

Contents

Contents	v
Acknowledgments	ix
Acknowledgments for the English Translation	x
Introduction	1
What Is, and To What End Do We Study, Literary Theory?	1
Literary Theory and Classics	4
Objections Raised against Literary Theory	6
How to Use This Book	11
Introductions to Literary Theory	13
1 Russian Formalism	17
The Question of Literariness	19
Roman Jakobson's Model of Linguistic Communication	21
Poetic Language as Defamiliarization	23
Further Reading	25
2 Structuralism	26
The Founder of Structuralism: Ferdinand de Saussure	27
Saussure's Definition of the Linguistic Sign	29
The Meaning of Differences	30
Structuralism and Subject	33
Structural Anthropology	34
Is Structuralist Interpretation Possible?	38
Structuralist Definitions of Literary Genres	40
Further Reading	42

Contents

3	Narratology	43
	Vladimir Propp's Analysis of the Folk Tale	44
	Greimas's Actantial Theory of Narrative	47
	Roland Barthes and the Study of Narrative Texts	50
	Structuralist Plot-Analysis: Gérard Genette	55
	Irene de Jong's Narratological Analysis of the Homeric Epics	60
	Further Reading	62
4	Mikhail Bakhtin	63
	Bakhtin's Life and the Problem of His Writings	64
	Dialogism and the Novel	66
	The Carnivalization of Literature	69
	Menippean Satire and Ancient Carnivalesque Literature	71
	Further Reading	76
5	Intertextuality	77
	Leading the Way: Julia Kristeva	77
	Further Developments of Intertextuality	78
	Gérard Genette's Model of Hypertextuality	80
	Intertextuality in Virgil	83
	Further Reading	85
6	Reader-Response Criticism	86
	Empirical Reception Studies	87
	Aesthetics of Reception	88
	American Reader-Response Criticism	91
	Wheeler's Analysis of Ovid's Metamorphoses	94
	Further Reading	96
7	Orality – Literacy	98
	Oral Cultures: The Theses of Goody and Watt	99
	What Does "Orality" Mean?	102
	Oral Poetry	104
	The Homeric Epics as a Test Case	106
	Further Reading	111

Contents

8	Deconstruction	113
	The Foundations: Derrida's Criticism of Logocentrism	114
	Deconstruction in America	120
	Objections to Deconstruction	122
	The Role of the Author	124
	Stanley Fish's Model of "Interpretive Communities"	127
	The Responsibility of the Interpreter	130
	Deconstruction's Merits and Demerits	136
	Deconstruction in Antiquity? Socrates und Protagoras	137
	Further Reading	139
9	Michel Foucault and Discourse Analysis	140
	The Power of Discourse	141
	Objections to Foucault's Analysis of Discourse	145
	Foucault and Antiquity	149
	The Debate about Foucault's Interpretation of Ancient Sexuality	153
	Further Reading	157
10	New Historicism	159
	New Historicism and Deconstruction	160
	New Historicism and Michel Foucault	165
	Objections to New Historicism	167
	New Historicism and Antiquity	172
	Further Reading	174
11	Feminist Approaches/Gender Studies	176
	The Feminist Movement and Definitions of "Woman"	176
	Feminism in Literary Criticism	178
	French Feminism	180
	Pragmatic Feminism in Literary Criticism	182
	From Images of Women to Gender Studies	187
	Queer Theory	189
	Gender Studies and Attic Drama	191
	Further Reading	193

Contents

12	Psychoanalytic Approaches	195
	Interpreting Dreams, Interpreting Literature	197
	Three Attempts at Psychoanalytic Interpretation	200
	Language and the Unconscious: Jacques Lacan	202
	Further Reading	204
	Conclusions?	205
	Whither Now?	207
	Additional Notes	209
	References and Bibliography	215
	Index	233