

Table of Contents

Introduction: Humanitarianism, Communications, and Change	1
Simon Cottle and Glenda Cooper

Part One: Humanitarianism and Communications in a Changing World

Chapter One: Humanitarianism, Human Insecurity, and Communications: What's Changing in a Globalised World?	19
Simon Cottle
Chapter Two: Media Futures and Humanitarian Perspectives in an Age of Uncertainty and Complexity	39
Randolph Kent
Chapter Three: From Buerk to Ushahidi: Changes in TV Reporting of Humanitarian Crises	53
Richard Sambrook
Chapter Four: Digital Humanitarianism	61
Paul Conneally

Part Two: Cash, Charity, and Communication

Chapter Five: ‘Give us your *ing money’: A Critical Appraisal of TV and the Cash Nexus 67
Glenda Cooper

Chapter Six: NGOs, Media, and Public Understanding
25 Years On: An Interview with Paddy Coulter,
Former Head of Media, Oxfam..... 79
Paddy Coulter with Glenda Cooper

Chapter Seven: 3,000 Words that Explain How to Build a Powerful Fanbase,
Make Your Message Go Viral, and Raise Millions for Your Cause 91
Liz Scarff

Part Three: The Politics of Pity and the Poverty of Representation

Chapter Eight: International NGOs, Global Poverty, and the Representations of Children 103
Nandita Dogra

Chapter Nine: Underline, Celebrate, Mitigate, Erase: Humanitarian NGOs’
Strategies of Communicating Difference 117
Shani Orgad

Chapter Ten: Solidarity in the Age of Post-humanitarianism..... 133
Lilie Chouliaraki

Part Four: NGO Communications: Impacts, Audiences, and Media Ecology

Chapter Eleven: From Pictures to Policy: How Does Humanitarian
Reporting Have an Influence? 153
Suzanne Franks

Chapter Twelve: Learning from the Public: UK Audiences’ Responses to Humanitarian Communications 167
Irene Bruna Seu

Chapter Thirteen: NGO Communications in the New Media Ecology:
How NGOs Became the ‘New(s) Reporters’ 183
Kimberly Abbott

Part Five: Changing Communications and Communication Power

Chapter Fourteen: Visualizing Human Rights: The Video Advocacy of WITNESS.	197
Stuart Allan
Chapter Fifteen: Big Data and Humanitarian Response	211
Patrick Meier
Chapter Sixteen: 'Power in my Pocket': How Mobile Citizen Reporting Challenges Digital Elitism	219
Alice Klein
Chapter Seventeen: New Approaches to Aggregation and Verification in Humanitarian Newsgathering and Coverage	229
Claire Wardle
Chapter Eighteen: Mobile Emergencies, Mobile Phones: The Hidden Revolution	239
Imogen Wall and Kyla Reid

Conclusion

Chapter Nineteen: Humanitarianism, Communications, and Change: Final Reflections	251
Glenda Cooper and Simon Cottle
Contributors	265
Index	271