

Contents

Foreword — IX

Chapter 1

Introduction — 1

- 1 Aim of this book: providing success factors for labour market, benefit and pension reforms — 2
- 2 A brief recap of welfare state history — 3
  - 2.1 Origins of today's welfare states — 4
  - 2.2 Causes for the creation of the welfare state — 5
  - 2.3 Two conceptual approaches: Bismarck and Beveridge — 6
  - 2.4 The 1970s and 1980s: welfare states under pressure — 8
  - 2.5 Fall of the Iron Curtain and intensified globalisation — 10
- 3 Worlds of welfare capitalism: a framework for assessing the need for reforms and their successful implementation — 11
  - 3.1 General typology — 11
  - 3.2 Specific challenges to welfare state models — 14
- 4 The LISC approach: legitimacy, implementation, stakeholders and communication — 18
  - 4.1 Legitimacy — 18
  - 4.2 Implementation — 24
  - 4.3 Stakeholders — 26
  - 4.4 Communication — 29
- 5 Structure of the book — 30

Chapter 2

Interviews with 12 heads of government — 32

- 1 Austria — 34
  - 1.1 Interview with Wolfgang Schüssel — 34
  - 1.2 A note on Austrian labour market performance over the past decade — 45

2 Denmark — 56

- 2.1 Interview with Anders Fogh Rasmussen — 56
- 2.2 A note on Danish labour market performance over the past decade — 65

3 Estonia — 80

- 3.1 Interview with Andrus Ansip — 80
- 3.2 A note on Estonian labour market performance over the past decade — 86

4 France — 98

- 4.1 Interview with François Fillon — 98
- 4.2 A note on French labour market performance over the past decade — 110

5 Germany — 126

- 5.1 Interview with Gerhard Schröder — 126
- 5.2 A note on German labour market performance over the past decade — 138

6 Greece — 152

- 6.1 Interview with Georgios Papandreou — 152
- 6.2 A note on Greek labour market performance over the past decade — 163

7 Italy — 175

- 7.1 Interview with Mario Monti — 175
- 7.2 A note on Italian labour market performance over the past decade — 186

8 The Netherlands — 204

- 8.1 Interview with Jan Peter Balkenende — 204
- 8.2 A note on Dutch labour market performance over the past decade — 217

9 Poland — 231

- 9.1 Interview with Jerzy Buzek — 231
- 9.2 A note on Polish labour market performance over the past decade — 241

10 Slovakia — 255

- 10.1 Interview with Iveta Radičová — 255
- 10.2 A note on Slovakian labour market performance over the past decade — 265

11 Spain — 278

- 11.1 Interview with José Luis Rodríguez Zapatero — 278
- 11.2 A note on Spanish labour market performance over the past decade — 288

12 United Kingdom — 302

- 12.1 Interview with Tony Blair — 302
- 12.2 A note on United Kingdom labour market performance over the past decade — 308

Chapter 3*Conclusion — 325*1 Legitimacy through domestic climate, external pressures and sound evidence — 326

- 1.1 Fiscal consolidation arguments are key to creating a domestic climate conducive to advocating and implementing LMBP reforms — 327
- 1.2 External pressures play a key role in legitimising reforms all over Europe — 328
- 1.3 Sound evidence is at the heart of any compelling justification of LMBP reforms — 331

2 Factors for successful implementation — 334

- 2.1 Acknowledging path-dependency and creating the right eco-system is crucial for successful reforms — 335
- 2.2 Governments must start implementing LMBP reforms immediately upon election — 336
- 2.3 Government cohesion is vital but can be brought about by different leadership approaches — 339

3 Consultation and compensation – important issues in stakeholder management — 343

- 3.1 The usefulness of compensating those losing out from reform is highly disputed — 344

- 3.2 Consultation is seen as a key means to ensure that reforms are implemented and sustainable — 345
- 4 Crucial communication in various arenas — 349
  - 4.1 A strong and simple narrative is decisive with regard to successfully implementing reforms — 349
  - 4.2 Heads of government see as much merit in adopting a catch-all communication approach as in targeting specific audiences — 351
  - 4.3 Successful reformers use feedback from the key stakeholders with a view to modifying the thrust of reforms and selling the modifications to the general public — 353

Chapter 4

Epilogue – Learn from the past to be prepared for the future — 355

- 1 New challenges prompting the next wave of reforms — 355
  - 1.1 Growing disparities in the labour market — 356
  - 1.2 The digital revolution in the economy — 357
  - 1.3 Growing numbers of migrant workers — 358
  - 1.4 Ongoing demographic challenges — 359
- 2 Crucial areas for future reform — 360
  - 2.1 Countering labour market segmentation — 360
  - 2.2 Improving labour market dynamics — 362
  - 2.3 Providing adequate social security — 364
  - 2.4 Adapting to an ageing population — 365
  - 2.5 The future role of social partners — 366
- 3 Resulting challenges along the process dimension — 368

Bibliography — 370

Index — 378