

Contents

List of Tables.....	9
Introduction.....	11
Chapter I: Postmodernism and Virtual Communication.....	15
1. Postmodernism in social sciences.....	15
1.2. Postmodernist features of virtuality	20
2. Communication and virtuality in the information society (Pierre Lévy, Sherry Turkle)	32
3. Criticism of the contemporary perspectives on communication and technology – Paul Virilio, Jean Baudrillard	40
3.1. Paulo Virilio – critical reflections on technological determinism	45
3.2. Communication and the consumer society – Jean Baudrillard	49
4. Communicational manifestations in virtual space	54
4.1. Virtual communication and Computer Mediated Communication (CMC).....	54
4.2. Virtual communities and their specificity	58
4.3. Digital Cultural Communication	61
4.4. Difficulties of conceptualisation: “network sociality”	62
5. Communicational forms in virtual space	66
5.1. ROM and RAM.....	67
5.2. Meetings on-line and off-line	68
6. Features of communication in virtual space	69
7. Positive and negative aspects of virtual communication	72
Chapter II: New Media	77
1. New media – conceptual framework	77
1.1. Other features of the concept of new media	79
2. Media convergence	82
2.1. Cultural dimension of media convergence	85
3. New media characteristics	89

3.1. Digitality.....	89
3.2. Interactivity	92
3.3. Hypertextuality.....	95
3.4. Dispersal.....	98
3.5. Virtuality.....	102
3.6. Ubiquity and re-mediation	105
4. New media challenges	107
5. Possible uses of the new media in education.....	110
 Chapter III: Media Pedagogy.....	115
1. Conceptual framework: media literacy	115
2. Towards a media pedagogy.....	118
2.1. Mass-media as an educational factor	120
2.2. The perspective of the new forms of education: Education for communication and mass media.....	123
2.3. Dimensions of the media pedagogy	127
3. Media pedagogy pragmatics – the model of the Five Key Questions.....	134
4. Media and communicational competency	136
5. Challenges and stakes of media pedagogy.....	145
 Chapter IV: Developing and Assessing
Media Competency	149
1. Measuring and assessing media competency.....	149
1.1. Premises and objectives of the research.....	150
1.2. Description of the instrument of research – Mixed Standard Rating Scale (MSRS)	150
1.3. Description of the sample group	152
1.4. Methodology of research.....	152
1.5. Field use of survey questionnaires rating media competency by applying MSRS	163
1.5.1. Interpreting results	165
1.6. Advantages and disadvantages applying MSRS	175
2. Developing and assessing media competency	177
2.1. Methodological framework of the training programme “ Media pedagogy ”	178
3. Conclusions of the research	183

Conclusions.....	185
Bibliography	189
Annexes
Annex 1: Reallocation of behavioural examples	199
Annex 2: Scaling examples – scoring.....	204
Annex 3: Final form of the survey questionnaire rating media competency.....	208