
Contents

Prologue / 9

1 / Introduction: applied anthropology at home / 11

Contexts / 11

Ethnographic fieldwork in organisations / 14

The organisation Rights for Minorities Worldwide / 16

Steps / 17

Updates / 20

2 / The situation of the Roma of Central and Eastern Europe / 23

Numbers and measurement / 23

From numbers to a narrative of marginalisation / 26

The solution: inclusion and participation / 33

3 / The Roma project NET / 41

Designing NET: fitting experiences and social relationships into a funding scheme / 43

Running NET / 45

Reflections / 47

The Action Alert / 50

More reflections / 52

4 / The partners' concerns: relating the project to their situation / 55

Marginalised motivation / 55

Gender equality and education / 56

Reflections / 57

5 / The coordinators' concerns: clarity of project terms and activities / 59

Categories / 59

Language / 60

Capacity Building / 60

Reflections / 63

6 / The anthropologist's concern: relating to the field / 65

Universals / 66

Roma: change, culture and equality / 68

Positions for anthropology / 69

7 / Clarity, vagueness and unease / 75

In the NGO-network / 75

In the NGO world / 79

Reflections / 81

8 / Networks and systems / 89

Social networks / 90

Actor-networks / 92

Working with networks / 97

Luhmann's social systems / 101

Applying Languages / 105

Epilogue / 113

Acknowledgements / 117

Literature / 119