

Contents

Acknowledgments — V

Introduction — 1

Part I: Post-imperial Europe: The Revenge of Peripheries

- 1 Post-imperial Europe: The Return of the Indistinct — 29
- 2 Translating the Untranslatable: Walter Benjamin and Homi Bhabha — 43
- 3 The Ethical Appeal of the Indifferent: Maurice Blanchot and Michel Foucault — 59

Part II: Franz Kafka and the Performance of Sacrifice

- 4 Unleashed Contingency? The Deterritorialization of Reality in The Trial — 71
- 5 State of Exception: The Birthplace of Kafka's Narrative Authority — 100
- 6 Almost the Same but not Quite: Kafka and His 'Assignees' — 110
- 7 Positional Outsiders and the Performance of Sacrifice — 126

Part III: J. M. Coetzee and the Politics of Deterritorialization

- 8 The Withheld Self-revelation: The 'Real' and Realities in Waiting for the Barbarians — 145
- 9 Conscience on the Pillar of Shame: The Grace of the Graceless in Disgrace — 180
- 10 From Lectures to Lessons and Back Again: The Deterritorialization of Transmission in Elizabeth Costello — 198

VIII — Contents

Appendix

Deprived of Protection: The Ethico-Politics of Authorship in Ian McEwan's
Atonement — 221

References — 237

Index — 255