

CONTENTS

Introduction: Idealism and Finitude	1
Catching Then Becomes a Power, 1 • The Kantian Premises, 11 • Hegel's Critique of Kant, 20 • Gadamer's Reversal of Hegel, 24
1 Kant on the Formation of Taste	31
The Quarrel Continued, 31 • Most in Need of Examples, 38 • The Ideal of Beauty, 49 • Exemplary Objects and the Artificiality of Taste, 59 • The Centrality of Art, 68 • Succession and Practical Criticism, 76
2 Kantian Revisionism and Revisionist Kantianism	90
Kant on Better Understanding, 90 • Fichte as Explicator of Kant, 97 • Originality Disowned, 105
3 Esoteric Enlightenment in Fichte	110
Choosing to Be Free, 110 • The Fichtean Experiment, 118 • Transcendental Pedagogy, 131
4 Friedrich Schlegel on Textual Communication	140
Schlegel on the Spirit of Fichte's Philosophy, 140 • Constructed Readers, 149 • Confused Authors, 153 • Characterization, 161 • Between Inspired and Methodical Reading, 169
5 Exoteric Enlightenment in Hegel	173
Dialogue and Dialectics, 173 • Language as Universal Infection, 176 • The Voices of the Phenomenology, 186
Conclusion: The Afterlife of a Distinction	191
A Glance Back and a Question, 191 • McDowell On Second Nature, 193 • The Last Distinction, 200 • The Unavailability of Reconciliation, 209
Acknowledgments	213
Notes	215
Bibliography	271
Index	285