

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
List of Abbreviations	xiv
Introduction: Werner Herzog's Films and the Other Discourse of Romanticism	1
1: Image and Knowledge	12
Ironic Self-Consciousness in Cave of Forgotten Dreams (2010)	20
Romantic Melancholy in The Wild Blue Yonder (2005)	31
Aesthetic Others in Fitzcarraldo (1982)	41
Traces of the Magical in Invincible (2000)	59
Conclusion	70
2: Surface and Depth	72
The Arabesque and the Secret in Encounters at the End of the World (2007)	81
Surface and Depth, Secret and Memory in The White Diamond (2004)	93
Trauma as Adventure in Little Dieter Needs to Fly (1997)	97
Walking as Remembering in Wings of Hope (1999)	107
Conclusion	114
3: Beauty and Sublimity	117
Sublime Spaces in The Dark Glow of the Mountains (1984)	124
Human Wrath and Sublime Nature in Aguirre, the Wrath of God (1972)	134

Endless Approximation in The Great Ecstasy of Wood-Carver Steiner (1973)	139
Sublime Risk in La Soufrière (1977)	143
Conclusion	148
4: Man and Animal	152
Aesthetic Vision Deferred in Grizzly Man (2005)	160
Man and Chicken in Stroszek (1976)	167
Monstrous Belief in Nosferatu (1978)	173
Conclusion	178
5: Sound and Silence	180
Listening in the Silence in Land of Silence and Darkness (1971) and Heart of Glass (1976)	189
Sound and Nostalgia in Happy People: A Year in the Taiga (2010)	192
The Critical Potential of Romantic Melancholy in Into the Abyss: A Tale of Death, A Tale of Life (2011)	194
Conclusion	205
Conclusion: Herzog's Romantic Cinema	208
Notes	219
Bibliography	259
Index	285