Preface: Converging technologies from the nanoscale require enhanced ethics — VII

Forewords — XI

Acknowledgments — XVII

Introduction: Overall vision of ethics in nanotechnology developments — XXI

Embedding ethics in nanomedicine: Europe acted promptly — XXVII

List of contributing authors — XXXVII

About the editors — XLI

Part I: Nanotechnology challenges – implications for philosophy, ethics, and society

Frans W.A. Brom, Rinie van Est and Bart Walhout

1 Nanoethics: Giving orientation to societal reflection — 3

John Weckert

2 Is there a new technological imperative? — 21

Part II: Advancing nanoscience initiatives and ethical concerns

Marcel Van de Voorde and Michael Vlerick

3 Nanotechnology: Societal impact and ethical considerations — 43

Christian NGÔ

4 The nanotechnology transition — 63

Jean-François Hochepied

5 Technological revolution, societal counter-revolution? — 83

Kenneth A. Dawson

- 6 The evolution of nanoscale research: Lessons learned and questions asked — 93

Leszek A. Dobrzański, Lech B. Dobrzański, Anna D. Dobrzańska-Danikiewicz, Joanna Dobrzańska and Marzena Kraszewska

- 7 The synergistic ethics interaction with nanoengineering, dentistry, and dental engineering — 119

Judith Tanori and Amir Maldonado

- 8 Nanoscience and nanotechnology: Ethical implications for Latin American scientists — 191

Mohan L. Verma

- 9 Engineering marvels with nanotechnology — 205

Part III: Ethical reflections in health care and environment

Vittoria Viganò, Giovanni Bernardini and Mario Picozzi

- 10 Ethical principles and issues in nanomedicine: The role of clinical ethics — 229

Kathleen Spring and Klaus-Michael Weltring

- 11 Ethical and social aspects arising from nanomedicine in health care — 247

Julie Laloy

- 12 Ethics reflection and responsibility of nano drugs — 259

Simran Kukreja, Gunjan Jeswani, Amit Alexander, Swarnlata Saraf, Shailendra Saraf and Ajazuddin

- 13 Nanocosmetics: Technological advances and ethics — 275

Shuang Zhu, Zhanjun Gu, Chunying Chen and Yuliang Zhao

- 14 Safety of biomedical nanomaterials — 299

Marcel Van de Voorde and Gunjan Jeswani

- Conclusion — 315

- Index — 319
