Preface — v

List of Contributing Authors — xi

1 General Part — 1

- 1.1 Introduction and History of the Preanalytical Phase
Guder WG — 3
- 1.2 Requesting Laboratory Tests: Benefits and Limitations of Laboratory Diagnostic Pathways
Hoffmann G, Aufenanger J, Födinger M, Cadamuro J, von Eckardstein A, Kaeslin-Meyer M, Hofmann W — 11
- 1.3 Definition of the Influence and Interference Factors in the Preanalytical Phase
Guder WG — 22
- 1.4 Extraanalytical Procedures and their Management in Total Turnaround Time
Guder WG, Wisser H — 27

2 Types of Samples and Anatomic Site of Origin — 35

- 2.1 Arterial, Venous or Capillary Blood ?
Guder WG, Hagemann P — 37
- 2.2 Special Pre-Examination Conditions in Newborns and Pediatric Patients
Vassault A, Couderc R — 40
- 2.3 Venous Blood Sampling (Phlebotomy)
Guder WG, Cornes MP — 50
- 2.4 Arterial Sampling of Blood
Guder WG, Hagemann P — 54
- 2.5 Capillary Sampling of Blood
Cornes MP, Guder WG — 59
- 2.6 Plasma or Serum? Which Anticoagulant to Use?
Guder WG, Narayanan S — 64
- 2.7 Spot or Timed Urine – Preanalytical Aspects of Urinalysis
Guder WG, Delange J — 69
- 2.8 When are other Body Fluids to be Analyzed?
Guder WG — 81
- 2.9 Who is Doing Phlebotomy in Europe?
Simundic A-M — 90

3	Biological Variables Influencing Laboratory Results — 95
3.1	Age and Gender Differences – Unavoidable Influences on Laboratory Results Guder WG, Narayanan S — 97
3.2	Variables during Sampling Guder WG, Narayanan S — 102
3.3	Food, Drinks and Smoking Narayanan S, Guder WG — 115
3.4	Effect of Herbs Narayanan S, Young DS — 123
4	Source and Nature of Interferences of Analytical Procedures — 133
4.1	The Hemolytic Sample Guder WG, da Fonseca-Wollheim F, Schmitt YM, Töpfer G — 135
4.2	The Lipemic Sample Guder WG, Nikolac N, Schmitt YM, Töpfer G — 141
4.3	The Icteric Sample Guder WG, da Fonseca-Wollheim F, Schmitt YM, Töpfer G — 147
4.4	Drug Interferences Sonntag O, Tryding N — 152
4.5	Interferences from Blood Sampling Device Materials on Clinical Assays: I Blood Collection Devices and Their Constituents and Additives Bowen RAR, Adcock-Funk DM — 170
4.6	Influences and Interferences from Blood Sampling Device Materials on Clinical Assays: II Special Devices and Procedures; Recommendations Bowen RAR, Adcock-Funk DM — 205
5	Sampling Materials and Techniques — 217
5.1	Materials and Techniques of Sampling Blood and other Body Fluids. Contributions of Greiner – Bio One Ivanov H, Präuer J, Schimpl M, Castelo-Rose G, Wiesner C, Ehrenfellner T — 219
5.2	Materials and Techniques of Sampling Blood by Sarstedt Seipelt C — 231
5.3	BD Preanalytical Systems – Diagnostic Sample Collection Schlüter K, Church S — 238
6	Specimen Processing in the Preanalytical Phase — 249
6.1	Sample Transport, Treatment after Arrival, Storage and Disposal Guder WG, Narayanan S — 251
6.2	Preanalytical Workflow Techniques and Procedures Streichert T, von Meyer A — 264

7	Prenalytical Variables and Rules in Specific Fields of Medical Laboratory Diagnostics — 271
7.1	Hemostaseology Dempfle C-E, Töpfer G — 273
7.2	Hematology including Flow Cytometry of Blood Cells Banfi G, Guder WG, Narayanan S — 282
7.3	Blood Gases, Ions and Electrolytes Simundic A-M — 292
7.4	Clinical Chemistry including Metabolites, Enzymes, Hormones and Proteins Narayanan S, Guder WG — 298
7.5	Prenalytical Variables in Therapeutic Drug Monitoring Narayanan S, Agrawal Y — 305
7.6	Prenalytical Variables in Microbiology Narayanan S, Schuetz AN — 318
7.7	Biobanking Leichtle A, Findeisen P — 328
8	Quality Assurance and Auditing of the Prenalytical Phase — 335
8.1	Auditing of the Prenalytical Phase Petersmann A., Schlüter K, Nauck M. — 337
8.2	Internal Quality Assurance for Prenalytical Phase Cadamuro J — 345
8.3	External Quality Assurance for the Prenalytical Phase Kristensen GBB, Aakre KM, Kristoffersen AH, Sandberg S — 352
9	Annex: Samples and Stability of Analytes — 365
	Index — 399
