1 The Lamang Language Documentation Project.....	21
1.1 Introduction.....	21
1.2 The Lamang language: Nomenclature and linguistic classification.....	23
1.2.1 Distribution and classification of Lamang	25
1.2.2 The Lamang-Hdi language continuum (aka Lamang Group)	27
1.3 Completing the documentation: The bilingual corpus-based dictionary	31
1.3.1 Linguistic fieldwork in Nigeria.....	32
1.3.2 Desk work on the corpus and dictionary: Acknowledgements	33
1.4 Notes on the representation of Lamang	36
1.4.1 Semi-orthographic transcription	36
1.4.2 Representing consonants and vowels.....	38
1.4.2.1 General problems of analysis.....	38
1.4.2.2 Transcribing consonants	41
1.4.2.3 Transcribing vowels.....	42
1.4.3 Systematic neutralisation	44
1.4.4 Representing length	44
1.4.5 Representing tonality	46
1.4.6 Use of hyphenation in the Revised Grammar (Volume I)	49
1.4.7 Towards a ‘Standard Orthography’ of Lamang	49
1.5 Conventions on conjoined, disjoined, and hyphenated writing, and the use of apostrophe in the Revised Grammar (Volume I).....	54
1.6 Abbreviations used in interlinear glossing etc.	55
2 A Revised Grammar of Lamang	59
2.1 Introduction.....	59
2.2 Phonology	60
2.2.1 Segmental phonology: Consonants, approximants, and vowels	60
2.2.1.1 Transcription conventions.....	60
2.2.1.2 Consonants and approximants (semi-consonants)	60
2.2.1.3 Vowels and approximants (semi-vowels)	64

2.2.1.4 Neutralisation of segmental phonemes	76
2.2.1.5 Phonetic length of consonants and vowels	77
2.2.1.6 Pro- and epenthetic vowels	79
2.2.1.7 Syllable structures	82
2.2.1.8 Apocopation	82
2.2.1.9 Sandhi phenomena: Nouns and verbs with CV structure	83
2.2.2 Suprasegmental phonology	85
2.2.2.1 Introduction	85
2.2.2.2 Segmental influence on non-contrastive pitch melodies	85
2.2.2.3 Non-contrastive accent and downdrift	88
2.2.2.4 Morphophonologically induced stress	91
2.2.2.5 Lexical tone	92
2.2.2.6 Grammatical tone	94
2.2.2.7 Tone sandhi: Floating tones, copy tones, polar tones	95
2.2.3 The phonological sub-system of the expressives	99
2.2.4 Utterance intonation	102
2.3 Personal pronouns	102
2.3.1 Simple dependent personal pronouns	104
2.3.1.1 Clitic subject pronouns	104
2.3.1.2 Affixed object pronouns	105
2.3.1.3 Suffixed possessive pronouns	106
2.3.2 Independent and complex personal pronouns	107
2.3.2.1 Independent personal pronouns	107
2.3.2.2 Prepositional personal pronoun compounds	107
2.4 Noun morphology	108
2.4.1 The attributive modifier suffix {-á}	109
2.4.1.1 With simple nouns	109
2.4.1.2 With plural nouns	114
2.4.2 Noun plurals	115
2.4.2.1 Regular plural formation by suffix {-há}	116

2.4.2.2 Internal and suppletive plurals (kinship terms).....	117
2.4.3 Compounding.....	118
2.4.3.1 Lexicalised compounds with márákw- , zàl- , and lá-	118
2.4.3.2 Locative expressions for patricial compounds.....	120
2.4.3.3 Alternative construction for compounds with zàl-	121
2.4.4 Derivation of nouns: dàdà- , lá- , lí-	121
2.4.4.1 Derivation of unspecific human referent by dàdà- , lá-	121
2.4.4.2 Singulative uses of lá-	122
2.4.4.3 Alternative plural expressions for unspecific human referent	123
2.4.4.4 Derivation of collectives by lí-	123
2.4.5 The noun in associative constructions	124
2.4.5.1 Regular associative construction of nouns.....	124
2.4.5.2 Collective associative construction of nouns	126
2.4.6 Contrastive term focus marking on nouns	127
2.4.7 Morphological encoding of distributiveness.....	128
2.5 Verb morphology I: Roots and derivational morphology	130
2.5.1 General: Features of the verbal system.....	130
2.5.2 Verb root classes and simple (lexical) verb stems	133
2.5.3 Root augmentation: Pluractional roots.....	136
2.5.3.1 Pluractional forms of monoverbs.....	136
2.5.3.2 Pluractional forms of no vowel verbs	136
2.5.3.3 Pluractional forms of low vowel verbs	137
2.5.3.4 Pluractional forms of high vowel verbs	137
2.5.3.5 Intensified pluractional roots	137
2.5.3.6 Full reduplication of pluractional roots.....	138
2.5.3.7 Left-edge CV-reduplication	138
2.5.4 Motion verbs: Synchronic and diachronic	139
2.5.4.1 The motion verbs dza- ‘go’ and skwa-/sa- ‘come’	140
2.5.4.2 The motion verbs la- ‘go’ and sa- ‘come’	143
2.5.4.3 A note on *dá- ‘go to(wards)’	147
2.5.4.4 The defective verb *mbađa ‘go’	147

