral body into a "knowledge body" through spiritual-scientific knowledge. The exhalation of the "air of death" because of the influence of Lucifer. Making spiritual substance (the light of Christ) fruitful through spiritual science. Testing the wisdom given by means of one's healthy common sense.

AUGUST 23, 1911, MUNICH..... 154

Some comments on meditation and the significance of inner calmness of soul afterward. The tendency of the etheric body to expand in meditation and after death. The effects of carrying sympathy and antipathy into the etheric world: appearance of deceptive pictures with the tendency to lie; arising of error from false ambition. Testing the teachings that are given by means of clear thinking.

AUGUST 26, 1911, MUNICH.....169

Expansion of the etheric body in meditation. The direct influence of the third hierarchy upon the three bodies of the human being, represented by a drawing of a five-pointed star circumscribed by a circle; the work of other hierarchies around the human being. The fragmentation of certain parts of the astral body; the mastery of individual parts of the astral body by the ego with the help of spiritual science. The Rosicrucian verse, esoteric and exoteric. Christ's work in the evolution of the world and the union with the substance of Christ. Handling esoteric truths; for example, not telling others about earlier incarnations of personalities still living.

OCTOBER 10, 1911, KARLSRUHE.....182

The significance of the exact sequence of words in a meditation, using the example of a recent publication of the verse In the pure rays ... with some incorrect words. How to handle the verses that are given. The three stages of spiritual knowledge: Imagination, Inspiration, and Intuition. Exercise for the strengthening of organs for imaginative vision: think everything backward, since everything around us is maya. Elevation of the spirits of form to the spirits of movement. The word, language, as the single real thing.

OCTOBER 14, 1911, KARLSRUHE.....192

The exercise of reversed thinking, using the example of the human face: the beginning of seeing auras. The connecting bond between the physical and etheric bodies as a counterpart to the external human being. Reason for the fear of open spaces, and so forth. Deficit of justified solitude; the need for solitude. Communal prayer can lead to an experience of group-blessedness. The difficulty of distinguishing between love and egotism. The feeling of being swallowed up by higher beings. Suffering as a loving memory of earlier errors; happiness as grace. The need to be permeated by esoteric facts that have been absorbed with our reason.

OCTOBER 27, 1911, BERLIN.....209

The requisite earnestness in esoteric striving. The working of Luciferic beings. The work of Samael on the warmth ether (blood) against egotism, anger and envy. The work of Azazel through the astral body upon the light ether (nervous system) against untruthfulness (example: actual and ostensible motives for attending a theosophical lecture). The work of Azael through the ego upon the chemical ether (glands and secretions) against indifference and obtuseness (example of a teacher examination in Austria).

OCTOBER 30, 1911, BERLIN.....219

Meaning of illness; transformation of drives that pull us downward into drives that pull us upward. The karmic effects of materialism (softening of the brain). Our feelings and thoughts as beings within our being. The work of Mehazael (binding to the earth after intense expansion of the etheric body); Samael, Azazel, and Azael. The world as maya; future discovery of esoteric principles through science.

NOVEMBER 19, 1911, MUNICH.....228

The physical world as a symbol or sign for the spiritual (example: the heart). The maya of the external world: exists only for warm-blooded beings. Effect of concentration on the heart. Verse to the spirit of Sunday. The appearance of the double (doppelgänger). Creating a balance to certain traits through the work of Samael (fever heat); Azazel (oppressive feeling); Azael (feeling of drowning). The work of Mehazael upon human beings who wish to avoid their karma (feeling of being chained). The essence of an esoteric school.

DECEMBER 16, 1911, BERLIN.....233

The work of destructive earthly powers and their strengthening through the uncompensated karma of human beings since the middle of Atlantean times. The meaning of maya. "Crossing the waters" in ancient and modern times. Finding Christ in complete freedom, without even the compelling power of human understanding. The Mystery of Golgotha actually should have taken place in the middle of Atlantean times.

DECEMBER 31, 1911, HANOVER.....239

Question of the path to true reality. The meaning of maya: development of I-consciousness; the six days of creation. Penetrating into the world of reality by strengthening the self ("I"), using the example of the verse In pure rays .... The splitting of the personality; appearance of the double through the work of Samael.

1912

JANUARY 1, 1912, HANOVER.....249

The appearance of the double; the work of the Luciferic beings Samael, Azazel, Azael, and Mehazael as a balance for certain traits that become conscious because of the training. Concerning meditation. The Rosicrucian verse.

JANUARY 6, 1912, BERLIN.....254

Experiences during the splitting of the personality; the appearance of the double; feeling of loneliness, feeling of gratitude; practice keeping silent.

