

Contents

Translator's note	xi
BREAKOUT AT STALINGRAD	1
PART 1: The Gathering Storm	3
1. Back Home to the Reich?	5
2. Nasty Weather on the Don	32
3. In Retreat – to the East!	62
4. Caught in a Trap	91
PART 2: Between Night and Morning	117
1. Manstein's Coming!	119
2. Hunger and Morale	151
3. Black Christmas	188
4. Faint Outlines in the Fog	229
5. The Bone Road	250
6. Is There Really No Way Out?	268
PART 3: The Moment of Truth	293
1. The Die is Cast	295
2. Look What They've Done To Us!	336
3. Guilty in the Eyes of His People	384
4. Horror at Gumrak	410
5. No Way Back	433

6. Die – And Rise Again!	460
7. Twilight of the Gods	520
The Final Reckoning	549
Afterword	553
APPENDIX by Carsten Gansel	555
I. Seventy years in captivity – The remarkable story of Heinrich Gerlach's novel Breakout at Stalingrad	557
II. 'It's all come back to me...' – Using hypnosis to release locked-away memories	571
III. The Forsaken Army – A surprise bestseller	584
IV. A novel on trial – A first in legal and medical history	593
V. A spectacular discovery – Breakout at Stalingrad	602
VI. All in the past – Memoirs of a Königsberg Man	611
VII. Heinrich Gerlach in Lunyovo special camp – The founding of the BDO – Lost documentary footage	623
VIII. Heinrich Gerlach in Lunyovo special camp and the German communist exiles – A 'Who's Who' of the future GDR	632

IX. 'They'd stared into the abyss of hell' – Writing as an act of liberation	640
X. 'He's trying to cover up his past' – Heinrich Gerlach's odyssey through POW camps	659
XI. 'Unsuitable for repatriation' – Heinrich Gerlach in the clutches of the NKVD secret service	668
XII. New-found freedom and fear of abduction – Heinrich Gerlach in the sights of the Soviet secret service	682
XIII. Heinrich Gerlach's 'Breakout at Stalingrad' under scrutiny by the Soviet leadership – Malenkov, Beria, Suslov, Kruglov, Grigorian, Serov and Kobulov	687
XIV. The original manuscript	694