

Contents

Preface — 1

Editions, abbreviations, and other conventions — 3

Moralia — 4

Parallel Lives — 7

Other Lives — 9

Symbols, orthography, and transliteration of Greek terms — 10

Introduction — 11

1.1 Plutarch and education — 11

1.2 What is significant about Plutarch's ethical education? — 13

1.3 Scope, structure, and approach of this study — 17

Chapter 1

Character change and character development in Plutarch: the significance of education in a range of settings — 22

1.1 Plutarch and his theory of nature vs nurture — 22

1.2 Character change (metabolē) and character development (epanorthōsis) — 29

1.3 Metabolē in the Parallel Lives — 31

1.4 Epanorthōsis and its dual dimension — 38

1.5 Conclusion — 40

Chapter 2

Moral education between parents and children — 42

2.1 Introduction — 42

2.2 Plutarch and childhood: trivial comparisons or opportunities for adult moralism? — 44

2.3 Parenthood in the Moralia and the Parallel Lives — 55

2.3.1 Motherhood — 55

2.3.1.1 Motherhood in the Moralia — 56

2.3.1.2 Motherhood in the Parallel Lives — 61

2.3.2 Fatherhood — 71

2.3.2.1 Fathers as a requirement for the greatness of the son — 71

2.3.2.2 Fatherhood as a stimulant to great actions — 73

2.3.2.3 Fatherhood and power — 76

Chapter 3

Moral training in the classroom — 79

- 3.1 The complementarity of On reading the poets and On listening to lectures — 79
- 3.2 Early and adult education: continuation and appropriation — 92
- 3.3 Proper teachers and wise advisors in the Parallel Lives — 97
- 3.4 Alcibiades and Dion: Platonic teachers in action — 100
- 3.5 Conclusion — 107

Chapter 4

The marital chamber as a school for well-ordered comportment: women's education — 108

- 4.1 Female ethical education in the Moralia — 108
- 4.1.1 Advice on marriage — 109
- 4.1.2 Consolation to my wife — 114
- 4.1.3 Virtues of women — 116
- 4.2 Wives in the Parallel Lives — 119
- 4.3 Conclusion — 124

Chapter 5

Politics as a site of moral education — 126

- 5.1 Moral education and political engagement — 126
- 5.2 Pedagogical aspects of political life in the Moralia — 128
- 5.3 The three stages of political behaviour: the older politician as a moral teacher for younger ones — 139
- 5.4 Experience as a moralising qualification for statesmanship — 143
- 5.5 'Not only does the office distinguish the man, but also the man the office' (Praec. ger. reip. 811B): the ethics of contemporary politics and Plutarch's autobiographical narratives — 146
- 5.6 Conclusions — 149

Chapter 6

Moralising in the military field: Plutarch and the ethics of generalship — 151

- 6.1 Introduction — 151
- 6.2 Aemilius Paulus and Timoleon: the ethical power of the philosopher general — 153
- 6.3 Sertorius and Eumenes: ethical imposition and the education of barbarians — 161
- 6.4 Concluding remarks — 168

Chapter 7*Educating over wine: moral pedagogy in Plutarch's Table Talk — 173

- 7.1      Introduction — 173
- 7.2      Programmatic didacticism in the proems to the Books of Table Talk — 175
- 7.3      Pedagogy in the symposium — 179
- 7.3.1    Problem 1, Book 1 — 179
- 7.3.2    Problem 2, Book 1 — 182
- 7.4      'Predominance' in the discussions: sophistic or ethical? — 185
- 7.5      Applied 'predominance': from tactfulness to aggressiveness — 188
- 7.6      'Men practise philosophy when they are silent' (Quaest. conv. 613F): silence and its moralising dynamics — 191
- 7.7      Conclusion — 193

Conclusion — 195

- Reading ethical education in Plutarch — 195

Bibliography — 204*Index of names and topics — 238*Index of Plutarchan passages — 247*Index of passages in other authors — 259