JANUARY 7, 1912, BERLIN.....255
Mastery of the double as a necessity for the student. The transformation of the capacity to love. The value of being alone. Persisting with meditation. Elucidation of the meditation In pure rays... The power of keeping silent.

JANUARY 10, 1912, MUNICH.....261
The fruitfulness of persisting with a meditation. Enhanced appearance of bad traits during inner development (example: critical judgment). Enduring loneliness strengthens the self (egoity). The power of keeping silent. Avoiding complaining. Handling disturbing thoughts. The gates of death. The Rosicrucian verse. Development of the feeling of loneliness; devotion; and maintaining silence. Arrival at the gate of death. Egoity and forgetting oneself.

JANUARY 16, 1912, ZURICH.....268
Disturbances caused by the human being balanced by the work of Samael (form similar to the human); Azazel (form similar to that of a bird); Azael (form similar to that of a lion); Mehazael (form similar to that of a bull).

JANUARY 26, 1912, BERLIN.....270
Experiences of the human soul on the path of training: crossing the threshold of death (feeling of abandonment, uselessness of abilities from the physical world for the spiritual world); descent into the underworld; vision of one's own soul-being from outside; feeling of shame; passage through the elements; recognizing the reality of thoughts. Effects of meditation: development of the lotus flowers; vision of the sun at midnight; expansion into the spiritual world.

FEBRUARY 20, 1912, STUTTGART.....282
Egyptian mystery words (I have come to the gate of death ...) and their significance today. Death experience: feeling the physical body as a weight; splitting of the self. The relationship of the human being to the elements: experiencing Lucifer in warmth, Ahriman in the air; identifying with the fluid and the solid elements.

FEBRUARY 22, 1912, STUTTGART.....287
The need for a solid esoteric standpoint. Lucifer, the community of the Beghards, and the work these souls are doing today. Confusion through ancient religions (Brahmanism and Buddhism). The penetration of Chinese culture into Europe: Ku Hung Ming; the Chinese people as administrators of humanity's memory. Memory as a gift from Lucifer. The re-ascent of the human being through meditation and concentration. The physical body as a temple; the soul's form as a worm. Stepping out of the body and seeing the spiritual sun. Concerning instruments for seeing the aura and their injurious effect on the eyes.

FEBRUARY 23, 1912, STUTTGART.....295

A distinguishing characteristic for distinguishing between the radiance of higher beings and the radiation of one's own forces (warmth and excitement of heart). Consequences of esoteric development: withdrawal of divine guidance; the transformation of the etheric body; the noticeable emergence of bad traits. Our duty to develop the forces placed within us. Concerning the way in which we fall asleep and awaken.

FEBRUARY 26, 1912, MUNICH.....299

The problems connected the expansion of the esoteric movement; development of trust; the role of older members as advisors. Handling criticism: relate to the issue, not to the person. Consequences of the loosening of the etheric body caused by the exercises and meditations: seeing the body as a temple and the soul as an ugly worm; feeling the heaviness of the brain and the physical body. Concerning the four statements in Egyptian initiation.

MARCH 10, 1912, MANNHEIM.....303

A connection with higher beings as the fruit of meditation. Usefulness of frugality in the soul and spiritual realm. Justification of egotism in the esoteric life, but not in the exoteric life. Concerning the handling of passive and active forces. The auxiliary exercises. Handling thoughts that storm into our mind.

MARCH 10, 1912, FRANKFURT.....307

Dangers for esotericists; the significance of the auxiliary exercises; possible effects of the schooling upon karma.

MARCH 22, 1912, BERLIN.....309

Exercise: Imagine a conversation between Moses and a student (smelting the golden calf, dissolving it in water, and drinking it). Four thought-feelings associated with this: previous worship of oneself; imprisonment by one's sympathies and antipathies; recognition of maya around us; destruction of every part of us that has resulted from previous incarnations. Use of this imagination.

APRIL 5, 1912, HELSINKI (HELSINGFORS).....316

Protective meditations for an esotericist: Aaron's staff and the Rose Cross. Concerning proper reading. The development of the sixteen-petalled lotus flower.

APRIL 14, 1912, HELSINKI (HELSINGFORS).....318

Visions that appear too quickly are atavistic. Effects of meditation: loosening of our thought life; need for an absolute love of truth; derailing of the feeling and will impulses: the effects of wrong attitudes even into the body. Earlier: results of these tendencies seen in insanity, rage, and death; the example of the four rabbis.

