

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
Chapter 1: Situating Weber's ethic of responsibility	13
1. Introduction	13
2. Situating the ethic of responsibility historically	14
3. Situating the ethic of responsibility textually	19
3.1 Science as a vocation	19
3.2. Politics as a vocation	23
3.3. Brief comparison of the two speeches	29
3.4. How should 'Politics as a vocation' be categorised academically?	31
4. Situating the ethic of responsibility biographically	38
5. Conclusion	45
Chapter 2: Major interpretations	47
1. Introduction	47
2. Interpretations in terms of responsibility for consequences	49
2.1 One of the main existing ethical approaches in Western politics (Lothar Waas)	49
2.2. One leg of the appropriate ethical approach in politics (Nicholas Gane, Hans-Peter Müller)	52
2.3. A situated consequentialist ethics attuned to charismatic political leadership (Peter Breiner)	56
2.4. A variant of utilitarian ethics suitable not only for political ethics, but also for applied ethics in general (Wolfgang Wieland)	60
3. Interpretations in terms of responsibility for both conviction and consequences	65
3.1 The responsible ethic of conviction as the appropriate ethics of the political sphere (H. H. Bruun)	65
3.2. An alternative for Kant's formal ethical theory in late modernity (Wolfgang Schluchter)	70
4. Conclusion	77

Chapter 3: Weber's views on ethics and politics: The bigger picture	79
1. Introduction	79
2. Views on ethics	80
2.1. External consequences of rationalisation	82
2.2. Internal consequences of rationalisation	85
2.3. Inappropriate and appropriate responses to modernisation	90
3. Views on politics	98
3.1. Sociological views on politics	99
3.2. Personal political views	104
3.3. The solution for the problems of political leadership	111
4. Conclusion	117
Chapter 4: Towards an adequate interpretation	119
1. Introduction	119
2. A critical assessment of the major interpretations	120
2.1. Lothar Waas	120
2.2. Nicholas Gane and Hans-Peter Müller	122
2.3. Peter Breiner	124
2.4. Wolfgang Wieland	127
2.5. H. H. Bruun	130
2.6. Wolfgang Schluchter	134
3. An interpretation in terms of responsibility	138
3.1. The emergence of the concept of responsibility	139
3.2. An ethical approach fundamentally qualified by responsibility	143
3.3. Weber and the philosophers of the 'via media'	152
4. Conclusion	154
Chapter 5: The impact of modernisation on ethics: An appraisal of Weber's views	156
1. Introduction	156
2. The secularisation thesis	157
3. The differentiation thesis	165
4. The 'iron cage' thesis	173
5. Conclusion	183
Chapter 6: Going beyond Weber's ethic of responsibility	186
1. Introduction	186
2. Critical assessment of Weber's ethic of responsibility	186
2.1. Commendable aspects	186
2.2. Problematic aspects	197

3. A proposal for a contemporary ethic of responsibility	207
3.1. Terminological clarification	207
3.2. Presuppositions	210
3.3. Features	214
4. Conclusion	228
 Bibliography	 229
 Name index	 237
Subject index	241