

Table of Contents

1 Introduction	11
1.1 The Broader Societal Context	11
1.2 The Contemporary Professional Context	16
1.3 Personal Branding in Contemporary Careers	22
1.4 The Present Study	27
2 Conceptualization of Personal Branding	34
2.1 Personal Branding in Self-Management Literature	35
2.1.1 Personal Responsibility in a Changing Environment	36
2.1.2 Marketing and Monitoring of the Personal Brand	39
2.1.3 Implications from Self-Management Literature	42
2.2 Personal Branding from an Academic Perspective	44
2.2.1 Categorizing Persons for the Application of Branding	46
2.2.2 Conceptualization and Definition of Personal Branding	48
2.2.3 Context of Personal Branding	52
2.3 Personal Branding Behaviors	54
2.3.1 Self-Promotion	57
2.3.2 Ingratiation	59
2.3.3 Networking	61
2.4 Synthesis and Implications for the Present Study	64
3 Theoretical Backdrop	69
3.1 Social Capital	70
3.1.1 Definition and Conceptualization of Social Capital	71
3.1.2 Reputation as Part of Social Capital	77
3.2 Impression Management	80
3.2.1 Strategy and Impression Management	82
3.2.2 Reputation as Impression Management Motive	85
3.3 Impression Management Process Model	87
3.3.1 Environmental Setting	88

Table of Contents

3.3.2 Personal Factors	90
3.3.3 Social Factors	93
3.4 Synthesis and Implications for the Present Study	95
4 Social Media and Personal Branding	98
4.1 The Internet as Communication Channel	98
4.1.1 Internet Affordances	99
4.1.2 Personal Information on the Internet	101
4.2 Social Media Formats	103
4.2.1 Definition of Social Media	104
4.2.2 Social Media Formats Relevant to Personal Branding	106
4.2.2.1 Social Network Sites	108
4.2.2.2 Microblogs	111
4.3 Reputation and Social Media	112
4.3.1 Personal Information on Social Media	113
4.3.2 Relevance of Reputation Management on Social Media	115
4.4 Personal Branding Behaviors on Social Media	116
4.5 Synthesis and Implications for the Present Study	121
5 The Academic Context	124
5.1 Careers in Academia in Germany	124
5.1.1 Structural Factors Relevant to Academic Careers	125
5.1.2 Individual Factors Relevant to Academic Careers	130
5.1.3 Publication, Visibility, and Academic Reputation	132
5.2 Situating Personal Branding in Academic Communication	134
5.2.1 Informal Scholarly Communication	135
5.2.2 Personal Branding Audience in the Academic Context	137
5.3 Social Media Use in Academia	138
5.3.1 Extent of Social Media Use by Scholars	139
5.3.2 Social Media and Academic Reputation	142
5.4 Synthesis and Implications for the Present Study	144
6 Model of Personal Branding of Academics on Social Media	147
6.1 Personal Branding Behaviors of Academics on Social Media	148
6.1.1 Self-Promotion Behaviors of Academics	148

6.1.2 Ingratiation Behaviors of Academics	149
6.1.3 Networking Behaviors of Academics	150
6.2 Application of Process Model to Academics on Social Media	152
6.2.1 Environment in the Context of Social Media	152
6.2.2 Personal Factors in Academia and Social Media	153
6.2.3 Social Factors in Academia and Social Media	162
6.3 Synthesis and Implications for the Present Study	165
6.4 Research Questions and Hypotheses	167
 7 Method and Study Design	 174
7.1 Study Design	174
7.2 Sampling and Procedure	178
7.2.1 Sample	178
7.2.2 Procedure	182
7.3 Description of Sample	185
7.4 Questionnaire	188
7.4.1 Pretest	188
7.4.2 Variables	189
 8 Results	 202
8.1 Personal Branding Behaviors	202
8.1.1 Activities Important to Academic Career Advancement	203
8.1.2 Personal Branding of Academics on Social Media	206
8.2 Environmental Setting	210
8.3 Personal Factors	215
8.3.1 Demographic and Professional Factors	215
8.3.2 Perceived Relevance of the Social Media Environment	224
8.3.3 Personal Branding Efficacy	227
8.3.4 Comparison Orientation	228
8.4 Social Factors	229
8.5 Model of Personal Branding	233
8.5.1 Direct Relationships in Personal Branding Model	233
8.5.2 Indirect Relationships in Personal Branding Model	244

Table of Contents

9 Discussion and Conclusion	246
9.1 Summary and Discussion of the Personal Branding Model	247
9.2 Placing the Results in a Broader Theoretical Context	262
9.3 Limitations and Directions for Future Research	267
References	271
Appendix	299