APRIL 24, 1912, BERLIN.....321

The motherless human being (Adam) and the fatherless human being (Christ). The Isis cult. The work of the planetary father-forces and the cosmic mother-forces in the human being: forces of the father (filling with substance, “up-building” until the thirty-third year); forces of the mother (“down-building,” awakening the soul and spiritual aspects). Feel oneself united with all esotericists.

MAY 9, 1912, COLOGNE.....328

A healthy state of exhaustion as a possible help for meditation. The effects of alcohol and meat consumption. Changes in the esotericist: the intellect (concentration, judgment, memory); carriage of physical body; effects on the physical body. Example of powerful material for meditation; for example, I Timothy 3:16, “The mystery of God’s path can be known...”

MAY 30, 1912, NORRKÖPING.....334

In memory of Frau Danielsson. Distinguishing characteristics of an esoteric training that is proceeding correctly.

JUNE 7, 1912, OSLO (KRISTIANIA).....336

Excess of etheric forces in earlier times. Meditation as a means to get to the part of the etheric body that today is pushed back from the physical body. Meaning of auxiliary exercises. Meditation on the “unrevealed light”; producing inner emptiness.

JUNE 9, 1912, OSLO (KRISTIANIA).....342

The fundamental principles of the Theosophical Society: truthfulness; no blind faith from the student to the master. Sobriety. Consequences of improperly done exercises (megalomania, loss of reasoning capacity and memory). The example of the four rabbis. The question of publicly speaking about previous incarnations.

JUNE 11, 1912, OSLO (KRISTIANIA).....349

Dangers for an esotericist (self-complacency, untruthfulness, craving for sensation), and their overcoming. The example of the four rabbis.

SEPTEMBER 1, 1912, MUNICH.....352

Consciousness soul getting the upper hand: faith in absolute truth; occult expression "Sadducee." Intellectual soul getting the upper hand: asserting the universal truth of personally recognized knowledge; occult expression "Pharisee." Sentient soul getting the upper hand: seeking the truth in inner immersion in one's self; occult expression "Essene." The Sadducee in us should serve the Pharisee and both should serve the Essene; overcoming all three by means of a proper feeling of shame. The how, where, and when of things is of great importance.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1912, BASEL.....363

Experiences during the splitting of the personality; the appearance of the double; feeling of loneliness, feeling of gratitude; practice keeping silent.

SEPTEMBER 22, 1912, BASEL.....383

The experience of "it thinks, feels, wills in me." The working of certain forces in the life of the soul. Fear creating a balance by opposing egotism; its transformation into awe and reverence in an esotericist. In the intellectual soul, cleverness and compassion; the danger of feeling oneself to be blessed. In the consciousness soul, conscience as the balance to oppose the dangers presented by the ability to exclude oneself, and by lack of conscience.

NOVEMBER 8, 1912, BERLIN.....395

Three experiences of an esotericist as the result of meditation: It thinks me (exoterically: "In your thoughts the thoughts of the world are living"), connected with the feeling of devotion and religiosity. It creates me (exoterically: "In your will beings of the world are at work"), connected with the feeling of awe and reverence. It weaves me ("in your feeling weave the forces of the world"), combined with the feeling of gratitude. The Rosicrucian verse in connection these feelings. "You shall be as gods," spoken once by Lucifer, once by Christ.

NOVEMBER 19, 1912, HANOVER.....403

The changes in the soul constitution of an esotericist. The serenity of soul after meditation. The experience of It thinks me (piety); It creates me (devotion); It weaves me (gratitude); this exercise in connection with the Rosicrucian verse.

NOVEMBER 28, 1912, MUNICH.....407

The need to pay attention to the life of one's soul. The experience of It thinks me, It creates me, in connection with the feelings that in each case belong to the sentence: (piety, devotion, thankfulness.)

DECEMBER 16, 1912, BERN.....410

Concerning the periodic appearance of certain faults that are always getting worse, and overcoming them. The three words given in relationship to the trinity: It weaves me (Father principle); submersion into the body mornings. It creates me (Son principle); I-consciousness after death. It thinks me (Holy Spirit); the awakening in the Holy Spirit. The threefold love: of the truth through the Father (against vanity); of life through the Son (through compassion); of creating through the Holy Spirit (against egotism). Truth—Spirit. Compassion—Son. Creative activity—Father. It thinks me (touched by an angel); It weaves me (Spirits of Movement); It creates me (spirits of will).

DECEMBER 17, 1912, ZURICH.....416

It thinks me (touched by an angel); It weaves me (spirits of movement); It creates me (Thrones). Beholding one's own physical body; the Rosicrucian verse.
