

Contents

Introduction . . . . .	1
Stefan E. Weishaar, Niels Philipsen, and Guangdong Xu
 Part I Competition Law and Public Procurement
Market Integration as the Goal of Competition Law: The EU Experience and Its Implications for China . . . . .	15
Jingyuan Ma
The State of State Action in EU Competition Law (Post-Greek Lignite) and a National Competition Strategy for China . . . . .	41
Mel Marquis
Striking an Uneasy Balance Between Competition and Market Integration: The Case of EU Public Procurement . . . . .	97
Stefan E. Weishaar
 Part II Financial Regulation
Lessons from the European Sovereign Debt Crisis for China . . . . .	121
Jiye Hu and Shouji Sun
Why Are China's State-Owned Enterprises so Profitable? A Financial Repression Perspective . . . . .	139
Guangdong Xu and Binwei Gui
Is There a Level Playing Field in China's Capital Markets? An Analysis of Public and Private Enforcement . . . . .	165
Wenjing Li and Tianshu Zhou

Part III    Freedom of Establishment, Professional Regulation and Self-Regulation

Regulation of the Inter-Provincial Establishment of Companies:
Applying the Private Interest Approach to China . . . . . 183
Guang Shen and Niels Philipsen

Business Restrictions in the Legal Professions: Do We Need More Market Integration? . . . . . 211
Niels Philipsen and Qi Zhou

The Regulation of Corporate Environmental Responsibility . . . . . 239
Mengxing Lu and Michael Faure

Self-Regulation Versus Public Regulation: An Analysis of Environmental and Safety Standard Setting in the Oil and Gas Pipeline Sector . . . . . 267
Mehdi Piri Damagh and Michael Faure

Part IV    Conclusions

Comparative and Concluding Remarks . . . . . 311
Stefan E. Weishaar and Niels Philipsen