

Contents

Foreword by Edward Udell	1
Preface	5
I. Preliminary Remarks: Theme, Sources, Method	7
II. The Beached Revolution of 1918–1919	13
1. The Political and Cultural Turn at the War's End	13
2. The Councils Movement and the Parties	24
3. The Failure of the Revolutionary Impulses	31
III. The Idea of 'Threefolding the Social Organism'	37
1. The Emergence of the Threefolding Idea in the Life of Rudolf Steiner	37
2. The Book: Towards Social Renewal	51
2.1 On Method	51
2.2 The Rights Life	55
2.3 Economic Life	61
2.4 Scientific, Cultural, and Spiritual Life	64
3. In Relation to the History of Ideas	67
IV. The Emergence of the Threefolding Movement	74
1. The Situation in Württemberg	74
2. The Stuttgart Initiative Circle	80
3. Tentative Attempts in the Economic, Cultural, and Political Fields	83
V. Towards a Popular Movement	90
1. Political Changes	90
2. The January 1919 Discussions in Dornach	91
3. The Preparation: Conceptual and Spiritual Groundwork; Personnel	96
VI. The First Phase: Information	105
1. The Second Revolutionary Wave	105
2. Rudolf Steiner's First Three Lectures	107
3. Effects: Response from the Public, and First Organizational Forms	116

VII.	The Second Phase: Organic Development	125
	1. The Works Councils Movement	125
	2. The Cultural Council Movement	133
	3. Political Plans and the War-Guilt Question	138
VIII.	The Third Phase: Criticism, Debate, Reorientation	151
	1. Criticism	151
	2. Debate	155
	3. Reorientation	170
IX.	The Founding of the Waldorf School	175
X.	A Glance Beyond 1919	182
XI.	The Threefolding Movement's Course, Failure, and Significance	187
	Notes	204
	Bibliography	227