

Contents

Setting the Scene

Sebastian Dorsch

SpatioTemporalities on the line

Interdisciplinary perspectives for a cartography of lines — 3

Jutta Vinzent in conversation with Tim Ingold

From lines as geometrical form to lines as meshwork rather than network — 13

Lines, Linearities and Folds

Angelika Seppi

A line is not a line is not a line

From the capital line of metaphysics to a future ontology of the fold — 23

Jochen Brüning

Linie, Fläche, Raum – und Falte. Reflexionen eines Mathematikers.

Line, surface, space – and fold. Reflections of a mathematician — 43

Lines in Landscape and Society

Anna-Katharina Rieger

Lines in the landscape

Water distribution and socio-religious landscape in ancient southern Syria — 65

Samantha Schramm

Travelling along and away from the line

Sites and traces in Land Art — 96

Lines, Forces and Modernities

Barbara von Orelli-Messerli

The line as force

Henry van de Velde's scientific approach to artistic problems — 119

Kathrin Fehringer

Line, thread, and modern storytelling — 141

Timelines and Narratives

Harry O. Maier

The awful lines of Eusebius of Caesarea — 169

Holger Berg

Lines in “the stream of time” (Tidens Strøm)

A comparison of three chronological charts from nineteenth-century Denmark — 186

Interdisciplinary literature on lines — 226

About the authors — 245