

Table of Contents

|                                                                                                                                              |    |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Michal Bar-Asher Siegal, Jonathan Ben-Dov, and Eyal RegevAlbert Baumgarten: Contextualizing the Ancient Jewish Experience . . . . | IX |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|

I. Second Temple Studies

|                                                                                                                                                                         |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Gabriele BoccacciniJewish Scholarship on the Second Temple Period from the Renaissanceto Albert I. Baumgarten . . . . .                                  | 3   |
| Martin GoodmanPhilo's Extreme Allegorists Revisited . . . . .                                                                                                | 21  |
| Maxine L. GrossmanThe Dead Sea Sectarians. Breaking the Boundaries of anEssene-Shaped Space . . . . .                                                    | 31  |
| Charlotte HempelSelf-Fashioning in the Dead Sea Scrolls. Thickening the Descriptionof What Rule Texts Do . . . . .                                       | 49  |
| Sylvie HonigmanSocial and Economic Upheavals and the "De-Traditionalization" ofJudean Society in Hellenistic Times. The Background to Sectarianism . . . | 67  |
| Steve MasonJohn of Gischala and Simon bar Giora from Gerasa. A National Revolt? . .                                                                          | 87  |
| Eyal RegevThe Practice of Piety. The Puritans and Qumran . . . . .                                                                                           | 109 |
| Daniel R. SchwartzWho Brought on Antiochus's Decrees? On the Chaotic and "Worthless"Prehistory of Bickerman's Gott der Makkabäer . . . . .        | 127 |

Daniel Stökl Ben Ezra

The Place of 4QMMT in the Corpus of Qumran Manuscripts.

Beyond the Sussmann-Schiffman Dichotomy ..... 147

II. Rabbinics and Early Christianity

Michal Bar-Asher Siegal

Public Confession in the Babylonian Talmud and in Contemporary

Christian Sources ..... 165

Jonathan Ben-Dov

Rabbi Yehuda Hanasi and the Roman Year ..... 189

Shaye J. D. Cohen

Are Women and Gentiles “Persons” (Adam, Benei Adam)

in the Eyes of the Mishnah? ..... 205

Steven D. Fraade

“Reading Leads to Translating” in a Multilingual Context.

The View from Early Rabbinic Texts (and Beyond) ..... 217

Maren R. Niehoff

Celsus’s Jew in Third-Century Caesarea. Tracing Hellenistic Judaism

in Origen’s Contra Celsum ..... 233

Adele Reinhartz

The Fourth Gospel and the First Century Outreach Campaign

to the Gentiles ..... 251

Adiel Schremer

How Can Rabbinic Narratives Talk History? ..... 267

III. Sociological Models and Ancient Judaism

Former Students in Dialogue

Stéphanie E. Binder

Contre Apion I. 183–205; II. 43. Quelle audience pour les passages attribués à Hécatéé? ..... 299

Shlomit Kendi-Harel

Yom Hakippurim. Day, Year, or Eschatological Jubilee? . . . . . 317

Hillel Newman

Religious Conviction (Religion) and Ethical Practice (Morality)
in a Jewish Group in Antiquity. Strengthening a Sociological Approach . . 341

Samuele Rocca

The Jews among the Middle Ruling Class of Roman Italy?
An Elaboration of a Thesis by Paul Veyne . . . . . 361

V. Epilogue

Elisheva, Shoshana, Margalit, and Naama Baumgarten

Remembering it Well. In Lieu of a Retrospective . . . . . 381

Contributors . . . . . 385

Indices . . . . . 387