

Content

Acknowledgments	11
Introduction: Mobilities	15
Researching Mobilities in Urban Senegal	18
Turning away from old theories	19
Mobility as a way of “life-making”	21
Researching the unspoken	22
Toward an actor-oriented perspective	24
1. Sleuthing the Minutiae of Young Men’s Lifeworlds: Notes on
Methodology and Fieldwork	27
Secondary Socialization	31
Before embarking... ..	31
Arriving... ..	31
Learning the basics, the language of the field... ..	33
Getting ahead... ..	39
Reflecting on my Role in Fieldwork	42
Conclusion: The Underestimated Challenge of Fieldwork	51
2. Youth, Urbanities and Pikine/Dakar	53
Youth and Urban Africa	53
Seeing the City as “Ghetto”	56
The City of Pikine	58
Dakar as Landscape of Globalization and Consumerist Enticements	67
Abdoulaye Wade and his Vision for Dakar	70
Conclusion: Pikine Read by its Young Men	74
3. Youth in Pikine: Work and Disenchanted Social Worlds	77
Liggéey (Work) in Dakar	77
The Murid ethos of work	78
The stranger’s logic and class considerations around work	80
Generation Xoslu: Hustling to get by	85
Wut Xaalis and abstract meanings of wealth	88
Toward New Negotiations of Relationships between Men and Women	89

Facebook and Visualized Impersonation: Between Reality and Imagination	95
Loy Xaar? : The Inconvenient Realities of Waiting	98
La Fatigue (Tiredness).....	100
The Allure of Imaginations	101
Coming of Age in Pikine: Masculinity, Yearning and Suspension	103
Conclusion: Young Men Entangled between Social Status and Sobering Life Circumstances.....	106

4. Migration and its Moving Causes: Insights from Pikine	109
From Economic to Alternative Perspectives on Migration	109
In the aftermath of Barça wala Barzakh	109
Behind the veil: Different perspectives on migration	112
Alternative Perspectives on Migration	115
Migration: Intergenerational indebtedness and being out of sight ...	115
“Tubaab on television – I want to have that life!”: Touching what the media is talking about	119
Seeing and discovery: Migration as longing for the Global North ..	123
Foofu (the Elsewhere): Migration as a connection to the Global North.....	125
Migration Cognitions and Status Entanglements	127
Avoir rien : Turning down nothingness – Frustration and migration	127
Striving for success, social adulthood and the symbolism of the house.....	130
Alternative paths to success: Baol-Baol, university provisional enrollment, sports	134
Reconsiderations, Mythologization and Old/New Role Models	138
Losing its legitimacy? Taking the pirogue is too risky!	138
Modou-Modou: Ambivalences around an old role model?.....	141
Europe: Still a myth?.....	146
Migration and Sufi Islam: The Murid Point of View	150
“Mais c’est la vie, lolu la Yàlla ndogal” (But that’s life; that is the judgment of God).....	153
Conclusion: Migration as a Way to Become a Social Adult	154

5. Shifting Youth Identities in Pikine: Constructions, Negotiations and Ambiguities 157

 Young Male Lifeworlds between Camouflage and Showing Off 157

 Young Men’s Baayfaalism: Contrastive Visions 160

 Amadou and Baayfaalism 165

 The Market Economy of Colobane: Fanciness and How to Organize It 166

 Colobane 166

 Urban Belonging Revisited: Blurred Frontiers between Baayfaalism and Boytownism 169

 From Baayfaalism to Boytownism 169

 Boytownism: Hedonistic enjoyment and individualization 173

 Pleasures, Rays of Hope and Opportunistic Waiting 176

 Conclusion: Consumer Cultures and Eclectic Choices 182

6. Concluding Remarks 185

7. References 197