

CONTENTS

|                                                                                                   |            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Acknowledgments .....                                                                             | page vii   |
| 1 Exposing Unofficial Collaborators .....                                                  | 1   |
| 1.1 The Disclosures of Respect .....                                                              | 1          |
| 1.2 Collaboration and Respect: A Framework .....                                                  | 12         |
| 1.3 Respect and Its Relatives .....                                                               | 23         |
| 1.4 The Method and the Sources .....                                                              | 27         |
| 1.5 An Outline of the Chapters .....                                                              | 31         |
| 1.6 Ideological and Partisan Reductions .....                                                     | 35         |
| 2 The Regime, the Secret Police, and Coming to Terms    with the Past .....           | 39  |
| 2.1 A Web of Surveillance .....                                                                   | 39         |
| 2.2 The IM Network .....                                                                          | 46         |
| 2.3 The Trials and Errors of Vergangenheitsbewältigung .....                               | 54         |
| 3 The Case(s) of the Litigating Spies: Public Shame,    Reputation, and Respect ..... | 72  |
| 3.1 Veils of Anonymity and Pillories of Shame .....                                               | 72         |
| 3.2 The Right of Personality: Schubert, Take One .....                                            | 74         |
| 3.3 The List of Informers and the Courts: Balancing Publicityand Respect .....                | 80         |
| 3.4 The Law of the Archives: Reputation's Wedge .....                                             | 87         |
| 3.5 Resozialisierung and the Right to Forgetfulness: Schubert,Take Two .....           | 91         |
| 3.6 A Tale of Two (Harmful) Brothers .....                                                        | 97         |
| 3.7 Conclusion: The Politics of Shame .....                                                       | 102        |
| 4 Civic Interpellations: Denunciation as Self-Disrespect ...                               | 104 |
| 4.1 The Rhetoric of Zivilcourage .....                                                     | 104        |

|     |                                                                             |     |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 4.2 | The Filth of Denunciation: Shaming Interpellations .....                    | 106 |
| 4.3 | Citizens and Barbarians: Encouraging Civic Courage .....                    | 115 |
| 4.4 | Dirty Hands and Respect: When in Doubt, Out .....                           | 123 |
| 4.5 | Failed Interpellation? .....                                                | 131 |
| 4.6 | Conclusion .....                                                            | 138 |
| 5   | Stasi Agents as Responsible Agents? Responsibility and Respect ..... | 140 |
| 5.1 | The Complexity of Responsibility, and the Fine Line of Respect .....        | 140 |
| 5.2 | The Most Important Weapon Against the Enemy .....                           | 143 |
| 5.3 | Forfeiting One's Soul: The Recalcitrance of Personal Intentions .....       | 161 |
| 5.4 | Displacing Responsibility: Why Wut Is Not Mut .....           | 170 |
| 5.5 | Conclusion .....                                                            | 183 |
| 6   | An Apology for Public Apologies: A Matter of Respect? ...            | 184 |
| 6.1 | A Less Respectful Kind of Apology? .....                                    | 184 |
| 6.2 | Deliverance from Resentment or Delivery of Repentance? ...                  | 187 |
| 6.3 | Interpersonal Repentance or Public Recognition? .....                       | 192 |
| 6.4 | From Emotional Report to Membership Reaccreditation ...                     | 198 |
| 6.5 | The Economy of Forgiveness: The Depreciation of Respect ...                 | 205 |
| 6.6 | Conclusion .....                                                            | 208 |
| 7   | The Politics of Reconciliation: Offering Respect? .....              | 210 |
| 7.1 | Introduction: The Kaiser's Apology .....                                    | 210 |
| 7.2 | A Ritualized Vergangenheitsbewältigung ? .....                       | 212 |
| 7.3 | Supererogation or Obligation? .....                                         | 218 |
| 7.4 | Of Suspension and Release: Without Reconciliation? .....                    | 223 |
| 7.5 | An Unrequited Apology: One Closure Takes Two Self-Disclosures .....         | 228 |
| 7.6 | Conclusion .....                                                            | 237 |
| 8   | Conclusion: Thou All-Spying Knave, of All Deeds of Shame .....       | 239 |
|     | Bibliography .....                                                          | 249 |
|     | Index .....                                                                 | 271 |