

Contents

Acknowledgements — IX

1	Introduction: Infocommunications and Digilect — 1
1.1	Objectives — 1
1.2	Structure of the book — 2
1.3	Digital communication — 3
1.3.1	Text composition and reading comprehension — 10
1.3.2	The social network — 11
1.4	On the verges of orality and literacy — 13
1.5	Methodology — 19
1.6	Corpus used for the analysis — 20
2	Digilect as Language Variety — 22
2.1	Introducing the concept of digilect — 22
2.1.1	The system of lects (language varieties) — 23
2.1.2	The status of digilect in linguistics — 25
2.1.3	Again on the status of digilect in linguistics — 28
2.2	Genres and text types of digilect — 28
2.2.1	E-mail — 31
2.2.2	Internet forum — 32
2.2.3	Blog, vlog and tweet — 32
2.2.4	Social media, social networking websites: posts and comments — 34
2.2.5	Online chat and instant messaging (IM) — 38
2.2.6	Text message and multimedia message — 39
2.2.7	The hashtag — 42
3	Characteristic Features of Digilect — 46
3.1	The pragmatic-textological characteristics of digilect — 46
3.1.1	Relationship types between participants of digital communication — 46
3.1.2	Perspective — 48
3.1.3	Thematic progression — 48
3.1.4	The distinctive role of the phatic function — 51
3.1.5	Meta-themes — 53
3.2	The lexical features of digilect — 53
3.2.1	Foreign (mainly English) influence — 54
3.2.2	New words and collocations, new meanings — 54

3.2.3	IT vocabulary —	55
3.2.4	Expletives —	55
3.2.5	Individual and group-specific linguistic elements. Slang and taboo-breakers in digilect —	56
3.3	The grammatical features of digilect —	60
3.3.1	Character-saving techniques (abbreviating words and structures) —	70
3.3.2	Neologisms and word creation methods in digilect —	77
3.3.3	Impersonal forms, depersonification —	91
3.3.4	Syntactic characteristics. Spoken language features in writing —	92
3.3.5	Case study: topic-repeating structure as a spoken language characteristic —	93
3.3.6	Case study: grammaticalization of the Hungarian expression asszem —	103
3.4	The formal characteristics of digilect —	119
3.4.1	Phonetic spelling —	120
3.4.2	Upper and lower case —	123
3.4.3	Punctuation. Overused characters —	124
3.5	New literacy and image-based communication. Visuality in digilect —	127
3.5.1	Emoticons. Semiotic considerations —	129
3.5.2	Combinations of images and texts: ASCII art —	137
3.5.3	Reaction-gifs —	137
3.5.4	Memes —	140
4	Digilect (and its Effects) Based on the Findings of Two Questionnaire Surveys —	143
4.1	Questionnaire for primary school students (2008) —	143
4.1.1	Mobile phone and computer with the eyes of students aged 10–14 —	145
4.1.2	Differences in typing and “traditional” handwriting —	148
4.1.3	Handwriting characteristics of primary school students according to the survey —	157
4.2	Questionnaire (2010) —	157
4.2.1	Demographics and internet/mobile phone usage statistics —	160
4.2.2	Relationship between communication factors and preferred means communication —	169
4.2.3	Internet-specific expressions, abbreviations, word-forms —	173
4.2.4	Use of emoticons —	185

- 4.2.5 Digilect's impact on various written and oral linguistic forms, according to the questionnaire — 188

5 The Impact of Digilect on non-digital Media According to Corpus Analysis Findings — 196

- 5.1 The impact of digilect on spontaneous speech and conversation — 196
  - 5.1.1 Internet-specific acronyms in spontaneous spoken language — 197
  - 5.1.2 Emoticons in spontaneous spoken language — 198
  - 5.1.3 Internet-specific vocabulary — 199
- 5.2 The impact of digilect on handwritten texts — 200
  - 5.2.1 The impact of digilect on handwritten notes — 201
  - 5.2.2 The impact of digilect on handwritten letters (dialogue letters) — 206
- 5.3 The influence of digilect on printed texts, in particular advertisements — 220
  - 5.3.1 The characteristics and language of advertisements — 221
  - 5.3.2 The influence of digilect on advertising — 223

6 Summary and conclusions. Directions for further research — 236

- 6.1 Summary and conclusions — 236
- 6.2 The impact of the described digilect concept. Directions for further research — 236

Annex 1 — 241

Annex 2 — 243

Annex 3 — 244

Annex 4 — 263

Annex 5 — 269

Annex 6 — 276

Annex 7 — 277

Annex 8 — 279