

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I.

	PAGE
Voyage to Gibraltar—View of Tangier—Interior of the town— Portuguese and English occupation—Hospitable reception by Sir John Drummond Hay—Ravenstrock—Government of Morocco—Climate of North Morocco—Exceptional season— The Djebel Kebir and its vegetation—Oistus and Heath region—Cape Spartel—Night at the Lighthouse—Cave of Hercules—Arab village—Return to Tangier	1

CHAPTER II.

Start for Tetuan—Vegetation of the low country—Serpent charmers—Twilight in the forest—The Fondak—Stormy night on the roof—Breakfast on the hill—Riff Mountains—A Governor in chains—Fate of high officials in Morocco—Valley of Tetuan—Jew quarter of the city—Ascent of the Beni Hosmar—Vegetation of the mountain—A quiet day—Jewish population—Ride to Ceuta—Spanish campaign in Morocco— Fortifications of Ceuta—Return to European civilisation— Spanish convict stations in Africa	25
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

CHAPTER III.

Sail to Algociras—Vegetation of the neighbouring hills—Com- parison between the opposite sides of the Strait of Gibraltar— Return to Tangier—Troubles of a botanist—Fex pottery— Voyage in French steamer—Rabat and Salée—Land at Case Blanca—Vegetation of the neighbourhood—Humidity of the coast climate—Mazagan—View of Safi	54
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

CHAPTER IV.

	PAGE
Arrival at Mogador—The Sultan's letter—Preparations for our journey—The town of Mogador—The neighbouring country—Ravages of locusts—Native races of South Morocco—Excursion to the island—Climate of Mogador—Its influence on consumption—Dinner with the Governor	75

CHAPTER V.

Departure from Mogador—Argan forest—Hilly country of Haha—Fertile province of Shedma—Hospitality of the Governor—Turkish visitor—Offering of provisions—Kashah of the Governor—Ride to Ain Oumast—First view of the Great Atlas—Pseudo-Sahara—Tomb of a saint—Nzelas—Ascend the 'Camel's Back'—Oasis of Sheshacua—Coolness of the night temperature—Rarity of ancient buildings—Halt at Ain Beida—Tents and luggage gone astray—Night at Miar ben Kara—Cross the Oued Nfys—Plain of Morocco—Range of the Great Atlas—Halt under tamarisk tree	95
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

CHAPTER VI.

Approach to the city of Morocco—Pleasant encounter—Halt in an olive garden—Interior of the city—Difficulty as to lodging—Governor unfriendly—Camp in the great square—Negotiations with the Viceroy—Successful result—Palace of Ben Dreis—Diplomatic difficulties—Gardens of Morocco—Interview with El Graoui	125
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

CHAPTER VII.

Choice of a route in the Atlas—Difficulty of procuring information—Hills near the city—Panorama of the Great Atlas—Probable height of the range—Wild birds of Morocco—Condition of the Jews—Departure from the city—Farewell interview with El Graoui—District of Mouloum—Interview with the Kaïd—Approach to the Great Atlas—Aspect of the vegetation—Castle of Taseeremout—Washington's visit—Jewish suppliants—Great boulder mounds—Ourika valley—Peculiarities of Moorish character—Rapacity of our escort	140
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

CHAPTER VIII.

	PAGE
Vegetation of Ourika valley—Destruction of the native trees— Our progress checked—Enforced return—Shelluh village— Ride from Ourika to Reraya—Trouble with our escort—A friendly Shelluh sheik—Native desire for medical advice— Characteristics of the Shelluhs—Zaouia of Moulaï Ibrahim— Camp in Ait Mesan valley—Excursion to the head of the valley—Reach the snow—Night travelling in the Atlas	175

CHAPTER IX.

The Shelluh sheik bribed—Arrangements for stopping at Arround—Medical practice among the Shelluhs—Arabic cor- respondence—Unexpected difficulty—Strango fancies of the natives—Threatening weather—Our house at Arround— Gloomy morning—Saint's tomb—Escape from our guides— Strange encounter—Snow-storm—Tagharot pass—Descent to Arround—Continuance of bad weather—Sacrifice of a sheep —Shelluh mountaineers—Fauna of the Great Atlas—Return to Hasni—Deplorable condition of our camp	207
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

CHAPTER X.