2.5.5 Neutral and inherently intransitive verbs	148
2.5.6 Extended verb stem derivation.....	149
2.5.6.1 The ventive extensions: {-‘vv’}, {-‘ghà’}.....	151
2.5.6.2 The efferential extensions: {-‘b’}, *{-‘ ^{+y} bi’}	151
2.5.6.3 The upward movement extensions: {-‘f’}, *{-‘ ^{+y} fī’}	152
2.5.6.4 Downward movement extensions: {-‘gáa’}, *{-‘ ^{+y} dī’}, {-‘vv’}	152
2.5.6.5 The illative extension: {-‘ŋ’}	153
2.5.6.6 The inchoative-partitive extension: {-‘ŋ’}	154
2.5.6.7 The terminative extension: *{-‘ŋw’} > [-úŋ’]	155
2.5.6.8 The altru-benefactive extension: {-‘ŋw’} > [-úŋ’]	155
2.5.6.9 The autobenefactive extension: *{-‘w’} > [-ú’]	156
2.5.6.10 The remotive-medial extension: {-‘w’} > [-ù’]	157
2.5.6.11 The separative extension: {-‘s’}	157
2.5.6.12 The additive (from bottom) extension: {-‘s’}	158
2.5.6.13 The additive (from top) extension: {-‘vv’}	158
2.5.6.14 The reductive-causative-downward extension: {-‘vv’}	159
2.5.6.15 The causativising extensions: {-‘vv’}, {-‘ŋ’}, {-‘ŋà’}	159
2.5.6.16 The applicative extension: {-‘gà-’}	160
2.5.6.17 The reflexive extension: {-‘và-’}	162
2.5.6.18 The completive-referential extension and nominaliser {-‘tá~’-‘tá’} ..	163
2.5.6.19 The stative-qualitative extension and nominaliser {-‘ùkù’}	164
2.5.6.20 Extended verb stems and specificity of reference.....	165
2.6 Verb morphology II: Nominalisation and inflectional morphology	167
2.6.1 Verbal nouns and citation forms of verbs	167
2.6.1.1 Simple verbal noun and citation form.....	167
2.6.1.2 Extended verbal noun and citation form	168
2.6.1.3 The pluractional verbal noun	170
2.6.2 Incorporated pronoun object	170
2.6.3 TAM formations	171
2.6.3.1 Irrealis (Subjunctive Mood).....	172
2.6.3.2 Realis (Indicative Mood)	180

2.6.3.3 Expressions of ITERATIVE sub-aspect in aorist, imperfect and habilitative	197
2.6.3.4 Expressions of REPETITIVE sub-aspect in subjunctive III and imperfect	202
2.6.3.5 Periphrastic constructions outside the TAM system proper	206
2.6.3.6 The *quotative construction of the narrative aspect	207
2.6.3.7 The expression of future tempus	209
2.6.3.8 The emergence of preterite tempus	210
2.6.3.9 The expression of sequential-conjunctive	211
2.6.4 Verbal negation strategies	213
2.7 Other word classes	214
2.7.1 Qualitatives	214
2.7.2 Expressives	216
2.7.3 Determiners	217
2.7.3.1 Demonstratives	217
2.7.3.2 The locative demonstratives	221
2.7.3.3 The temporal demonstratives	221
2.7.3.4 The referential markers	222
2.7.3.5 The particular marker	224
2.7.3.6 Comparative demonstratives	225
2.7.3.7 Indefinite determination	226
2.7.4 Quantifiers: Numerals and indefinite quantifiers	227
2.7.4.1 Numerals	227
2.7.4.2 Indefinite quantifiers	229
2.7.5 Simple and complex prepositions	229
2.7.5.1 Use of pre-prepositions	230
2.7.5.2 Complex ('bodypart') prepositions	231
2.7.6 Modal particles and conjunctions	232
2.7.6.1 Modal particles	232
2.7.6.2 Conjunctions	234
2.7.7 Interrogative pronouns	239

