

|                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                              |    |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Razumas V, Lindman B,Nylander T:                                       | Preface . . . . .                                                                                                                                                     | V  |
|                                                                            | Self-Assembly of Lipids, Macromolecules and Surfactants                                                                                                               |    |
| Sabra MC, Jørgensen K, MouritsenOG:                                    | Effects of the insecticides malathion and deltamethrinon the phase behaviour of DMPC multilamellar lipid bilayers . . . . .                                              | 1  |
| Engblom J, Mieziš Y, Nylander T,Razumas V, Larsson K:                  | On the swelling of monoolein liquid-crystalline aqueousphases in the presence of distearoylphosphatidylglycerol . . . . .                                                | 9  |
| Barauskas J, Razumas V, NylanderT:                                     | Entrapment of glucose oxidase into the cubic $Q^{230}$ and $Q^{224}$phases of aqueous monoolein . . . . .                                                                | 16 |
| Zinchenko AA, Sergeyev VG,Pyshkina OA:                                 | DNA–surfactant complexes in a water/alcohol mixture . . . . .                                                                                                                | 21 |
| Johansson I, Strandberg C,Karlsson B, Karlsson G,Hammarstrand K:   | Environmentally benign nonionic surfactant systems for usein highly alkaline media . . . . .                                                                             | 26 |
| Barreleiro PCA, Olofsson G,Feitosa E:                                  | Vesicle-to-micelle transition in DODAB and DODAC dispersionsinduced by $C_{12}E_8$ . An isothermal titration calorimetry study . . . . .                                 | 33 |
| Angelico R, Ambrosone L,Ceglie A, Palazzo G, Mortensen K,Olsson U: | Structure and dynamics of polymer-like reverse micelles . . . . .                                                                                                            | 37 |
| Lopes A, Lindman B:                                                        | Gelation of steroid-bearing dextrans by surfactants . . . . .                                                                                                                | 42 |
|                                                                            | Disperse Systems                                                                                                                                                      |    |
| Ruplis A:                                                                  | Sorption and catalytic properties of Latvian clay powders . . . . .                                                                                                          | 48 |
| Kekkonen J, Stenius P:                                                     | Deposition of wood resin emulsion droplets on ceramic oxides . . . . .                                                                                                       | 57 |
| Dingsøyr E, Christy AA:                                                    | Effect of reaction variables on the formation of silica particlesby hydrolysis of tetraethyl orthosilicate using sodium hydroxideas a basic catalyst . . . . .       | 67 |
|                                                                            | Interfacial Processes                                                                                                                                                 |    |
| Joabsson F, Lindman B:                                                     | Interfacial interaction between ethyl(hydroxyethyl)celluloseand sodium dodecyl sulphate . . . . .                                                                        | 74 |
| Poptoshev E, Carambassis A,Osterberg M, Claesson PM,Rutland MW:    | Comparison of model surfaces for cellulose interactions:elevated pH . . . . .                                                                                            | 79 |
| Dedinaite A, Claesson PM,Nygren J, Iliopoulos I:                       | Interactions between surfaces coated with cationichydrophobically modified polyelectrolyte in the presence and theabsence of oppositely charged surfactant . . . . . | 84 |
| Lunkenheimer K, Earnshaw JC,Barzyk W, Dudnik V:                        | Transitional behaviour of amphiphiles at the air/waterinterface under equilibrium and dynamic conditions . . . . .                                                       | 95 |

|                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                            |     |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Fagefors J, Wannerberger K,Nylander T, Söderman O:                                                                                      | Adsorption from soybean phosphatidylcholine/ N -dodecyl$\beta$ -D-maltoside dispersions at liquid/solid and liquid/air interfaces . . .         | 100 |
| Barzyk W, Lunkenheimer K,Warszyński P, Pomianowski A,Rosenthal U:                                                                   | Ideal (Langmuir-type) surface and electric properties of tert-iso-propylphosphine oxide at the air/water interface . . . . .                           | 107 |
| Hamraoui A, Thuresson K, Nylan-der T, Eskilsson K, Yaminsky V:                                                                          | Dynamic wetting and dewetting by aqueous solutions containingamphiphilic compounds . . . . .                                                           | 113 |
| Jachimska B, Warszyński P,Małysa K:                                                                                                     | Effects of motion in n -hexanol solution on the lifetime of bubblesat the solution surface . . . . .                                            | 120 |
| Ancutiene I, Janickis V:                                                                                                                    | Chemical deposition of copper sulfide films in the surfaceof polyethylene by the use of higher polythionic acids . . . . .                             | 129 |
| Ivanauskas R, Janickis V:                                                                                                                   | Chemical deposition of copper selenide films in the surfacelayer of polyamide by the use of selenopolythionates . . . . .                              | 134 |
| Biosensor Applications                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                            |     |
| Kulys J, Vidžiūnaitė R:                                                                                                                     | The role of micelles in mediator-assisted peroxidase catalysis . . . . .                                                                                   | 137 |
| Ramanavicius A, Habermüller K,Razumiene J, Meškys R,Marcinkeviciene L, Bachmatova I,Csöregi E, Laurinavicius V,Schuhmann W: | An oxygen-independent ethanol sensor based on quinohemoproteinalcohol dehydrogenase covalently bound to a functionalizedpolypyrrole film . . . . . | 143 |
| Šimkus R, Meškys R, Csöregi E,Corbisier P, Mattiasson B:                                                                                | Millihertz waveband oscillations in an unstirred bacterial culture . . .                                                                                   | 149 |
| Contents of Volume 116                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                            |     |
| Author/Title Index . . . . .                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                            | 155 |
| Key Word Index . . . . .                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                            | 157 |