

Contents

Endorsement	9
Christa Rohde-Dachser
Foreword to the Second English Edition	11
Peter Fonagy
Preface to the Second English Edition	15
Introduction	19
Historical Background	19
Signpost	25
1 Psychoanalysis: The Current State
1.1 Our Position	30
1.2 The Psychoanalyst's Contribution	38
1.3 Crisis of Theory	44
1.4 Metaphors	65
1.5 Training and Research	69
1.6 Directions and Currents	75
1.7 Sociocultural Change	81
1.8 Convergences and Divergences	86
2 Transference and Relationship
2.1 Transference as Repetition	102
2.2 Transference as Unconscious Schema	106
2.3 Suggestion, Suggestibility, and Transference	107
2.4 Dependence of Transference Phenomena on Technique	110
2.5 Transference Neurosis as an Operational Concept	112
2.6 A Controversial Family of Concepts: Real Relationship, Therapeutic Alliance, Working Alliance, and Transference	114
2.7 The New Object as Subject: From Object Relationship Theory to Two-Person Psychology	125
2.8 The Recognition of Actual Truths	128
2.9 The Here-and-Now in a New Perspective	130
2.10 Intersubjectivity, Bifocality of Transference and the Third	136
3 Countertransference
3.1 Countertransference: The Cinderella in Psychoanalysis	142
3.2 Stage Two: Positive Aspects of Countertransference	145
3.3 Stage Three: Countertransference in Intersubjective Psychoanalysis	150

Contents

3.4	Specific Issues Related to Countertransference	153
3.4.1	Consequences and Problems of the Comprehensive Conception	153
3.5	Concordance and Complementarity of Countertransference	160
3.6	Should the Analyst Admit Countertransference or Not?	162
3.7	How to Deal with Countertransference in Clinical Work?	168
4	Resistance
4.1	General Factors	172
4.1.1	Classification of the Forms of Resistance	173
4.1.2	Function of Resistance in Regulating Relationships	175
4.1.3	Resistance and Defense	176
4.2	Anxiety and the Protective Function of Resistance	179
4.3	Repression and Transference Resistance	186
4.4	Id and Superego Resistance	190
4.4.1	The Negative Therapeutic Reaction	193
4.4.2	Aggression and Destructiveness: Beyond the Mythology of Instinct	197
4.5	Secondary Gain from Illness	207
4.6	Identity Resistance and the Safety Principle	208
5	Interpretation of Dreams
5.1	Freud's Theory of Dreams and Dreaming	214
5.2	Theoretical Remarks on Freud's Theory	216
5.3	Day Residue and Infantile Wish	220
5.3.1	Wish Fulfilment Theory: A Unifying Principle of Explanation	222
5.3.2	Self-Representation and Problem Solving	223
5.4	Self-Representation Theory and Its Consequences	225
5.5	Clinical Dream Research	229
5.6	Experimental Dream Research	233
5.7	Technique of Dream Interpretation	242
5.7.1	General Points of View	242
5.7.2	Freud's Recommendations and Later Extensions	243
6	The Initial Interview and the Latent Presence of Third Parties
6.1	The Problem	252
6.2	Diagnosis	254
6.3	Therapeutic Aspects	262
6.4	Decision Process	268
6.5	The Patient's Relatives	275
6.5.1	The Burden on the Relatives	278
6.5.2	Typical Situations	279
6.6	Third-Party Payment	283
6.6.1	Psychoanalysis and the German Health Insurance System	283
6.6.2	The Impact on the Psychoanalytic Process	289

7 Rules
7.1 The Multiple Functions of Psychoanalytic Rules	294
7.2 Free Association: The Fundamental Rule of Therapy	301
7.2.1 Features and Development	301
7.2.2 Instructing the Patient About the Fundamental Rule	304
7.2.3 Free Association in the Analytic Process	310
7.3 Evenly Suspended Attention	315
7.4 The Psychoanalytic Dialogue and the Counterquestion Rule	321
7.4.1 The Foundation and History of the Stereotype	324
7.4.2 Rules Governing Cooperation and Discourse	329
7.4.3 Object Finding and Dialogue	331
8 Means, Ways, and Goals
8.1 Time and Place	336
8.2 Psychoanalytic Heuristics	344
8.3 Specific and Nonspecific Means	347
8.3.1 General Points of View	347
8.3.2 Remembering and Reconstruction	349
8.3.3 Intervention, Reaction, and Insight	354
8.3.4 New Beginning and Regression	361
8.4 Transference Interpretations and Reality	364
8.5 Silence	382
8.6 Acting Out and Enactment	388
8.6.1 Acting Out and Action in Psychoanalysis	388
8.6.2 The Irruption of the Enactment	397
8.7 Working Through	402
8.8 Learning and Restructuring	410
8.9 Termination	416
8.9.1 General Considerations	416
8.9.2 Duration and Limitation	418
8.9.3 Criteria for Termination	423
8.9.4 The Postanalytic Phase	425
9 The Psychoanalytic Process
9.0 Process or Processes	430
9.1 Function of Process Models	432
9.2 Features of Process Models	434
9.3 Models of the Psychoanalytic Process	438
9.4 The Ulm Process Model	445
9.5 From Process to Outcome	457
10 Relationship Between Theory and Practice
10.0 Metascientific Discussions	462
10.1 Freud's Prize Question	463

Contents

10.2 Psychoanalytic Practice in Light of the Inseparable Bond	465
10.3 The Context of Justification of Change Knowledge	470
10.4 The Differing Requirements for Theories of Pure and Applied Science	474
10.5 Consequences for Therapeutic Action and for the Scientific Justification of Theory	477
References	483
Name Index	541
Subject Index	553