

012 — 013

Map

Our handy map will help you to get an idea of Honolulu's layout and better navigate the key areas in this guide.

014 — 015

Need to know

From language and customs to cash and quirks of the weather, this cheat sheet will give you the basics for your stay in Honolulu.

016 — 025

Hotels

A boom in tourism in the 1960s has left Honolulu with an eclectic assortment of accommodation options. Whether you prefer the dependable big chains or Waikiki's famed historic hotels such as The Royal Hawaiian, our guide will point you towards the best bets for bedding down.

026 — 045

Food and drink

With a fresh emphasis on the use of Hawaiian produce, the dining scene in Honolulu takes in traditional cuisine as well as the fusion of styles brought by waves of immigrants. Check out the variety in our guide to restaurants, bars, farmers' markets and more.

026 — 034

Restaurants

034 — 037

Breakfast and lunch

038 — 039

Food markets

039 — 041

Desserts

041 — 043

Coffee shops

043 — 044

Bars

045

Purveyors and producers

046 — 059

Retail

Why stick to Waikiki, with its tourist-gearred shops, when you can travel further afield and sample the lesser-known brands and products of the islands? We reveal the treasures that are tucked away off the beaten track, just waiting for you to snap them up.

046 — 054

Mixed bag

055 — 057

Clothing

058 — 059

Surfboards and beachwear

060 — 062

Things we'd buy

It wouldn't be a Hawaiian holiday without an aloha shirt but if you're looking to take home a range of mementos, this list of products and specialities makes the perfect shopping list.

063 — 086

Essays

There's a lot more to Honolulu than beaches, surfing and lei. Monocle asks a range of locals and other experts about the things that comprise the destination's individual culture and charisma, from art and literature to Elvis and Spam.

087 — 095

Culture

Honolulu's diverse arts scene reinterprets what it means to be Hawaiian. Celebrating a hybrid cultural identity brought by settlers from Europe and Asia, its museums, fashion and music have a unique appeal.

087 — 089

Museums

090 — 091

Theatre and film

091 — 093

Other

093

Music

094

Nature

094 — 095

Literature

095

Best of the rest

096 — 109

Design and architecture

Honolulu is home to a tropical modernist style that dates back to its transformation from backwater to travel hotspot. Taking in the work of Vladimir Ossipoff – whose buildings typify this style – plus the older delights of Chinatown and the more recent additions to the city, we point design aficionados in the right direction.

096 — 098

Vladimir Ossipoff

098 — 099

Places of worship

100 — 102

State buildings

102

Living spaces

103 — 104

Traditional structures

104

Commercial buildings

105

Charles William Dickey

106 — 107

Signs

108

Memorials

109

Visual identity

110 — 121

Sport and fitness

You can't visit Honolulu and not check out the beaches, which is why we've rounded up all the best destinations for surfing, paddle-boarding, snorkelling or just relaxing. But don't let that be the limit of your activity: there are a host of walking, cycling and running trails to enjoy as well.

110 — 113

Watersports

114 — 115

Best beaches

116

Lawn bowls

116 — 117

Grooming

118 — 119

Hiking

120

Cycling route

120 — 121

Running routes

122 — 129

Walks

One of the best ways to explore Honolulu is by foot so be sure to pack your walking shoes. Join us as we show you four ways to enjoy the city at a more leisurely pace.

122 — 123

Manoa Valley

124 — 125

Downtown

126 — 127

Kaimuki

128 — 129

Chinatown

130 — 137

Beyond the city

Looking to explore a little further afield? Leave the city limits behind for the day and experience these out-of-town trips that we've tailored for your enjoyment.

130 — 133

Kailua

134 — 137

North Shore

138 — 139

Resources

Local lingo, top tunes, tips for getting around town, what to do on rainy days and much more – all in one handy guide.

140 — 141

About Monocle

Find out more about our global brand, from groundbreaking print, radio, online and film output through to our cafés and shops.

142 — 143

Acknowledgements

The people who put this guide together: writers, photographers, researchers and all the rest.

144 — 145

Index