2.8 Syntax of the noun phrase.....	239
2.8.1 Attributive determination.....	239
2.8.1.1 Deictic (demonstrative) determination.....	239
2.8.1.2 Demonstrative spread.....	241
2.8.2 Associative constructions ('genitive', 'possession').....	241
2.8.2.1 Regular associative construction of nouns.....	242
2.8.2.2 Collective associative construction of nouns	243
2.8.2.3 Qualitative attributive modification	243
2.8.3 Concatenation of nouns.....	245
2.8.4 Relative constructions	246
2.8.4.1 Overt relativisation.....	246
2.8.4.2 Modifying appositional clause	247
2.8.4.3 Headless relatives.....	248
2.8.5 Comitative and other attributive prepositional phrases.....	249
2.9 Syntax of the verb phrase.....	250
2.9.1 Nominal and pronominal subject	251
2.9.2 Nominal and pronominal object: Direct and indirect object.....	252
2.9.3 Defective and auxiliary verbs	255
2.9.3.1 The defective verbs *ha 'exist' and *ga quotative/'say'	255
2.9.3.2 The auxiliary use of the verbs *vra and *hma 'repeat, do again'	257
2.9.4 Functions of quotative constructions involving *ga	260
2.9.4.1 Expressions of 'saying'	261
2.9.4.2 Quotative: Marking direct speech	261
2.9.4.3 Quotative: Expressions of 'how to call, be called'	262
2.9.4.4 Quotative: Expressions of 'how to do' the action of the main verb.....	262
2.9.4.5 Quotative: Predication of ideophones	263
2.9.4.6 Quotative: Expression of narrative aspect	263
2.9.5 Incorporated adverbial complements	264
2.10 Clause structure.....	266
2.10.1 Verbal predicate clauses and neutral word order	266

