

Inhalt

Preface by Rolf Griebel .....	7
Introduction by Bettina Wagner .....	9
The rise and decline of a Nuremberg family .....	13
1.1 Schedel's personal copy of the Latin World Chronicle .....	18
1.2 A copy of the 'Familienbuch' for Melchior Schedel .....	20
1.3 Cuir-ciselé bindings with the family arms .....	23
1.4 A Bible owned by the Grabner family .....	26
1.5 Schedel's brother Johannes as an apprentice merchant in Venice .....	29
1.6 A book inherited from Hermann Schedel .....	30
Hartmann Schedel as a student in Leipzig (1456–1463) .....	34
2.1 Hartmann Schedel's oldest university textbook .....	38
2.2 Schedel and music .....	40
2.3 The Schedel cousins and Italian humanism .....	43
Hartmann Schedel as a student in Padua (1463–1466) .....	46
3.1 The oldest illustrated edition of Ptolemy .....	50
3.2 World literature in the Italian language .....	53
3.3 Italian for merchants .....	56
3.4 Inscriptions from Italy and other countries .....	58
3.5 An elementary textbook of Greek .....	61
3.6 Plans for marriage after the return from Italy .....	63
3.7 A medical miscellany from Italy and doctors in Nuremberg .....	65
3.8 Professors and lectures in Padua .....	68
3.9 From academic training to practical work .....	72

Hartmann Schedel as physician in Nördlingen, Amberg and Nuremberg	74
4.1 A contemporary portrait of Schedel	78
4.2 Hartmann Schedel and his first wife	80
4.3 Schedel's patients in Nördlingen and Amberg	82
4.4 Reading medical texts in Amberg	84
4.5 Horoscopes for the sons	87
4.6 The first German textbook of surgery	89
4.7 German verses by a Nuremberg barber-surgeon	92
The collector and the library	95
5.1 The oldest book printed in Italy from Schedel's collection	99
5.2 Information about recent publications from Italy	101
5.3 An advertisement for books printed in Nuremberg	104
5.4 Hartmann Schedel on a pilgrimage to St Wolfgang near Salzburg	107
5.5 A Carolingian manuscript from a Regensburg monastery	110
5.6 Searching for books printed in Rome	113
5.7 The catalogue of Schedel's library	115
The World Chronicle and its sources	117
6.1 The Nuremberg Chronicle in German translation	121
6.2 The chronicle of a Carthusian from Cologne	125
6.3 The chronicle of an Augustinian hermit from Bergamo	128
6.4 Pope Pius II as a geographer	131
The books and their fates	134
7.1 The Augsburg reprints of the Chronicle	141
7.2 Conrad Celtis (1459–1508)	145
7.3 Hieronymus Münzer (1437–1508)	149
7.4 Johannes Trithemius (1462–1516)	152
7.5 Hartmann Schedel's grandson	155
Appendix
Bibliography	157
Index of persons	165
Books exhibited and cited	167
BSB-Ink-numbers of incunabula cited	167
Contributors	168