

Table of Contents

A.	Theoretical introduction into Creating Shared Value	1
1	Introduction.....	3
1.1	Creating Shared Value (CSV) as a new terminology in business ethics	3
1.2	Research question and objectives	3
1.3	Course of investigation	4
2	Theory of business ethics	7
2.1	Morality and competition	7
2.2	Order ethics as a concept of incentivized business ethics	8
2.3	Integrative business ethics (Ulrich).....	11
2.4	From business ethics theories to practical business ethics.....	12
3	Conceptual introduction of "Creating Shared Value"	15
3.1	Historical development of CSR theory	15
3.2	Overview of definitions of the field of Corporate Social Responsibility.....	19
3.3	Concept of "Creating Shared Value" (CSV)	21
B.	Comparative analysis of CSV theory and related concepts.....	31
4	Creating Shared Value and related theories and tools.....	33
4.1	Shared Value concepts prior to Porter's Creating Shared Value.....	33
4.2	Corporate Social Responsibility and CSV	34
4.3	Corporate Citizenship and CSV	37
4.4	Bottom of the Pyramid and CSV	40
4.5	Stakeholder Theory and CSV.....	43
4.6	Corporate Sustainability and CSV	46
4.7	Social Entrepreneurship and CSV.....	50
5	Critical summary of the CSV concept.....	55
5.1	Summary of definitions of corporate responsibility concepts	55

5.2	Business and academic perception of Creating Shared Value	57
5.3	Originality of CSV	58
5.4	Criticism on the concept of CSV	63
5.5	CSV elements for further analysis	66
C.	Empirical study of CSV unique elements	71
6	CSV differentiator - Business with underserved markets in developed economies.....	73
6.1	Identification of underserved markets through market segmentation	73
6.2	Analysis of market opportunities in developed economies for low income individuals	75
6.3	Analysis of market opportunities in developed economies for high income individuals	84
6.4	Summary of CSV opportunities in underserved markets within developed economies	86
7	CSV differentiator - Market opportunities through reshoring production	89
7.1	Definition of 'reshoring'	89
7.2	Moral perspective of CSV opportunities through reshoring	89
7.3	Economic perspectives of production offshoring to developing countries	90
7.4	Current trend towards reshoring in manufacturing	93
7.5	CSV opportunities through relocating production	95
D.	Impact of geography and other success factors for CSV	97
8	Geographic differences of CSR and its impact on CSV applicability	99
8.1	Traditional CSR understanding in Germany and the United States	99
8.2	CSV and German social market economy	106
8.3	CSV and American free market economy	108
8.4	Differences of CSV applicability in Germany and the United States	108
9	Analysis of success factors of CSV initiatives	113
9.1	External factors influencing Creating Shared Value	113

9.2	Corporate success factors for Creating Shared Value	142
9.3	Summary of CSV success factors	153
E.	Conclusion.....	159
10	Conclusions – CSV the future of competitive advantage?	161
10.1	Conclusions and implications for businesses.....	161
10.2	Research contribution, limitations and elements for future research	166
10.3	Creating Shared Value as the future factor for competitive advantage?.....	171
F.	Appendix.....	173