2.10.2 Verbal clause nominalisation 267

2.10.2.1 ‘Attributive modifier’ constructions 268

2.10.2.2 Regular associative constructions 268

2.10.2.3 Possessive constructions 272

2.10.2.4 Term focus constructions 273

2.10.2.5 Relative construction 275

2.10.2.6 Deictic determiner constructions 275

2.10.2.7 Other nominal constructions 278

2.10.3 Cognate object-like constructions 278

2.11 Adverbial phrases and clauses 279

2.11.1 Locative adverbial complements 282

2.11.2 Temporal adverbial complements 283

2.11.3 Manner adverbial complements 284

2.11.4 Comitative adverbial complements 285

2.11.5 Instrumental adverbial complements 285

2.11.6 Benefactive adverbial complements 286

2.11.7 Comparative adverbial complements 286

2.11.8 Clauses of time 287

2.11.8.1 Unmarked implicit iconicity of temporal sequence 287

2.11.8.2 Explicit iconic marking of temporal sequence:
Sequential-conjunctive 288

2.11.8.3 Explicit marking of subsequence 290

2.11.8.4 Terminal time point 291

2.11.9 Clauses of condition 292

2.11.10 Clauses of reason 293

2.11.11 Clauses of purpose 294

2.11.12 Clauses of concession 295

2.11.13 Clauses introduced by sáí borrowed from Hausa 295

2.12 Marked information structure, interrogative clauses, and negation 296

2.12.1 Topicalisation 297

2.12.2 Term focus 299

2.12.3 Predication focus.....	302
2.12.3.1 Perfective macro-aspect (inherent focus).....	303
2.12.3.2 Non-perfective predication focus: Subject linking	304
2.12.4 Interrogative clauses	306
2.12.4.1 Yes/no-questions.....	306
2.12.4.2 Wh-questions	307
2.12.5 Negation strategies.....	311
2.12.5.1 Simple clause negation.....	311
2.12.5.2 Constituent negation: hà ... wó ‘there is no ...’	313
2.12.5.3 Focus negation (predication focus and term focus): bà	314
2.12.5.4 Dependent clause negation: kwól ‘without’	318
2.12.5.5 Purpose clause negation: hí (ká) ‘lest’	319
2.12.5.6 Modal negation: Prohibitive.....	319
2.12.5.7 Negative tagging	320
2.13 A summarising view on clause linking.....	320
2.14 Non-verbal clauses.....	326
2.14.1 Clauses containing morphemes with copula function.....	326
2.14.1.1 Subject clitics acting as copula	326
2.14.1.2 Distant deictic determiner acting as copula	330
2.14.1.3 The future marker acting as copula.....	337
2.14.2 Non-verbal predicators.....	337
2.14.3 Equational predicates	338
2.14.4 Existential predicates	339
2.14.5 Locative predicates	339
2.14.6 Qualitative predicates.....	339
2.14.7 Comparative predicates.....	339
2.14.8 Tempus marking in non-verbal clauses	340
2.14.9 Negation strategies for non-verbal clauses	340
3 Towards a Comparative Phonology and Grammar of Lamang-Hdi	345
3.1 Introduction.....	345

3.1.1 Internal dialectal variation: Lamang	348
3.1.2 Internal dialectal variation: Hdi	349
3.1.3 Short comparative wordlist Mabas-Lamang-Hdi.....	350
3.2 Segmental and prosodic phonology of Lamang-Hdi:
Consonants and vowels.....	351
3.2.1 Consonants and prosodies in Lamang-Hdi	353
3.2.2 Vowels and prosodies in Lamang-Hdi.....	358
3.2.2.1 The status of schwa in Lamang-Hdi	359
3.2.2.2 Phonetic surface realisations vs. underlying representations of vowels in Lamang-Hdi	360
3.2.2.3 Accounting for final mid vowels in Lamang-Hdi	365
3.3 Elements of the suprasegmental phonology of Lamang-Hdi:
Depressor consonants, pitch accent, stress and tone	367
3.3.1 Lamang and Hdi: Suprasegmental typology	369
3.3.1.1 Lamang: A ‘multiple split’ system.....	369
3.3.1.2 Hdi: A ‘normal’ tone system?.....	372
3.3.2 Floating tones and tone rules	374
3.3.2.1 Floating tones of grammatical morphemes in Lamang.....	374
3.3.2.2 Phrasal tone rules in Hdi	375
3.3.2.3 Functions of grammatical tone on verb roots.....	376
3.3.3 Tone reversal in Lamang-Hdi	377
3.3.4 Diachronic interpretation of comparative Lamang-Hdi suprasegmental typology	381
3.4 Pronouns in Lamang-Hdi.....	386
3.5 Lamang-Hdi nominal morphology and noun phrase syntax	389
3.5.1 Nominal plurals.....	389
3.5.2 Deixis and association of nouns and possessives.....	390
3.5.3 Further affixal markers	392
3.5.4 Remnants of Proto-Chadic gender marking?.....	392
3.5.5 Modification of nouns.....	393
3.6 Deictic determination, term focus, topicalisation	394
3.6.1 Deictic determiners	394

3.6.2 Term focus and topicalisation	395
3.7 Verb root, pluractional root augmentation, and simple verbal nouns	395
3.7.1 Phonological verb classes	395
3.7.2 Pluractional verb roots	396
3.7.3 Simple verbal nouns	398
3.8 Derivational morphology	399
3.8.1 Verbal extensions in Hdi	399
3.8.2 Verbal extensions in Lamang	400
3.8.3 Comparison of Lamang and Hdi extensions	401
3.9 Inflectional morphology	403
3.9.1 Irrealis/subjunctive mood	404
3.9.2 Realis: Macro-aspects, aspects, and tempus	409
3.9.3 Cross-cutting iterative and repetitive aspect (Lamang)	416
3.9.4 Macro-aspects as form-meaning classes	417
3.9.5 Conclusion: TAM categories and paradigms in Lamang-Hdi	418
3.10 Clause types and negation in Lamang-Hdi	418
3.10.2 TAM categories with intrinsic focus in Lamang and Hdi	419
3.10.3 Inventory and types of negation in Lamang-Hdi	421
3.10.3.1 Lamang	421
3.10.3.2 Hdi	422
3.10.4 Confrontative comparison: Negation in Lamang and Hdi	423
3.10.4.1 Simple clause negation (Lamang only)	423
3.10.4.2 [+focus] negation	424
3.10.4.3 [-focus] (verbo-)nominal predicates	425
3.10.5 Negation and modality	426
3.10.6 ‘Without’	427
3.10.7 Negative tagging	428
3.10.8 Summary and conclusion	429