Departure from Hasni—Plateau of Sektana—Grand view of the Great Atlas—Departure of Maw—Village of Gurgouri—In- triguess of Kaïd el Hasbi—Passage of the Oued Nfys—Arrival at Amsmiz—Friendly Governor—Difficulties as to further progress—Position of Amsmiz—Sleeping quarters in the Kasbah—Fanatical sheik—Shelluh market—View of the Amsmiz valley—Village of Iminteli—Friendly Jews—Geo- logical structure and vegetation of the valley—Sheik's oppo- sition overcome—Ascent of Djebel Tesah—The guide left behind—View from the summit—Anti-Atlas seen at last— Deserted dwellings on the peak—Ancient oak forest—Rapid descent—Night ride to Iminteli	239
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

CHAPTER XI.

Return to Amsmiz—Arround villagers in trouble—Pains and pleasures of a botanist—Ride across the plain—Mronda— Experiences of a Governor in Morocco—Hospitable chief of

	PAGE
Keira—A village in excitement—Arrival at Seksaoua—Fresh difficulties as to our route—A faithful black soldier—Rock vegetation at Seksaoua—Ascent of a neighbouring mountain—View of the Great Atlas—Absence of perpetual snow—Return of our envoy from Mtouga—Pass leading to Tarudant—Native names for the mountains—Milhain—Botanising in the rocks	271

CHAPTER XII.

Departure from Milhain—Defile of Ain Tarsil—Dwellings of the troglodytes—Arrival at Mtouga—Gloomy evening—Governor's return from the fight—Prisoners of war—Their fate—Ride to Miskala—A venerable Moor—Return to the Kasbah of Shedma—Poisoned guests—Ride to Ain el-Hadjar—The Iron mountain—Ancient mining work—Eccentric soldier—Ascent of Djebel Hadid—Ruins of Akermout—Ride to Mogador—A Kasbah in ruins—Powder-play on the beach—Return to Mogador	290
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

CHAPTER XIII.

Second stay at Mogador—Plants obtained through native collectors—Outrage committed by the Haha people—Story of the troubles in Haha—Farewell presents to our servants and escort—An unpunctual tradesman corrected—Exports from Mogador—Caravans from Timbuktu—Jewish wedding—Voyage in the Lady Havelock —Land at Saffi—Excursion ashore—Land at Mazagan—Return to Tangier, and thence to England	320
---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

CHAPTER XIV.

Resources of Morocco—Moorish government a hopeless failure—Future prospects of Morocco—Objections to European interference—Answers to such objections	348
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

APPENDICES.

APPENDIX A.

Observations for determining Altitudes of Stations in Morocco.	PAGE
By JOHN BALL	357

APPENDIX B.

Itineraries of Routes from the City of Morocco through the Great Atlas. By SALOMON BEN DAUD	360
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX C.

Notes on the Geography of South Morocco. By JOHN BALL	371
-----------------------------------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX D.

On some Economic Plants of Morocco. By JOSEPH DALTON HOOKER	380
--------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX E.

A Comparison between the Flora of the Canary Islands and that of Morocco. By JOSEPH DALTON HOOKER	404
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX F.

A Comparison between the Mountain Flora of Tropical Africa and that of Morocco. By JOSEPH DALTON HOOKER	421
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX G.

On the Mountain Flora of two Valleys of the Great Atlas. By JOHN BALL	423
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX H.

	PAGE
Notes on the Geology of the Plain of Morocco and the Great Atlas. By GEORGE MAW, F.G.S., F.L.S., &c.	444

APPENDIX I.

Moorish Stories and Fables	468
--------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX K.

On the Shelluh Language. By JOHN BALL	478
--------------------------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX L.

Note on the Roman Remains known to the Moors as the Castle of Pharnoh, near Mouley Edris el Kebir. Communicated by Messrs. W. H. RICHARDSON and H. B. BRADY, F.R.S.	486
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

INDEX